PISTOL-TOTER SENDS FOURTH BULLET INTO HIS HEAD AS THREE MEN FALL

One of Four Letters, Revealing Slayer's Wife Had Been Dismissed as Employee of Store Following Picnic, and Man's Recent Loss of Position Believed to Indicate Motive.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 20.—Two men were dead and two were dying in a hospital here today as the result of one of the wildest shooting frays in the history of this city.

The dead are Fred S. Stewart, proprietor of a large downtown shoe company, and Edward C. Riordan, a former employee of Stewart's, who first shot Stewart, S. R. Turner and H. E. Maddux, and then fired a bullet into his head.

Stewart lived only an hour. Turner shot through the abdomen, cannot live, physicians said, while Maddux was said to be dying from wounds in the head and body.

Riordan fired on the men in the Stewart store while it was filled with holiday shoppers.

E. Liverpool Gets $753.68 From Auto License Fund Check

Marking the last automobile license fee settlement for Columbiana county and the various sub-divisions, a check for $753.68 was received yesterday by County Auditor Charles E. Hamilton from Secretary of State Thad S. Brown.

The fund is divided as follows: county share, $817.18; Columbiana, $140.25; East Liverpool, $753.68; East Palestine, $175.11; Hanoverton, $4; Leetonia, $49.56; Lisbon, $125.87; New Waterford, $42.50; Rogers, $16.75; Salem, $315.90; Salineville, $88.22; Washingtonville, $5; Wellsville, $198.92.

POLICE PUT BAN ON ATLAS CLUB

Declaring the place to be a nuisance, Mayor Charles Brown today ordered the closing of the Atlas Club, said to be a social organization, occupying quarters in Washington street. The president of the club informed the authorities that the club's lease on the rooms would be cancelled immediately.

The police ban on the club followed Joseph Armshaw's plea of guilty to a charge of conducting a gambling room, yesterday afternoon. Armshaw, with six other men, charged with playing, was arrested when Patrolmen Haley and McFarland raided the club rooms early Friday morning. Armshaw was fined $100 and costs, while each of the players were assessed $50 and costs each.

Four times since Mayor Brown assumed office this year the club rooms have been raided.

BIG TORONTO POWER PLANT IS LEASED TO PENN-OHIO CO.

Annual Rental of

RECORD PAPERS

Bankers Trust Co.
Trustee Under First Mortgage.

At an annual rental of $1,070,000 the Pennsylvania-Ohio Power and Light Co. has leased the plant of the Ohio River Edison Co., now building near Toronto, and its sub-stations and also the transmission line and rights of way of the Ohio River Transmission Co. It developed today when the lease was recorded at Lisbon.

The lease contains 17 pages of type-written matter. The recorder's office collected a fee of $15.50 for filing the instrument.

It is disclosed in the lease that the Ohio River Edison Co. is a Delaware corporation and that the Ohio River Transmission Co. is an Ohio company. The Bankers Trust Co., of New York is trustee under the first mortgage agreement.

The purpose of the Ohio Transmission Co. is to construct a transmission line.

According to the lease, the Edison company agrees to advance the transmission company funds to build the transmission line, and in turn the transmission company agrees to deliver to the Edison company all of its capital stock with the exception of qualifying shares held by the officers of the transmission interest.

Advance Rental Paid.
The Edison company issued $7,000,000 six per cent bonds and $3,000,000 preferred stock and 150,000 shares of no par value, and this issue was secured by a first mortgage on the property of the company.

As advance rental the Pennsylvania Ohio Power & Light Co. is to pay $630,000 and the annual rental of $1,070,000 is payable to the Ohio River Edison company, in equal installments, the first on April 1, 1925, and monthly thereafter.

NERVE BROKEN

Clay Miner Appears
Crest-fallen as he Leaves Lisbon.

William A. Wolfe, 25, East End clay miner, convicted of second degree murder, will enter the Ohio penitentiary before night to begin serving a life term for slaying Mrs. Flora Dearth, Mulberry street restaurant owner, who was shot down last October 3.

Wolfe, who was found guilty by a jury in common pleas court, Lisbon, Wednesday, left the county jail early today in the custody of Sheriff Gomer E. Lewis. He was taken to Salem in an automobile, and there boarded a train bound for Columbus. The prisoner will be received at the penitentiary during the afternoon, and tonight will sleep in a steel cell behind the stone walls of the institution.

As the "lifer" left the county jail today, he appeared crest-fallen. He had lost the bravado that he maintained during his trial.

Last-minute Move Snatches Ohioan From Death Chair

COLUMBUS, Dec. 20.—Joseph C. Kane, 21, of Youngstown, had a narrow escape from meeting death in the electric chair at the penitentiary early today. Convicted of beating to death eight-year-old Paul Prolonga, at Youngstown, Kane had been sentenced to be electrocuted this morning.

Pending further consideration by the state supreme court of Kane's appeal for reversal of sentence, Chief Justice Marshall Friday noon signed a stay of execution. For some reason, which Justice Marshall is endeavoring to ascertain today, Warden Thomas, of the penitentiary, was not notified. When Justice Marshall late last night learned this, he unsuccessfully tried to communicate with the warden. He finally telephoned Governor Donahue who promptly granted Kane a reprieve until Jan. 5. Official notification of the governor's action was conveyed to Warden Thomas shortly before midnight and arrangements for Kane's execution were halted.

One of Four Letters, Revealing Slayer's Wife Had Been Dismissed as Employee of Store Following Picnic, and Man's Recent Loss of Position Believed to Indicate Motive.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 20.—Two men were dead and two were dying in a hospital here today as the result of one of the wildest shooting frays in the history of this city.

The dead are Fred S. Stewart, proprietor of a large downtown shoe company, and Edward C. Riordan, a former employee of Stewart's, who first shot Stewart, S. R. Turner and H. E. Maddux, and then fired a bullet into his head.

Stewart lived only an hour. Turner shot through the abdomen, cannot live, physicians said, while Maddux was said to be dying from wounds in the head and body.

Riordan fired on the men in the Stewart store while it was filled with holiday shoppers.

E. Liverpool Gets $753.68 From Auto License Fund Check

Marking the last automobile license fee settlement for Columbiana county and the various subdivisions, a check for $753.68 was received yesterday by County Auditor Charles E. Hamilton from Secretary of State Thad S. Brown.

The fund is divided as follows: county share, $817.18; Columbiana, $140.25; East Liverpool, $753.68; East Palestine, $175.11; Hanoverton, $4; Leontia, $49.56; Lisbon, $125.87; New Waterford, $42.50; Rogers, $16.75; Salem, $315.90; Salineville, $88.22; Washingtonville, $5; Wellsville, $198.92.

POLICE PUT BAN ON ATLAS CLUB

Declaring the place to be a nuisance, Mayor Charles Brown today ordered the closing of the Atlas club, said to be a social organization, occupying quarters in Washington street. The president of the club informed the authorities that the club's lease on the rooms would be cancelled immediately.

The police ban on the club followed Joseph Armshaw's plea of guilty to a charge of conducting a gambling room, yesterday afternoon. Armshaw, with six other men, charged with playing, was arrested when Patrolmen Haley and McFarland raided the club rooms early Friday morning. Armshaw was fined $100 and costs, while each of the players were assessed $50 and costs each.

Four times since Mayor Brown assumed office this year the club rooms have been raided.

BIG TORONTO POWER PLANT IS LEASED TO PENN-OHIO CO.

Lessee Will Pay

RECORD PAPERS

Bankers Trust Co.
Mortgage.

At an annual rental of $1,070,000 the Pennsylvania-Ohio Power and Light Co. has leased the plant of the Ohio River Edison Co., now building near Toronto, and its sub-stations and also the transmission line and rights of way of the Ohio River Transmission Co., it developed today when the lease was recorded at Lisbon.

The lease contains 17 pages of typewritten matter. The recorder's office collected a fee of $15.50 for filing the instrument.

It is disclosed in the lease that the Ohio River Edison Co. is a Delaware corporation and that the Ohio River Transmission Co. is an Ohio company. The Bankers Trust Co., of New York is trustee under the first mortgage agreement.

The Ohio River Edison Co. was formed for the purpose of acquiring land and the erecting of a power plant, referred to in the lease as the "initial power plant."

The purpose of the Ohio Transmission Co. is to construct a transmission line.

According to the lease, the Edison company agrees to advance the transmission company funds to build the transmission line, and in turn the transmission company agrees to deliver to the Edison company all of its capital stock with the exception of qualifying shares held by the officers of the transmission interest.

The Edison company issued $7,000,000 six per cent bonds and $3,000,000 preferred stock and 150,000 shares of no par value, and this issue was secured by a first mortgage on the property of the company.

As advance rental the Pennsylvania Ohio Power and Light Co. is to pay $630,000 and the annual rental of $1,070,000 is payable to the Ohio River Edison company, in equal installments, the first on April 1, 1925, and monthly thereafter.

In order to reach the $2,200 quota approximately $350 more must be collected in the Christmas health seal campaign, members of the health committee of the City Federation of women's clubs declared today.

Sales to date total $1,853. The social committee of the East Liverpool country club yesterday purchased a $100 bond from the receipts of card parties held this season.

One more $100 bond, three $50 bonds and several of the $5, $10 and $25 denominations are available. Lodges and individuals, who have not responded to the appeal of the committee, are urged to purchase bonds in order to assist East Liverpool to reach its goal of ten seals per capita.

Schwab Predicts Unprecedented Era Of U. S. Prosperity

Copyright, 1924, by I. N. S.
NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—The United States will be the real workshop of the world, said Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, in outlining for International News Service today the reasons why he looks for a national and general prosperity throughout the United States such as we have not witnessed for several years. Schwab bases his optimistic prediction on six important factors: High wages, good farm prices, economy in production of manufactured articles, the recovery of the railroads, high volume of building and a government on safe and sane lines.

WILLIAM WOLFE GOES TO STATE PENITENTIARY FOR LIFE TERM

Slayer of Mrs. Flora
Dearth on Way to Columbus.

NERVE BROKEN

Clay Miner Appears
Crest-fallen as he Leaves Lisbon.

William A. Wolfe, 25, East End clay miner, convicted of second degree murder, will enter the Ohio penitentiary before night to begin serving a life term for slaying Mrs. Flora Dearth, Mulberry street restaurant owner, who was shot down last October 3.

Wolfe, who was found guilty by a jury in common pleas court, Lisbon, Wednesday, left the county jail early today in the custody of Sheriff Homer E. Lewis. He was taken to Salem in an automobile, and there boarded a train bound for Columbus.

The prisoner will be received at the penitentiary during the afternoon, and tonight will sleep in a steel cell behind the stone walls of the institution.

As the "lifer" left the county jail today, he appeared crest-fallen. He had lost the bravado that he maintained during his trial.

Upon his return to the jail last Wednesday afternoon following the reading of the verdict of the jury, he all but collapsed, it is said.

Last-minute Move Snatches Ohioan From Death Chair

COLUMBUS, Dec. 20.—Joseph C. Kane, 21, of Youngstown, had a narrow escape from meeting death in the electric chair at the penitentiary early today. Convicted of beating to death eight-year-old Paul Prolonga, at Youngstown, Kane had been sentenced to be electrocuted this morning.

Pending further consideration by the state supreme court of Kane's appeal for reversal of sentence, Chief Justice Marshall Friday noon signed a stay of execution. For some reason, which Justice Marshall is endeavoring to ascertain today, Warden Thomas of the penitentiary, was not notified.

When Justice Marshall late last night learned this, he unsuccessfully tried to communicate with the warden. He finally telephoned Governor Donahy who promptly granted Kane a reprieve until Jan. 8. Official notification of the governor's action was conveyed to Warden Thomas shortly before midnight and arrangements for Kane's execution were halted.

MAYOR, SOLONS HOLD PARLEY

Legislative Proposals are Discussed at Conference.

Legislative proposal which will likely be considered during the early part of 1925, was discussed at a conference between members of the city council, Mayor Charles Brown, Solicitor Harry Brook and Safety Director C. E. Anderson, held in the mayor's office last night.

The mayor suggested certain legislation for enactment as a means of strengthening the various municipal departments. In view of the increased tax duplicate, indications are that the city will have more money during 1925 than for several years. Thus the financial handicap, under which the departments have been working, will be removed. The city has not been advised, however, as to the amount which will be available.

First of the legislative suggestions probably will be taken up at the regular meeting of the solons next Friday evening.

Legislation taking over the Conant property at the foot of Broadway as a means of connecting Second street and Broadway and eliminating the Second street grade crossing also will be considered. The Pennsylvania Railroad company, which will buy the Conant property and turn it over to the city, has submitted blue prints of the proposed improvement. The railroad company asks that council enact legislation agreeing to the construction of the street and exempting the company from all assessments.

Councilmen who attended the conference were N. P. Kerr, Raymond Chambers, Thomas Farrall, John Rowe, Fred Eardley, James Larcomb and Charles Hayes.

ASK $100,000 FOR ACCIDENT

Damage Suit Follows Injury of Heckathorn Baby.

The Pennsylvania Railroad company is named today as defendant in a $100,000 damage suit instituted in the United States federal court at Cleveland by the law firm of Clark & Davis, of East Liverpool, in behalf of 19-month-old Joseph Heckathorn, Ohio avenue, who was run down by a C. & P. freight train near the Globe pottery last Sept. 25.

The action was filed in the name of Mrs. Loren Heckathorn, mother of the child, who claims that her son was permanently injured when he was struck by the train at the Globe alley crossing. The petition declares that the child's right arm and hand were badly mangled.

The child and his mother had gone to the Globe pottery where his grandmother, Mrs. William Heckathorn, is employed. Without attracting attention, the youngster slipped from the pottery and is believed to have been on his way across the tracks to a grocery store when he was struck by the train.

He was knocked between the rails and, according to the petition, dragged about 100 feet along the ties. The locomotive and entire string of cars passed over him. He was taken to the City hospital in an automobile, where an examination showed his arm to be lacerated and that he was suffering from a nervous shock.

Cold Weather Next Week in Valley, is Federal Forecast

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The weather bureau today issued the following forecast for next week:

Ohio valley and region of Great Lakes: cold weather practically the entire week. Mostly fair weather is indicated, although there is some probability of snow about the middle of the week.

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—Chicago and the middle west today were firmly in the grip of the cold wave that came out of the northwest and slowly moving eastward to the Atlantic coast with tentacles reaching as far south as Florida.

The storm came roaring into the middle west yesterday and in the 24 hours ending at 3 A. M. today, temperatures throughout the Mississippi valley dropped more than 30 degrees. Sub-zero weather officially reached this city early last night and early today the mercury stood 5 degrees below zero.

Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky were feeling the full force of the storm. Indiana and Ohio traction lines were held up. Bus services were disrupted and steam trains were operating from one to five hours late.

WOMAN SHOT, CUT; MAN IS ACCUSED

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Mrs. Mary Nafsky was found today with a bullet wound in her jaw and her jugular vein severed after police were summoned by Michael Sczur, 48, owner of the apartment where the woman lay.

Mrs. Nafsky charged Sczur with shooting her. He denied the charge. He told police Mrs. Nafsky had quarreled over his refusal to deed her a plot of land in Albany and his threat to leave her and return to his wife who was living in Cleveland with his three children.

Sczur has been separated from his wife for 17 years. He was arrested charged with felonious assault.

January 11 Will be Observed Here as Near East Sunday

Sunday, January 11, probably will be designated as "Near East Sunday" here by members of the East Liverpool Ministerial Association at a meeting in the Y. M. C. A. at 10 o'clock next Monday morning.

James Blythe, New York, a field representative for the Near East Relief organization, who appeared before the ministers at a meeting last Monday evening, asked that permission be given the organization to place speakers in local pulpits on a Sunday early in January, when the need for funds to assist in relief work would be pointed out. Collections and pledges for the relief of the sufferers will be solicited.

The ministers will also discuss a uniform course for students in the classes in Bible instruction which are being conducted each Wednesday.

REBELS GAIN IN ALBANIA

Capture 700 Government Troops—Scutari is Besieged.

BELGRADE, Serbia, Dec. 20.—The Albanian rebels have captured 700 of the government forces, it was reported here today. The insurgents are endeavoring to cut off the government forces, which are said to be in retreat. The government casualties are reported to be heavy.

Scutari, ancient capital of the country, was besieged today, the advances stated, with the federal forces driven from all strategic points except an old citadel capping a height overlooking the city.

The commandant of the town was reported having gone over to the rebels whose front now extends from Krupa to Pishokopeja, it was reported here. The forces under Tsana Bey, one of the rebel leaders were operating in three directions and reinforced by the troops of Ahmed Bey, were closing in on Tirana, the capital city.

It is reported that the cabinet of Bishop Fan Noli, the premier, has urged that the city capitulate.

Alex Jousouf, bolshevik agent, from Vienna was killed in the fighting it was learned here.

ROME, Dec. 20.—Albanian government forces were offering stubborn resistance and were able to hold out against the rebel attack, according to despatches from Tirana today.

AUTO IS STRUCK BY LOCOMOTIVE

A Studebaker touring car, owned by Garfield Moffat, Moore street, was badly damaged when struck by a C. & P. switching engine at the Cherry alley crossing, between Union and Washington streets about 9:30 o'clock this morning.

Cornelius Smith, garage mechanic, of Drury lane, who was driving the car, had taken Mr. Moffat to his work at the Milliron storage house along the river front and was on his way up town when the crash occurred. His view of the approaching locomotive which was traveling eastward, was obstructed.

The engine struck the machine near the front end and pushed it 25 feet up the railroad track. One wheel was wrecked, the top damaged, fenders and running board splintered. Smith suffered laceration about the hands and arms.

British Attitude On Gun Elevation And Armament Firm

LONDON, Dec. 20.—Great Britain's stand on armament and gun elevation as set forth in its note to the United States, is a very firm, International News Service today learned in semi-official circles.

The note is said to have explained to the United States that Great Britain held that, under the Washington treaty, capital ships may not be converted from coal to oil burners, nor, according to the reported text of the note, can the elevation of the main armament of retained capital ships be changed, the British hold that the treaty intended there should be no alteration in gun elevation on existing ships.

The note is a renewal of the protest sent July 50, which was a dual note to the United States and Japan.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The mantle of secrecy that has enveloped the entire question of gun elevation in the American and British navies, is expected to be torn aside within the next few days as a result of Great Britain's sending a note to the United States on the subject.

Stone Joins Farmers In Fight Against Big Packers' Plea

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Attorney General Stone announced today that he would oppose before the United States supreme court the plea of the big packers to have set aside the federal decree prohibiting them from engaging in other lines of business, such as operating grocery stores.

"In view of the way in which this decree was obtained," said Stone in a letter to the Farmers' National Council, "I am deeply interested in having it upheld and I think there are valid legal grounds which can be urged for upholding it."

The Farmers' Council had asked Stone to enlist himself in the fight against annulling the decree.

Spanish King Is Ill.

MADRID, Dec. 20.—King Alfonso was slightly ill today and did not go to his office. His indisposition occasioned no alarm.

I. T. U. PLANS NEW CORRESPONDENCE COURSE IN PRINTING ARTS IN 1925

Union Chieftain Says Resources of Organization Will be Devoted to Extending Work of Educational Bureau.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 20.—Inauguration of a new correspondence course in the printing arts, under direction of a newly organized bureau of education of the International Typographical Union, will take place January 1, according to an announcement by James M. Lynch, president of the union.

The instruction will cover a wider field than was covered by the course until recently conducted from the union's educational quarters in New York City. The new bureau occupies quarters in the international offices here. John H. Chambers of Dayton, O., is the new director of the educational bureau, the teaching staff of which has been enlarged.

Energy and resources of the union will be devoted to extending work of the educational bureau as rapidly as is practical, Mr. Lynch said.

Apprentice Training.

"The newly installed executive council looks upon apprentice training as of vital importance," said Mr. Lynch. "The I. T. U. protective and beneficial institutions, such as the Union Printers Home at Colorado Springs, Colo., mortuary benefit and old age pensions, have accomplished much in strengthening the organization, but future welfare of the union requires elevation of craftsmanship and sound education of succeeding generations of printers."

"Employers do not object to paying good wages to good printers, but they will complain against good wages for incompetent men. The same applies in any other trade. It is our ambition to light the way for other trades in this problem of education."

Under bylaws of the Typographical

Union passage of the course in printing by apprentices is compulsory. They are required to begin their educational work in the third year of their six-year apprenticeship and the work must be completed before they are admitted to membership. The new bureau will provide adequate methods for checking up the progress of each apprentice in his studies and for determining if he has profited by his studies.

In addition to the merely technical operations of the printing craft, the course will carry instruction in English, punctuation, art in its relation to printing, and in advertising composition. The policy of permitting the student to elect subjects, not included in traditional course, will be pursued.

Test Questions Supplied.

"Instructors will endeavor to engage the interest of each student by offering individual attention to his needs and by writing personal letters," said Mr. Chambers. "Whenever possible, too, a 'big brother' for the apprentice will be selected from the printers in the shop where the lad is employed. The 'big brother' will be in correspondence with the bureau and will be advised of the student's progress and of his difficulties from time to time.

"Apprenticeship committees are maintained by local unions and are charged with responsibility for welfare of apprentices. These committees will be provided with all information needed for encouraging progress in studies, and will be expected to see that each apprentice begins the course at the proper time and that he completes it satisfactorily before his admission to the rank of journeyman. While the course is designed for beginners, educational work will be provided also for journeymen, who wish to perfect themselves in advanced phases of the printing art."

Test questions for use in examination of apprentices by local committees will be supplied by the bureau here.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Forward movements in prices of independent steel and equipment stocks featured the short session of the stock market today. Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron, Eastman Kodak and Texas Gulf Sulphur were the most prominent of the specialty stocks, while Studebaker led the Motors in a moderate rally in which that stock again sold at new high prices for 1924.

The steel shares made further response to the progressive increase of steel mill operations and the piling up of orders for next year. The week-end business reviews emphasized the fact that many lines of industry were showing an increase in activity where normally a slowing down is in evidence. Retail distribution of goods was reported at the season's highest volume.

Though the activity of the stock market was not as great as in the last few sessions, the trend of prices was definitely toward higher levels, with speculative interest concentrated on the same stocks that have been featuring the market all this week.

Baldwin Locomotive, Pullman, New York Air Brake and American Locomotive were the most active of the equipment stocks, while Gulf States Steel, Crucible, Republic and Republic led the independent steel shares. Profit taking in the railroad stocks and a few of the industrials accounted for the slight irregular price trend in representative stocks, particularly where the advance had been brisk earlier in the week.

Pan-Americans were the feature of the oils, and most of the independent oil stocks were inclined moderately upward. Mercantile company stocks were inactive but steady.

Franklin and Marshall Passers Take Opener, Score 56-15.

Chester high school basketball team opened the season last evening at Rock Springs park losing to the strong Franklin and Marshall academy team by a score of 56 to 15.

The visitors with Greenspan and Wyant, former local stars and Todd of Wellsville in the lineup proved too much for the locals and won up a big score. The above trio scored 32 points for the winners. The passing of the visitors was a treat to the large crowd in attendance.

Chester high school girls won the preliminary contest from the First Methodist Episcopal Girls team of East Liverpool, score 30 to 19. The local girls led at the end of the first half by a margin of one point but in the second half they rolled up a commanding lead. Miss Paisley starred for Chester while Miss Cochran did the best work for the Pottery City losers.

Bennett scored the first point for Chester on a free throw and the Academy lads scored seven markers before Bennett again found the basket with a goal from the field. The visitors continued to score and the first quarter ended with the score standing 17 to 7 in their favor. The Pennsylvania boys showed to advantage in the second quarter and at the close were leading by a score of 38 to 8. The entire team took part in the scoring. The second period witnessed the visitors piling up their advantage, scoring six points in the third quarter and the balance in the final quarter.

Todd with seven field goals and a foul led the scoring. Wyant shot six double deuckers through the net while Hummel and Hulleberg each scored five times from the field. Greenspan tallied three field goals. Simcox, Paisley and Campbell showed good form for the locals while Myers opposed to Wyant at center put up a fine exhibition. Williams, Johnson, Cox and Tuttle also performed well for Chester.

religious service for the recipients will be conducted at the barracks preceding the distribution. Automobiles will be used in delivering baskets to families who are unable to call for them, Adjutant John Dean said. For families where there are more than seven members, two baskets will be issued. Each order contains sufficient foodstuffs to provide two meals for the ordinary family.

The half way mark in the $3,000 relief fund which the Salvation Army estimates will be required this year, was passed yesterday. Contributions received on the streets, in the potteries and through the mails amounted to $175.68, bringing the total up to $1,584.14.

The committee which has been canvassing the potteries will complete their work next Monday. The kettles will be maintained on the streets up to and including Christmas Eve.

NEGRO SUSPECT WILL BE GRILLED

Deputy Sheriff Merlin Mercer arrested a Negro yesterday between New Cumberland and Weirton on suspicion in connection with the attack on Eva Avana, 17-year-old Weirton girl.

He was lodged in the New Cumberland jail and the girl will make an effort today to identify the man. Chief Brookes of Weirton continued his search yesterday for the girl's assailant, who it is believed made his escape by crossing into Ohio.

AGED WELLSBURG RESIDENT DEAD

Matthew Fleming, 82, retired Brooke county farmer, died at 12:45 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Ohio Valley General hospital, where he was admitted December 14. His death followed a brief illness.

Mr. Fleming was one of the oldest and most widely known residents of Wellsburg. He devoted nearly his entire life to farming and retired because of his advanced years.

Removed To Her Home.

Mrs. Frank Long, who was injured several weeks ago in a street car accident here, was removed yesterday to her home back of the city from Weirton where she has been staying at the home of her daughter. The trip was made in the Arner ambulance. Her condition is still serious.

Chief Seavers Ill.

Chief of Police Brady Seavers is confined to his home in Fairview street with an attack of tonsillitis. He will probably resume his duties Monday.

Linduff Funeral.

Rev. Charles Ewing, pastor of the Bethel Methodist Episcopal church will conduct funeral services tomorrow afternoon for John Linduff at the family home on the Harding road near New Cumberland.

MAYOR, SOLONS HOLD PARLEY

Legislative Proposals are Discussed at Conference.

Legislative proposal which will likely be considered during the early part of 1925, was discussed at a conference between members of the city council, Mayor Charles Brown, Solicitor Harry Brockway and Safety Director C. E. Anderson, held in the mayor's office last night.

The mayor suggested certain legislation for enactment as a means of strengthening the various municipal departments. In view of the increased tax duplicate, indications are that the city will have more money during 1925 than for several years. Thus the financial handicap, under which the departments have been working, will be removed. The city has not been advised, however, as to the amount which will be available.

First of the legislative suggestions probably will be taken up at the regular meeting of the solons next Friday evening.

Legislation taking over the Conant property at the foot of Broadway as a means of connecting Second street and Broadway and eliminating the Second street grade crossing also will be considered. The Pennsylvania Railroad company, which will buy the Conant property and turn it over to the city, has submitted blue prints of the proposed improvement. The railroad company asks that council enact legislation agreeing to the construction of the street and exempting the company from all assessments.

Councilmen who attended the conference were N. P. Kerr, Raymond Chambers, Thomas Farrall, John Rowe, Fred Eardley, James Larcomb and Charles Hayes.

ASK $100,000 FOR ACCIDENT

Damage Suit Follows Injury of Heckathorn Baby.

The Pennsylvania Railroad company is named today as defendant in a $100,000 damage suit instituted in the United States federal court at Cleveland by the law firm of Clark & Davis, of East Liverpool, in behalf of 19-month-old Joseph Heckathorn, Ohio avenue, who was run down by a C. & P. freight train near the Globe pottery last Sept. 25.

The action was filed in the name of Mrs. Loren Heckathorn, mother of the child, who claims that her son was permanently injured when he was struck by the train at the Globe alley crossing. The petition declares that the child's right arm and hand were badly mangled.

The child and his mother had gone to the Globe pottery where his grandmother, Mrs. William Heckathorn, is employed. Without attracting attention, the youngster slipped from the pottery and is believed to have been on his way across the tracks to a grocery store when he was struck by the train.

He was knocked between the rails and, according to the petition, dragged about 100 feet along the ties. The locomotive and entire string of cars passed over him. He was taken to the City hospital in an automobile, where an examination showed his arm to be lacerated and that he was suffering from a nervous shock.

Cold Weather Next Week in Valley, is Federal Forecast

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The weather bureau today issued the following forecast for next week:

Ohio valley and region of Great Lakes: cold weather practically the entire week. Mostly fair weather is indicated, although there is some probability of snow about the middle of the week.

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—Chicago and the middle west today were firmly in the grip of the terrific cold wave that coming out of the northwest was slowly moving eastward to the Atlantic coast with tentacles reaching as far south as Florida.

The storm came roaring into the middle west yesterday and in the 24 hours ending at 3 A. M. today, temperatures throughout the Mississippi valley dropped more than 30 degrees. Sub-zero weather officially reached this city early last night and early today the mercury stood 5 degrees below zero.

Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky were feeling the full force of the storm. Indiana and Ohio traction lines were hard hit. Bus services were disrupted and steam roads were operating trains from one to five hours late.

WOMAN SHOT, CUT; MAN IS ACCUSED

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Mrs. Mary Nafsky was found today with a bullet wound in her jaw and her jugular vein severed after police were summoned by Michael Scur, 48, owner of the apartment where the woman lay. Her condition is critical.

Mrs. Nafsky charged Scur with shooting her. He denied the charge. He told police Mrs. Nafsky had quarreled over his refusal to deed her a plot of land in Albany and his threat to leave her and return to his wife who was living in Cleveland with his three children.

Scur has been separated from his wife for 17 years. He was arrested charged with felonious assault.

January 11 Will be Observed Here as Near East Sunday

Sunday, January 11, probably will be designated as "Near East Sunday" here by members of the East Liverpool Ministerial Association at a meeting in the Y. M. C. A. at 10 o'clock next Monday morning.

James Blythe, New York, a field representative for the Near East Relief organization, who appeared before the ministers at a meeting last Monday evening, asked that permission be given the organization to place speakers in local pulpits on a Sunday early in January, when the need for funds to assist in relief work would be pointed out. Collections and pledges for the relief of the sufferers will be solicited.

The ministers will also discuss a uniform course for students in the classes in Bible instruction which are being conducted each Wednesday.

REBELS GAIN IN ALBANIA

Capture 700 Government Troops—Scutari is Besieged.

BELGRADE, Serbia, Dec. 20.—The Albanian rebels have captured 700 of the government forces, it was reported here today. The insurgents are endeavoring to cut off the government forces, which are said to be in retreat. The government casualties are reported to be heavy.

Scutari, ancient capital of the country, was besieged today, the advances stated, with the federal forces driven from all strategic points except an old citadel capping a height overlooking the city.

The commandant of the town was reported having gone over to the rebels whose front now extends from Krupa to Pishokopeja, it was reported here.

The forces under Tsana Bey, one of the rebel leaders were operating in three directions and reinforced by the troops of Ahmed Bey, were closing in on Tirana, the capital city.

It is reported that the cabinet of Bishop Fan Noli, the premier, has urged that the city capitulate.

Alex Jousouf, bolshevik agent, from Vienna was killed in the fighting it was learned here.

ROME, Dec. 20.—Albanian government forces were offering stubborn resistance and were able to hold out against the rebel attack, according to dispatches from Tirana today.

AUTO IS STRUCK BY LOCOMOTIVE

A Studebaker touring car, owned by Garfield Moffat, Moore street, was badly damaged when struck by a C. & P. switching engine at the Cherry alley crossing, between Union and Washington streets about 9:30 o'clock this morning.

Cornelius Smith, garage mechanic, of Duway lane, who was driving the car, had taken Mr. Moffat to his work at the Milliron storage house along the river front and was on his way up town when the crash occurred. His view of the approaching locomotive which was traveling eastward, was obstructed.

The engine struck the machine near the front end and pushed it 25 feet up the railroad track. One wheel was wrecked, the top damaged, fenders and running board splintered. Smith suffered laceration about the hands and arms.

British Attitude On Gun Elevation And Armament Firm

LONDON, Dec. 20.—Great Britain's stand on armament and gun elevation as set forth in its note to the United States, is very firm, International News Service today learned in semi-official circles.

The note is said to have explained to the United States that Great Britain hold that, under the Washington treaty, capital ships may not be converted from coal to oil burners, nor, according to the reported text of the note, can the elevation of the main armament of retained capital ships be changed, the British hold that the treaty intended there should be no alteration in gun elevation on existing ships.

The note is a renewal of the protest sent July 50, which was a dual note to the United States and Japan.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The mantle of secrecy that has enveloped the entire question of gun elevation in the American and British navies, is expected to be torn aside within the next few days as a result of Great Britain's sending a note to the United States on the subject.

Stone Joins Farmers In Fight Against Big Packers' Plea

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Attorney General Stone announced today that he would oppose before the United States supreme court the plea of the big packers to have set aside the federal decree prohibiting them from engaging in other lines of business, such as operating grocery stores.

"In view of the way in which this decree was obtained," said Stone in a letter to the Farmers' National Council, "I am deeply interested in having it upheld and I think there are valid legal grounds which can be urged for upholding it."

The Farmers' Council had asked Stone to enlist himself in the fight against annulling the decree.

Spanish King Is Ill.

I. T. U. PLANS NEW CORRESPONDENCE COURSE IN PRINTING ARTS IN 1925

Union Chieftain Says Resources of Organization Will be Devoted to Extending Work of Educational Bureau.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 20.—Inauguration of a new correspondence course in the printing arts, under direction of a newly organized bureau of education of the International Typographical Union, will take place January 1, according to an announcement by James M. Lynch, president of the union.

The instruction will cover a wider field than was covered by the course until recently conducted from the union's educational quarters in New York City. The new bureau occupies quarters in the international offices here. John H. Chambers of Dayton, O., is the new director of the educational bureau, the teaching staff of which has been enlarged.

Energy and resources of the union will be devoted to extending work of the educational bureau as rapidly as is practical, Mr. Lynch said.

Apprentice Training.

"The newly installed executive council looks upon apprentice training as of vital importance," said Mr. Lynch. "The I. T. U. protective and beneficial institutions, such as the Union Printers Home at Colorado Springs, Colo., mortuary benefit and old age pensions, have accomplished much in strengthening the organization, but future welfare of the union requires elevation of craftsmanship and sound education of succeeding generations of printers."

"Employers do not object to paying good wages to good printers, but they will complain against good wages for incompetent men. The same applies in any other trade. It is our ambition to light the way for other trades in this problem of education."

Under bylaws of the Typographical

Union passage of the course in printing by apprentices is compulsory. They are required to begin their educational work in the third year of their six-year apprenticeship and the work must be completed before they are admitted to membership. The new bureau will provide adequate methods for checking up the progress of each apprentice in his studies and for determining if he has profited by his studies.

In addition to the merely technical operations of the printing craft, the course will carry instruction in English, punctuation, art in its relation to printing, and in advertising composition. The policy of permitting the student to elect subjects, not included in fundamental course, will be pursued.

Test Questions Supplied.

"Instructors will endeavor to engage the interest of each student by offering individual attention to his needs and by writing personal letters," said Mr. Chambers. "Whenever possible, too, a 'big brother,' for the apprentice will be selected from the printers in the shop where the student is employed. The 'big brother' will be in correspondence with the bureau and will be advised of the student's progress and of his difficulties from time to time."

"Apprenticeship committees are maintained by local unions and are charged with responsibility for welfare of apprentices. These committees will be provided with all information needed for encouraging progress in studies, and will be expected to see that each apprentice begins the course at the proper time and that he completes it satisfactorily before his admission to the rank of journeyman. While the course is designed for beginners, educational work will be provided also for journeymen, who wish to perfect themselves in advanced phases of the printing art."

Test questions for use in examination of apprentices by local committees will be supplied by the bureau here.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

religious service for the recipients will be conducted at the barracks preceding the distribution. Automobiles will be used in delivering baskets to families who are unable to call for them. Adjutant John Dean said. For families where there are more than seven members, two baskets will be issued. Each order contains sufficient foodstuffs to provide two meals for the ordinary family.

The half-way mark in the $3,000 relief fund which the Salvation Army estimates will be required this year, was passed yesterday. Contributions received on the streets, in the potteries and through the mails amounted to $178.68, bringing the total up to $1,584.14.

The committee which has been canvassing the potteries will complete their work next Monday. The kettles will be maintained on the streets up to and including Christmas Eve.

FIREMEN ANSWER THREE ALARMS

The fire department answered three alarms during the last 24 hours.

Slight damage was done to the home of Matt Reese, 772 Maplewood street, yesterday afternoon, when a stove pipe became loosened from the chimney. Another call was received from the home of Matt Branside, Fairview street about 1:30 o'clock this morning, when the floor caught from an open gas stove.

An auto truck, owned by Thomas Coolidge, Bradshaw avenue butcher, was damaged when it caught fire from a short circuit, at the corner of Fifth street and Broadway, Friday afternoon.

CHESTER FLOOR SQUAD DOWNED

Franklin and Marshall Passers Take Opener, Score 56-15.

Chester high school basketball team opened the season last evening at Rock Springs park losing to the strong Franklin and Marshall academy team by a score of 56 to 15.

The visitors with Greenspan and Wyant, former local stars and Todd of Wellsville in the lineup proved too much for the locals and run up a big score. The above trio scored 32 points for the winners. The passing of the visitors was a treat to the large crowd in attendance.

Chester high school girls won the preliminary contest from the First Methodist Episcopal Girls team of East Liverpool, score 30 to 19. The local girls led at the end of the first half by a margin of one point but in the second half they rolled up a commanding lead. Miss Paisley starred for Chester while Miss Cochran did the best work for the Pottery City losers.

Bennett scored the first point for Chester on a free throw and the Acaemy lads scored seven markers before Bennett again found the basket with a goal from the field. The visitors continued to score and the first quarter ended with the score standing 17 to 7 in their favor. The Pennsylvania boys showed to advantage in the second quarter and at the close were leading by a score of 38 to 8. The entire team took part in the scoring. The second period witnessed the visitors piling up their advantage, scoring six points in the third quarter and the balance in the final quarter.

Todd with seven field goals and a foul led the scoring. Wyant shot six double deekers through the net while Hunzler and Hulleberg each scored five times from the field. Greenspan tallied three field goals. Simcox, Pinney and Campbell showed good form for the locals while Myers opposed to Wyant at center put up a fine exhibition. Williams, Johnson, Cox and Tuttle also performed well for Chester.

MAYOR, SOLONS HOLD PARLEY

Legislative Proposals are Discussed at Conference.

Legislative proposal which will likely be considered during the early part of 1925, was discussed at a conference between members of the city council, Mayor Charles Brown, Solicitor Harry Brokaw and Safety Director C. E. Anderson, held in the mayor's office last night.

The mayor suggested certain legislation for enactment as a means of strengthening the various municipal departments. In view of the increased tax duplicate, indications are that the city will have more money during 1925 than for several years. Thus the financial handicap, under which the departments have been working, will be removed. The city has not been advised, however, as to the amount which will be available.

First of the legislative suggestions probably will be taken up at the regular meeting of the solons next Friday evening.

Legislation taking over the Conant property at the foot of Broadway as a means of connecting Second street and Broadway and eliminating the Second street grade crossing also will be considered. The Pennsylvania Railroad company, which will buy the Conant property and turn it over to the city, has submitted blue prints of the proposed improvement. The railroad company asks that council enact legislation agreeing to the construction of the street and exempting the company from all assessments.

Councilmen who attended the conference were: N. P. Kerr, Raymond Chambers, Thomas Farrall, John Rowe, Fred Eardley, James Larcomb and Charles Hayes.

ASK $100,000 FOR ACCIDENT

Damage Suit Follows
Baby.

The Pennsylvania Railroad company is named today as defendant in a $100,000 damage suit instituted in the United States federal court at Cleveland by the law firm of Clark & Davis, of East Liverpool, in behalf of 19-month-old Joseph Heckathorn, Ohio avenue, who was run down by a C. & P. freight train near the Globe pottery last Sept. 25.

The action was filed in the name of Mrs. Loren Heckathorn, mother of the child, who claims that her son was permanently injured when he was struck by the train at the Globe alley crossing. The petition declares that the child's right arm and hand were badly mangled.

The child and his mother had gone to the Globe pottery where his grandmother, Mrs. William Heckathorn, is employed. Without attracting attention, the youngster slipped from the pottery and is believed to have been on his way across the tracks to a grocery store when he was struck by the train.

He was knocked between the rails and, according to the petition, dragged about 100 feet along the ties. The locomotive and entire string of cars passed over him. He was taken to the City hospital in an automobile, where an examination showed his arm to be lacerated and that he was suffering from a nervous shock.

Cold Weather Next Week in Valley, is Federal Forecast

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The weather bureau today issued the following forecast for next week: Ohio valley and region of Great Lakes: cold weather practically the entire week. Mostly fair weather is indicated, although there is some probability of snow about the middle of the week.

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—Chicago and the middle west today were firmly in the grip of the terrific cold wave that coming out of the northwest was slowly moving eastward to the Atlantic coast with tentacles reaching as far south as Florida.

The storm came roaring into the midwest yesterday and in the 24 hours ending at 3 A. M. today, temperatures throughout the Mississippi valley dropped more than 50 degrees. Sub-zero weather officially reached this city early last night and early today the mercury stood 5 degrees below zero.

Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky were feeling the full force of the storm. Indiana and Ohio traction lines were hard hit. Bus services were disrupted and steam roads were operating trains from one to five hours late.

WOMAN SHOT, CUT; MAN IS ACCUSED

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Mrs. Mary Nafsky was found today with a bullet wound in her jaw and her jugular vein severed after police were summoned by Michael Scarz, 48, owner of the apartment where the woman lay. Mrs. Nafsky charged Scarz with shooting her. He denied the charge. He told police Mrs. Nafsky had quarreled over his refusal to deed her a plot of land in Albany and his threat to leave her and return to his wife who was living in Cleveland with his three children.

Scarz has been separated from his wife for 17 years. He was arrested charged with felonious assault.

January 11 Will be Observed Here as Near East Sunday

Sunday, January 11, probably will be designated as "Near East Sunday" here by members of the East Liverpool Ministerial Association at a meeting in the Y. M. C. A. at 10 o'clock next Monday morning.

James Rlythe, New York, a field representative for the Near East Relief organization, who appeared before the ministers at a meeting last Monday evening, asked that permission be given the organization to place speakers in local pulpits on a Sunday early in January, when the need for funds to assist in relief work would be pointed out. Collections and pledges for the relief of the sufferers will be solicited.

The ministers will also discuss a uniform course for students in the classes in Bible instruction which are being conducted each Wednesday.

REBELS GAIN IN ALBANIA

Capture 700 Government Troops—Scu-tari is Besieged.

BEIGRADE, Serbia, Dec. 20.—The Albanian rebels have captured 700 of the government forces, it was reported here today. The insurgents are endeavoring to cut off the government forces, which are said to be in retreat. The government casualties are reported to be heavy.

Scutari, ancient capital of the country, was besieged today, the advances stated, with the federal forces driven from all strategic points except an old citadel capping a height overlooking the city.

The commandant of the town was reported having gone over to the rebels whose front now extends from Krupa to Pishokopeja, it was reported here. The forces under Ismail Bey, one of the rebel leaders were operating in three directions and reinforced by the troops of Ahmed Bey, were closing in on Tirana, the capital city.

It is reported that the cabinet of Bishop Fan Noli, the premier, has urged that the city capitulate.

Alex Jonsouf, bolshevik agent, from Vienna was killed in the fighting it was learned here.

AUTO IS STRUCK BY LOCOMOTIVE

A Studebaker touring car, owned by Garfield Moffat, Moore street, was badly damaged when struck by a C. & P. switching engine at the Cherry alley crossing, between Union and Washington streets about 9:30 o'clock this morning.

Cornelius Smith, garage mechanic, of Drury lane, who was driving the car, had taken Mr. Moffat to his work at the Milliron storage house along the river front and was on his way up town when the crash occurred. His view of the approaching locomotive which was traveling eastward, was obstructed.

The engine struck the machine near the front end and pushed it 25 feet up the railroad track. One wheel was wrecked, the top damaged, fenders and running board splintered. Smith suffered laceration about the hands and arms.

British Attitude On Gun Elevation And Armament Firm

LONDON, Dec. 20.—Great Britain's stand on armament and gun elevation as set forth in its note to the United States, is very firm, International News Service today learned in semi-official circles.

The note is said to have explained to the United States that Great Britain holds that under the Washington treaty, capital ships may not be converted from coal to oil burners, nor, according to the reported text of the note, can the elevation of the main armament of retained capital ships be changed. The British hold that the treaty intended there should be no alteration in gun elevation on existing ships.

The note is a renewal of the protest sent July 50, which was a dual note to the United States and Japan.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—The mantle of secrecy that has enveloped the entire question of gun elevation in the American and British navies, is expected to be torn aside within the next few days as a result of Great Britain's sending a note to the United States on the subject.

Stone Joins Farmers In Fight Against Big Packers' Plea

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Attorney General Stone announced today that he would oppose before the United States supreme court the plea of the big packers to have set aside the federal decree prohibiting them from engaging in other lines of business, such as operating grocery stores.

"In view of the way in which this decree was obtained," said Stone in a letter to the Farmers' National Council, "I am deeply interested in having it upheld and I think there are valid legal grounds which can be urged for upholding it."

The Farmers' Council had asked Stone to enlist himself in the fight against annulling the decree.

Spanish King is Ill.

I. T. U. PLANS NEW CORRESPONDENCE COURSE IN PRINTING ARTS IN 1925

Union Chieftain Says
Resources of Organization Will be Devoted to Extending Work of Educational Bureau.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 20.—Inauguration of a new correspondence course in the printing arts, under direction of a newly organized bureau of education of the International Typographical Union, will take place January 1, according to an announcement by James M. Lynch, president of the union.

The instruction will cover a wider field than was covered by the course until recently conducted from the union's educational bureau in New York City. The new bureau occupies quarters in the international offices here, John H. Chambers of Dayton, O., is the new director of the educational bureau, the teaching staff of which has been enlarged.

Energy and resources of the union will be devoted to extending work of the educational bureau as rapidly as is practical, Mr. Lynch said.

Apprentice Training.
"The newly installed executive council looks upon apprentice training as of vital importance," said Mr. Lynch. "The I. T. U. protective and beneficial institutions, such as the Union Printers Home at Colorado Springs, Colo., mortuary benefit and old age pensions, have accomplished much in strengthening the organization, but future education of the union requires elevation of craftsmanship and sound education of succeeding generations of printers."

"Employers do not object to paying good wages to good printers, but they will complain against good wages for incompetent men. The same applies in any other trade. It is our ambition to light the way for other trades in this problem of education."

Under bylaws of the Typographical Union passage of the course in printing by apprentices is compulsory. They are required to begin their educational work in the third year of their six-year apprenticeship and they are not admitted to membership. The new bureau will provide adequate methods for checking up the progress of each apprentice in his studies and for determining if he has profited by his studies.

In addition to the merely technical operations of the printing craft, the course will carry instruction in English, punctuation, art in its relation to printing, and in advertising composition. The policy of permitting the student to elect subjects, not included in fundamental course, will be pursued.

Test Questions Supplied.
"Instructors will endeavor to engage the interest of each student by offering individual attention to his needs and by writing personal letters," said Mr. Chambers. "Whenever possible, too, a 'big brother' for the apprentice will be selected from the printers in the shop where the lad is employed. The 'big brother' will be in correspondence with the bureau and will be advised of the student's progress and of his difficulties from time to time."

"Apprenticeship committees are maintained by local unions and are charged with responsibility for welfare of apprentices. These committees will be provided with all information needed for encouraging progress in studies, and will be expected to see that each apprentice begins the course at the proper time and that he completes it satisfactorily before his admission to the rank of journeyman. While the course is designed for beginners, educational work will be provided also for journeymen, who wish to perfect themselves in advanced phases of the printing art."

Test questions for use in examination of apprentices by local committees will be supplied by the bureau here.

Though the activity of the stock market was not as great as in the last few sessions, the trend of prices was definitely toward higher levels, with speculative interest concentrated on the same stocks that have been featuring the market all this week.

Baldwin Locomotive, Pullman, New York Air Brake and American Locomotive were the most active of the equipment stocks, while Gulf States Steel, Crucible, Republic and Republic led the independent steel shares. Profit taking in the railroad accounts and a few of the industrial accounts led for the slight irregular price trend in representative stocks, particularly where the advance had been brisk earlier in the week.

Pan-Americans were the feature of the oils, and most of the independent oil stocks were inclined moderately upward. Mercantile company stocks were inactive but steady.

Franklin and Marshall
Passers Take Opener,
Score 56-15.

Chester high school basketball team opened the season last evening at Rock Springs park losing to the strong Franklin and Marshall academy team by a score of 56 to 15.

The visitors with Greenspan and Wyant, former local stars and Todd of Wellsville in the lineup proved too much for the locals and run up a big score. The above trio scored 32 points for the winners. The passing of the visitors was a treat to the large crowd in attendance.

Chester high school girls won the preliminary contest from the First Methodist Episcopal Girls team of East Liverpool, score 30 to 19. The local girls led at the end of the first half by a margin of one point but in the second half they rolled up a commanding lead. Miss Paisley starred for Chester while Miss Cochran did the best work for the Pottery City losers.

Bennett scored the first point for Chester on a free throw and the Academy lads scored seven markers before Bennett again found the basket with a goal from the field. The visitors continued to score and the first quarter ended with the score standing 17 to 7 in their favor. The Pennsylvania boys showed to advantage in the second quarter and at the close were leading by a score of 38 to 8. The entire team took part in the scoring. The second period witnessed the visitors piling up their advantage, scoring six points in the third quarter and the balance in the final quarter.

Todd with seven field goals and a foul led the scoring. Wyant shot six double deuckers through the net while Hunzler and Hulleberg each scored five times from the field. Greenspan tallied three field goals. Simcox, Pinney and Campbell showed good form for the locals while Myers opposed to Wyant at center put up a fine exhibition. Williams, Johnson, Cox and Tuttle also performed well for Chester.

Solo, Oh Night Divine, Mrs. Snediker.

Choir, By Angel and Star.

Choir, Rejoice, Thy Light is Come.

Special musical numbers will be given at both the morning and the evening services in the First Presbyterian church. Rev. F. H. Magill, pastor, will preach on the subject, "Gratitude for God's Unequaled Gift" at the morning services. Following the musical program at evening services, the Sunday school will present a Christmas pageant entitled, "The Shepherd's Vision" in the place of the customary sermon. The pageant will be enacted by a large number of persons in costume. As a part of the program "white gifts for the king" will be tendered by the classes and congregation. These gifts will consist of substance, self and service.

Two Christmas services are also planned at the First Methodist Protestant church. Rev. R. Ernest Games, pastor, will give a sermon on "God's Gift to the World" in the morning following which a program of recitations, dialogues, exercises and songs will be given by the Sunday school. The choir will render a Christmas service of song and song in the evening, entitled "The Star of Glory." Mrs. Olive Cummings will play the organ and Miss Lillian Davis will relate the Christmas story. Musical selections will also be part of the program.

"Regeneration" will be the subject of Rev. Thomas Berger's evening sermon at the Second Presbyterian church. There will be special Christmas music at all services.

Rev. R. W. Ustick, of the United Presbyterian church, will discuss "The Meaning of Christmas" at morning services. Christmas vesper services, for which a special program has been arranged, will start at 5 o'clock.

High school boys divided a double bill with Alumni passers, boys and girls, in the opening games of the local football season last night in the school gymnasium.

High school girls triumphed over the Alumni lassies by the count of 29 to 24 while the high school boys lost to the graduate five, 50 to 40. Both contests developed good basketball.

Orr, with 10 field goals led the Alumni attack. H. Dickey and Shea, forward and center of the school combination, contributed a large portion of the team's points. Pignatore put up a good game at guard. Miss Georgia Weekly was the star of the school girls' team. The lineups:

Girls—

Alumni—

High School—

College Students Home.

Misses Luella and Bessie Thompson and Dorothy Quayle, students at Denison college, are home for the Christmas holidays.

COMMUNITY MEET SUNDAY NIGHT

With the erection of the platform and the installation of wiring circuits, plans for the community Christmas celebration tomorrow evening in the square have been completed by Kiwanis club members, sponsors of the plan said today.

The services will last for half an hour, starting at 8:45, following the close of the regular church services Sunday evening.

Special musical selections under the direction of C. J. Berg will be given by Mrs. L. G. Aughinbaugh, Miss Pauline Berg, Mrs. F. E. Verna, Mrs. Earl Adams, W. R. McDonald, E. L. Kretzer and S. E. Daw.

Completing the erection of the tree, the platform committee, J. A. Forbes, C. J. Vogel, I. P. Mossburg, will erect the platform around the tree.

Rev. R. W. Ustick, chairman of the program committee, today announced the following well arranged numbers for the half hour service which begins promptly at 8:45 o'clock:

Two sacred numbers by American Legion band.

Cornet solo, "Joy to the World"—Prof. Charles Schaefer.

Invocation—Rev. H. W. Stewart.

Community singing, "Silent Night," led by T. C. McClelland.

Scripture reading, "The Christmas Story"—Rev. Frank H. Magill.

Double quartet—Selection from "The Holy Nativity."

Presentation of tree to community—Dr. J. M. King, president Kiwanis club.

Double quartet—"It Came Upon the Midnight Clear."

Ten minute address—Rev. T. G. Berger.

Community singing, "O Come All."

Prayer and benediction—Rev. R. Ernest Games, M. P. church.

Christmas greetings exchange.

LAUNCH REVIVAL SERVICES DEC. 31

Revival meetings in the First Evangelical church will be launched on New Year's eve, according to announcement by Rev. C. W. Johnson, pastor. Miss Anna McGhie of Akron will be the evangelist in charge.

"The Cigarette and Its Effect on the Body and Soul" will be Rev. Johnson's sermon subject Sunday evening. Rev. Johnson says: "I have found a sure cure for the cigarette habit. Any one desiring to quit the cigarette, come and we will tell you of this cure, and give you proof in living witnesses that the remedy will do the work."

A Christmas service, "The Star of Bethlehem," will be given on Christmas eve at 7:30.

The usual order of services will be observed Sunday: Sunday morning prayer meeting at 9; Sunday school at 9:30; morning worship at 11, subject, "Preparing for a Revival;" rehearsal of Christmas services at 2:30 p. m.; Christian Endeavor at 6:30; evangelistic service at 7:30.

Undergoes Operation.

Miss Mildred Baker, daughter of Councilman and Mrs. Clyde Baker, of Sixth street, underwent an operation for appendicitis last night in the East Liverpool city hospital.

Miss Baker, a high school student, suddenly became ill during classes yesterday afternoon. Dr. M. C. Tarr was called to the school building and the girl was taken home, and a short time later removed to the hospital. She is said to be recovering from the effects of the operation.

CLUB OPPOSES GASOLINE TAX

County Motorists Will Protest Ohio Proposal.

The Columbiana County Motor club, which is affiliated with the Ohio State Automobile association and the American Automobile association, has gone on record as being opposed to the bill, which will be presented at the coming session of the legislature, establishing gasoline tax of two cents per gallon.

"Motorists are not demanding that their taxes be reduced but are asking that no further increased taxes be placed upon them," Fred H. Caley, president of the Ohio States association who is leading the fight of organized automobile dealers against the proposed gasoline tax, declares.

"The automobile clubs of Ohio have pioneered for good roads for a quarter of a century," says Mr. Caley. "They still are fighting for better roads but this does not blind them to the fact that there are certain public and general benefits of highway improvement and that those who receive these benefits should pay their just share of the cost of obtaining them."

Government statistics show that motor vehicles are paying a total of 10.3 percent taxes annually on their value. In view of this fact it is absolutely unfair to make the motor vehicle owners stand additional burdens for future highway development.

State Highway Director L. A. Boulay has suggested that a two-cent gasoline tax be levied by the legislature as a means of raising $43,472,390 which he estimates to be the requirements of the state highway department in 1925. Caley points out that on the basis of this estimate motor vehicle owners would pay 37 percent of the total amount of money to be raised for the gigantic road program.

Joint installation of officers of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the women's auxiliary to the brotherhood, will be held this evening in the K. of P. lodgerooms, Fifth and Main streets.

The brotherhood will install the following officers: President, Dan Rose; vice president, A. J. Barry; secretary, R. E. Brown; treasurer, N. E. Ryan.

The auxiliary's officers are: Past President, Martha Gorsuch; president, Ellen Strohl; vice president, Minnie Saint; secretary, Frances Holcomb; treasurer, Frances Webb; chaplain, Mary Roberts; conductress, Maggie Weldon; warden, Sylvia Jernigan; inner guard, Mary Lazarus; outer guard, Mrs. James Cunningham.

The following program will be given following the installation:

Selection by male quartet—Charles Driggs, John Good, Lawrence Smith and Gene Jones.

Reading—Dorothy Maxine Miller.

Whistling solo—Ruth Henthorne.

Will Hold Joint Installation

AMERICAN THEATRE

4 Days Starting Monday

MARION DAVIE'S BEST

ROLE IS IN "YOLANDA"

Cosmopolitan Star Again Appears in a Charles Major Romance of Ancient France, Supported by a Great Case of Stars.

The first Marion Davies picture to be released since "Little Old New York," in which she achieved one of the biggest successes in the history of motion pictures, is a screen version of Charles Major's romance of the daughter of Charles the Bold, Prince of Burgundy, "Yolanda." This photoplay has been booked for a four days' showing at the American theatre and will have its initial screening on Monday. It was in another picture made from a novel by Charles Major, "When Knighthood Was in Flower," that Miss Davies made her big leap into the front rank of picture stars of the day. In "Yolanda" she reveals a charm of personality, a resourcefulness in technique, a mastery of pantomime that even surpasses her work in "Little Old New York" and "Knighthood."

Prayer and benediction—Rev. R. Ernest Games, M. P. church.
Christmas greetings exchange.

LAUNCH REVIVAL SERVICES DEC. 31

Revival meetings in the First Evangelical church will be launched on New Year's eve, according to announcement by Rev. C. W. Johnson, pastor. Miss Anna McGhie of Akron will be the evangelist in charge.

"The Cigarette and Its Effect on the Body and Soul" will be Rev. Johnson's sermon subject Sunday evening. Rev. Johnson says: "I have found a sure cure for the cigarette habit. Any one desiring to quit the cigarette, come and we will tell you of this cure, and give you proof in living witnesses that the remedy will do the work."

A Christmas service, "The Star of Bethlehem," will be given on Christmas eve at 7:30.

The usual order of services will be observed Sunday: Sunday morning prayer meeting at 9; Sunday school at 9:30; morning worship at 11, subject, "Preparing for a Revival;" rehearsal of Christmas services at 2:30 p. m.; Christmas Endeavor at 6:30; evangelistic service at 7:30.

Undergoes Operation.
Miss Mildred Baker, daughter of Councilman and Mrs. Clyde Baker, of Sixth street, underwent an operation for appendicitis last night in the East Liverpool city hospital.

Miss Baker, a high school student, suddenly became ill during classes yesterday afternoon. Dr. M. C. Tarr was called to the school building and the girl was taken home, and a short time later removed to the hospital. She is said to be recovering from the effects of the operation.

CLUB OPPOSES GASOLINE TAX

County Motorists Will Protest Ohio Proposal.

The Columbiana County Motor club, which is affiliated with the Ohio State Automobile association and the American Automobile association, has gone on record as being opposed to the bill, which will be presented at the coming session of the legislature, establishing gasoline tax of two cents per gallon.

"Motorists are not demanding that their taxes be reduced but are asking that no further increased taxes be placed upon them," Fred H. Caley, president of the Ohio States association who is leading the fight of organized automobile dealers against the proposed gasoline tax, declares.

"The automobile clubs of Ohio have pioneered on good roads for a quarter of a century," says Mr. Caley. "They still are fighting for better roads but this does not blind them to the fact that there are certain public and general benefits of highway improvement and that those who receive these benefits should pay their just share of the cost of obtaining them."

"Government statistics show that motor vehicles are paying a total of 10.3 cents gasoline annually on their value. In view of this fact it is absolutely unfair to make the motor vehicle owners stand additional burdens for future highway development."

State Highway Director L. A. Boulay has suggested that a two-cent gasoline tax be levied by the legislature as a means of raising $43,472,390 which he estimates to be the requirements of the state highway department in 1925. Caley points out that on the basis of this estimate motor vehicle owners would pay 37 percent of the total amount of money to be raised for the gigantic road program.

Reading—Mrs. Alice Doemer. Selection by quartet.
Reading—Mrs. Walter Weldon. Address—S. W. Crawford.
Refreshments will be served at the close of the program by a committee of young women of the auxiliary.

Zelner Infant Dead.
Harold Eugene, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Zelner, of Lincoln avenue, died Thursday evening at the family residence after a two weeks' illness.
Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 7 o'clock at the residence. Burial will be made in St. Elizabeth cemetery.

Do authors become so involved in their world of fiction that they fail to keep in touch with the real persons about them? Do they pour all their romance into book form and have none left for their own wives? In "The Fast Set," William de Mille's latest Paramount picture which opens Monday at the Ceramic theatre, Elliott Dexter appears in a role which gives support to the contention that to an author a manuscript is more real than life itself.

Clara Beranger, who wrote the screen play from Frederick Lonsdale's stage play, "Spring Cleaning," calls him—

"A successful novelist who provides everything but romance."

In an opening scene Dexter is shown dusting cigar ashes from his manuscript with his wife's silk scarf. It symbolizes his blindness for the charms of his wife, the role played with fine touches by Betty Compson.

When a philanderer playfully touches the scarf, however, the author becomes indignant. The presence of "the great lover," a role in which Adolphe Menjou is ideally cast, arouses the novelist out of his work of make-believe into the realm of actualities.

AMERICAN THEATRE 4 Days Starting Monday MARION DAVIE'S BEST ROLE IS IN "YOLANDA"

Cosmopolitan Star Again Appears in a Charles Major Romance of Ancient France, Supported by a Great Case of Stars.

The first Marion Davies picture to be released since "Little Old New York," in which she achieved one of the biggest successes in the history of motion pictures, is a screen version of Charles Major's romance of the daughter of Charles the Bold, Prince of Burgundy, "Yolanda." This photoplay has been booked for a four days' showing at the American theatre and will have its initial screening on Monday. It was in another picture made from a novel by Charles Major, "When Knighthood Was in Flower," that Miss Davies made her big leap into the front rank of picture stars of the day. In "Yolanda" she reveals a charm of personality, a resourcefulness in technique, a mastery of pantomime that even surpasses her work in "Little Old New York" and "Knighthood."

The philanderer's attentions anger the novelist, and he finally plays a trump card to win back the woman he loves; he invites a social outcast to sit with his wife and friends at a dinner party.

In "The Fast Set" the producer-director and the scenarist have introduced many delightful touches similar to the use of the scarf. The script of the screen play is considered one of the finest of its kind—telling in deft pictorial form a dramatic story which relied upon brilliant dialogue in its stage form.

In the featured cast with Miss Compson, Adolphe Menjou and Elliott Dexter, is ZaSu Pitts as the human pawn.

Attempting to shoot a buck along the wayside recently a clergyman of Rhodea missed the animal and shot and killed a mother and baby.

One mail sorter in the New York postoffice has sorted as many as 88 letters a minute.

BRIGHT SPOT IN DAYS NEWS

Chasing balls has become an added duty of Cincinnati motorcycle patrolmen.

Escaping from a slaughter pen of a packing plant, a large, ferocious-looking bull dashed down a side street, with two motorcycle cops in pursuit.

Not having lariats, the police-men could only follow the animal. Suddenly he changed his course and headed for the railroad yards where after being unable to shove a freight aside, the beast climbed into a box car.

The cops clamped the door and sent for a cowpuncher to take the bull in tow.

Plans for the electrification of Palestine by raising the level of the Sea of Galilee and harnessing the Jordan river are being considered.

Labor's New Chieftain

An Ohioan is the new leader of the American Federation of Labor.

William Green, of Coshocton, a coal miner, who has been active in labor circles since he reached his maturity, was yesterday elected by the executive council to fill the term of the late Samuel Gompers, which was to have expired on January 1, 1926.

The new chieftain, who has been secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers of America since 1913, and who was serving as fourth vice president of the Federation when called to the presidency, is well known among members of the National Brotherhood of Operative Pottery. He is recognized as a man without an enemy in labor movements.

President Green is a conservative. He has the reputation of a conciliator. He was instrumental in putting the mine run law through the Ohio senate, of which he was a member for two terms and was at one time its president. He is the author of the Ohio workmen's compensation act.

And, too, he is a self-made man. Although the youngest of six children, born of High and Jane Green, who came from Wales, his services were needed to bolster the family exchequer, and he was forced to quit school at the age of 16 and enter the mines.

In 1900, Sub-district No. 6 of the mine workers, recognizing his ability, elected him its president. He served five years and in 1906 was elected president of the Ohio United Mine Workers, and twice was re-elected. Since then his rise in labor circles has been rapid.

Mr. Green is a Democrat in politics. He served on the labor commission at the peace conference in Paris. He attended the Democratic national conventions at Baltimore and San Francisco, and he was one of the four members of the executive council of the Federation who opposed ratification of La Follette in the recent presidential campaign. He has always opposed recognition of Soviet Russia and has frowned on all radical proposals.

As a co-worker in the labor movement remarked when Green was chosen as labor's chieftain, "he is honest—a fighter—and a man of great ability."

Truth About George

While the International Benjamin Franklin society is rising courageously to the defense of the kite-key-lightning story, the George Washington-Sulgrave society is rising as courageously to attack "many of the Washington myths."

The cherry tree myth is to be the first to go. It is to be cut down with cold facts. It is worse for children to think of the Little George Washington as a truth-telling tree-destroyer than as a possibly fibbing conversationist. "We want to show that he was a real boy and a real man, not a sanctimonious sissy," an officer of the society is quoted as saying.

The perennial agitation for abolishing American mythology seems a little amusing. Yet there are probably enough interesting truths about Benjamin Franklin, George Washington and other shining lights of American history to make up for the loss of such time-tried tales as that of the cherry tree and the "discovery" of lightning.

On the other hand, if these charming anecdotes have no basis in fact, neither do they do any particular harm. They may even have formed a useful introduction to American history, just as the Santa Claus of childhood is a very happy introduction to the loveliness of unselfish giving.

Whatever happens to any historical myths, however, the agitation about them is probably worth while if it helps to spread around the realization that history does not need to be one-sided or sugar-coated. The things for which Washington is honored and revered today remain worthy, regardless of any gossip about his childhood or adult shortcomings.

A very black little girl made her way into the presence of the lady of the house, and with much embarrassment, but very clearly, explained who she was, and what her mission:

"Please, mum, I've Obella. I've Obella washer-woman's little girl, an' mama, she sent me to say, would you please to len' her a dime. She got to pay some bills."

THE FOOD VALUE OF MEAT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Claims of vegetarians that their cult is greatly on the increase and that more and more people are coming to accept the truth of the statement that human beings have absolutely no physiological need for meat have stirred leaders in the meat industry to combat lest the public be given erroneous impressions of the true food value of meat.

C. Robelt Moulton, director of the bureau of nutrition of the institute of American meat packers, is one of the first of the experts to rally to the defense of the meat-eaters and those who supply them with a substantial portion of their diet. He says it is quite true that there is no absolute physiological need for meat, but he adds that the same thing might have been stated concerning another food.

"There is no physiological need for any other single food," says Dr. Moulton. "However, there are many reasons why we shall continue to use meat in the diet."

One of the leading authorities quoted by the vegetarians is the famous Danish dietetic expert, Hindhede, who directed the distribution of food in Denmark during the war, and who has said that the necessity for a large amount of proteins is vastly over-estimated, and that in reality very little protein is needed in the normal diet.

"The experiments by Hindhede in Denmark have covered too short a proportion of the life span of man to be of significance," says Dr. Moulton. "During the same years covered by the Danish experiment, public health and preventive medicine have taught us many things and we have learned much about the value of vitamins and mineral matter in the diet. The results of the Danish experiment could have been due just as well to these other factors as to the use of a milk and vegetable diet."

"Experiments of this sort, to be conclusive, need to be carried on over a period of several generations to show the full effects upon the race. Hindhede's experiments have been relatively short, but man's successful experience with meat, which dates from time immemorial, has been of long enough duration to show that he thrives on it."

"There should be no confusion between an anti-flesh diet and a vegetarian diet. A vegetarian diet is entirely inadequate. It is made adequate by the use of milk, eggs or other animal foods. This fact is recognized today by most nutrition authorities."

DISCARD THE OLD BELIEF

The Chicago expert insists that modern scientific medicine has proved beyond a doubt that such is well protected against bacterial invasions and the due to any article of diet such as meat, but are due to bacterial infections, exposure, over-eating, or other strain upon the organs as a result of some disease. He says that the old belief that certain products in meats are toxins and that they are of significance in the causation of bodily ills must be discarded in the light of recent evidence. The body is well protected against bacterial invasions and the invasions of so-called toxins produced from proteins in the digestive tract.

"There are certain reasons besides economic reasons why meat will continue to find a place in the diet," argues Dr. Moulton. "It provides protein of as high value and in greater quantity than that found in milk and eggs, is a richer source of iron than milk and whole egg, and makes a greater appeal to the appetite than either of these foods. The meats containing appreciable amounts of fat are much richer sources of energy than milk or eggs. The work of Dr. Whipple at Rochester, N. Y., has shown that meat, and especially liver and kidney, are much more valuable for building good red blood than are milk or eggs."

Proponents of the theory that meat is a highly desirable if not physiologically necessary part of human diet assert that there are dangers attached to a low protein diet such as that advocated by Hindhede. Although it is true that man can get along at least for short periods of time on as little as 40 grams of protein a day, they say it has not been shown that such an amount would supply his needs for long periods of time.

Dr. J. J. R. MacLeod, of Toronto, is cited as another authority who has definitely shown that low protein consumption is not conducive to good health, but that it really makes the person who attempts it more susceptible to disease.

In other words, it is claimed, a reasonable excess of protein over the minimum aids the body in defending itself against disease.

INCLUDING THE SCANDINAVIAN

In his argument Dr. Moulton includes the Scandinavian, as do copyright announcements, saying that it has been shown by various Scandinavian investigators that a relatively high protein diet is required in order to effect the production of milk in proper quantity by milk producing animals. Among these investigators are Mollgaard, Hansen and Isaacson. This work is said to have been confirmed by Dr. Hoobler, of Detroit, working with human beings, and investigations now under way in the department of physiology at Ohio State university show that certain foods, especially those high in protein, are conducive to vigor and muscular activity on the part of the animal eating such foods.

"When we speak of high protein diets," explains Dr. Moulton, "we mean diets which provide protein to the extent of 15 to 20 per cent of the total energy of the diet. Most nutrition experts in this country advise for the average person a proportion of 10 to 15 per cent. The Hindhede diet has reduced this to about 5 per cent. In advocating a diet containing 10 to 15 per cent of the energy in the form of protein we are not advocating a high protein or a high meat diet."

These experts in dietetics not only inform the world that meat has its place in the well regulated diet, they go farther and tip the public off as to the kinds of meat to use. E. B. Forbes is authority for the statement that the real meat problem, for the consumer, is simply one of wise buying and skillful preparation. For practical purposes, he says, the different cuts of meat have about the same nutritive value, and differences in prices of different cuts of the same grade express principally differences in ease of preparation, especially the amount of cooking required.

"The best bargains, for those who are sufficiently interested to bestow some thought and skill to the preparation of the meat, are the forequarter cuts, other than the rib, and the less expensive cuts of the hindquarter," says Mr. Forbes. "These parts require longer cooking than the loin, and may be economically prepared by cooking in a kettle with a tight lid, over a very slow fire. Special mention should also be made of the liver, kidney, heart, sweetbread and brain, which, as a group, stand in a new light as a result of recent research. By virtue of the superior quality of their proteins and the abundance of their vitamins they are, nutritively, the choicest of meats."

"The whole meat question boils down to this thought—that we have many good reasons for regarding meat highly, and we have no reason for departing from the general habit as to meat eating which our own practical experience has led us to adopt. The prevailing faults of diet in the United States are most readily remedied by improved selection of the vegetable components."

No Sale but a Profit.

A farmer entered a hardware store and exhibited an enormous egg, about six inches long, which he declared had been laid by one of his own hens.

The dealer examined it with the rest, and then said: "Pshaw! I've got something in the egg line that will beat that."

"I'll bet you a dollar you haven't," said the farmer.

"Right," replied the merchant; and going behind the counter, he brought out a wire egg-beater. Good!

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By ALICE LANGELIER.

PARIS, Dec. 20.—Decidedly the Russians in Paris are unfortunate. After robbing them of their homes, their jewels and fine arts, the Bolsheviks are threatening even to deprive them of the church and religion.

The little Russian church in the Rue Daru, a beautiful miniature of the cathedral in Moscow, has been sequestered and the court has been called upon to settle the affair. Russian residents in the French capital affirm that the Soviets have no right to the church, which was built by the generosity of Nicholas II and the Russians in Paris. The government of the Soviets demands the nationalization of the church and property, as was done in Vienna, Rome and Berlin, where the church was transformed into offices. Copenhagen alone has retained its Russian church by the decision of the civil court.

If the courts decide that the church be given over to the Soviets it is possible that it will become the annex of the Soviet embassy, lately installed in the city. It may even be used for some of the Russian exhibits at the exposition of decorative arts, which is to be held in 1925, inasmuch as there is little time left to construct a building large enough for the proposed exhibits. One objection to this plan is the distance of the church from the ensemble of exposition buildings, but this would not be serious enough to cause the rejection of the plan, say the Soviets.

"The faithful," in this case, will take over a church of the German Lutheran mission, which has been sequestered since 1914 and lately been bought by the committee of American Protestants. It will take the name of "Saint-Serge," with the religious ceremonies on the first floor and an orthodox ecclesiastical academy below. And Sunday morning will find the great crowd of forlorn exiles praying on their knees and singing their familiar chants which make the Russian church almost a show-place of Paris.

The "Fricassee" is being featured in Filmland near Paris. No, it has nothing to do with chickens or the leftovers of a Thanksgiving dinner. Far removed from the familiar shakings of the shimmy and the furious fox-trots of the present day, the "fricassee" is really a lively washerwoman's jig that was popular in the days of the French Revolution.

In the new film "Madame Sans-Gene," which is being made at the Joinville studio, near Paris, the celebrated washerwoman, Madame Sans-Gene, dances the "fricassee" with Sergeant Lefebvre, whom she fell in love at a Revolutionary ball. It is much like an old folk dance, with slappings of the hands, to the right and to the left, swift whirls to one side and to the other, spinning and swinging, and finally ending in each dancer giving the other a pinch of snuff and the dance breaking up in a great sneeze which starts all the others to moving.

Four hundred persons are in the dance scene, all in costumes which are exact copies of originals or paintings in government archives. "Vauxhall," the scene of the ball, has been constructed from old pictures and engravings borrowed from the Musée Carnavalet and other historical houses of Paris. The "Vauxhall" took its name from the famous ballroom of the new Spring gardens in London which served as a model for many similar places that spring up in Paris during the eighteenth century. They were usually located in the midst of an open garden, a kind of "White City" with many amusements like merry-go-rounds and primitive roller-coasters.

WHO'S WHO

W. H. McMASTER.

South Dakota's new senator-elect, W. H. McMaster, won his senatorial seat in one of the hottest fights waged in the states where togas were vacant. But the close fight was not a new ordeal to McMaster. His friends point out that every office he has held since he was first elected as a member of the lower house in congress from Yankton county, South Dakota, has been gained by a bitter struggle.

McMaster started life as a newsboy. Helped earn his way through grammar and high school and college, and then went into a country bank, later became one of its officers.

After serving a term in the house, McMaster ran for state senator and was elected by a close vote. Then he ran for lieutenant governor and later governor, winning both seats by narrow margins. He is a Republican.

ON AMERICAN MOUNTAINS

On the Southern Pacific Limited, eastbound from San Francisco, Dec. 20.—This train carries you along the top of American mountains, everything covered with snow, height above sea level ranging from 4,000 to 7,000 feet.

Where the train screeches by, startling heavy cattle, the old emigrant trail may be seen, leading up from Gravelly ford on the Humboldt river, stands a trail, slowly, painfully with their ox carts, their wives and children, men traveled in 1849.

It was only 75 years ago when the first gold seeking immigrants came to that ford in the river, watching for Shoshone and Plute Indians, children playing and laughing in the jolting wagons, the women going because the men wanted to go, the men plodding on because there was gold ahead.

THE GRAVE NEAR THE HANGAR

Looking in the window first to the right, a little later to the left, you realize that this earth moves rapidly, with science pushing it ahead.

To the right between Cluro and Beowawe, on a low point running into the Humboldt river, stands a white cross. On one side is written "The Maiden's Grave," on the other the young girl's name, "Lucinda Duncan." She is said to be the first white girl who died in the emigrant rush, not killed by the Indians, but loneliness.

As you reach Elko you see on the left a hangar, with relays of flying machines ready. There United States mail carriers land and find a fresh machine to carry the mail bags on.

And there the pony mail riders of old stop and changed their mail pouches to fresh ponies.

NO PLACE FOR WINNEMUCCA

The days of emigrant ox cart, stage coach, fighting Plutes and Shoshones and the days of romance are gone. The proud citizen who gets on at Beowawe directs your particular attention to the local power plant sending energy in all directions, notably to the Buckhorn mines, 37 miles away, "with $7,000,000 worth of gold ore in sight."

Real gold in sight is the thing in our practical day. The fighting Winnemucca of the Plutes would find this country once divided between his Indians and the Shoshones, no place now for an Indian chief. White men are building houses, harnessing waterfalls, digging holes in the ground for gold, silver, copper. Cattle of strange, of foreign breeds are fenced in. You may not kill and eat them. The horses, big and heavy, are also within fences. Freedom is gone, from animals and Indians.

But there is enough romance left for the eastern palaface. You look into a deep hole, 40 feet below the ground, where the track crosses a stream. On the edge of the hole a concrete mixer is at work and below 20 men are preparing foundations for a new bridge. Just beyond the deep snow is the group of flat tents in which the workers sleep.

There is romance in that, the romance of the science of engineering at work in this country, which was prepared 500,000,000 years ago, as a home for flying men.

Your great grandchildren will know these mountains, valleys and rivers by actual seeing from above, as well as children of today know some nearby resort.

In generations to come, men and governments more nearly civilized will allow no children to develop stunted bodies and deformed minds in city slums. They will fly to this country, to these high lands of Nevada, New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, to all parts of this American mountain paradise of health and beauty.

Here they will develop into real men and women. The United States will breed its own strong people no longer depending on Europe as it does now for constant supplies of fresh blood.

These Americans will supply the fresh blood and men grown here will supply the workers, no handlers of picks and shovels, but workers with brains and machines.

front seat of her father's motor car. At ten she took her first train journey. When they made the first stop she looked surprised.

Leading out of the window, she inquired anxiously of the conductor, who had just swung himself off the steps: "What's the matter? Killed your engine?"

Although he was a particularly long-suffering parent, there were times when his nerves gave out under the fire of the innumerable questions of his small son.

One evening as he was settling down to a quiet perusal of his paper a small voice piped, "Dad, am I made of dust?"

"I think not," was the weary reply, "otherwise you would dry up now and again."

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—We hear much prattle of struggling genius gnawing at the crust in New York attics, yet there is no city in the world where so many sudden windfalls come to starving talent as here.

Not many months ago a rich New Yorker stumbled upon an invention that he saw at once had millions. He arranged for its manufacture and then selected a painter, a writer and a sculptor for a share in the profits.

He advanced them money to buy the stocks and permitted them to repay him in dividends. They are now assured of incomes of $15,000 a year and will be able to study abroad, live in comfort and do the things they desire to do free of poverty's restraint.

There are any number of women in New York who have several young girls in Europe studying music and painting at their expense. These proteges come always from tenement homes of drug-ery.

Just a year ago a penniless youth named Schwartz was found in a skylight room in the Chelsea district. He went forth to Rome with the Tiffany prize to pursue his studies in plenty. He might have remained at the cross roads all his life in obscurity.

There are men and women of wealth who comb the Greenwich Village garrets for sparks of genius. Their ego is flattered by giving them a chance and afterward pointing to them as "My proteges!" Six violinists of renown have been made famous in this manner.

When the Prince of Wales visited America last summer he danced several times at a Long Island house party with a beautifully educated young lady who eight years before that time was playing hopscotch on the East Side pavements with slum children. A Lady Bountiful was attracted to her and her future was secure.

For many months he has been sitting in an invalid's chair off Broadway with a sign hanging about his neck reading: "I Am An Invalid." He has the pale languor of one who has suffered. I talked to him. He is one of those scorched in the White Way's consuming flame. He had money and went the pace and wrecked his health. Hundreds had passed him, he said, who were his companions in carousing days and nights when he paid all the checks. "But they don't recognize me now," he added.

It is said that a certain smart dressmaking establishment is really a camouflaged dope parlor and that the long line of limousines do not empty fashionably dressed buyers of gowns but drug addicts. Outside it has the appearance of those residences converted to salons in the dressmaking district. There is a large reception room, marble stairways and chandeliers dripping with cut glass. There are mannish, too, and a display of many smart gowns and millinery. It is said, however, that the initiated merely make a gesture of buying there and when the coast is clear take a tiny elevator to the top floor where there are opium layouts and all the other accessories of the "dopes."

Dinty Moore's cafe is near the Globe theater. It is the haunt of chorus ladies, race track followers and the sporty element of Broadway. There is no show but in my opinion it is one of the world's best eating places and I have lifted the napkin in some of the most famous here and abroad. Until one has partaken of Dinty's rice pudding with currants and heavy thick cream he has not eaten. And if this is a blurb for Dinty he deserves it. Good food is entirely too rare here.

I was interested to see what price a manicure girl would charge a one armed young man in a barber shop. But he forestalled me. Evidently he was a steady patron. He said good naturedly: "You've got a nerve charging me full price for a manicure especially when I get a manicure every day." Copyrighted, 1924, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

Labor's New Chieftain

An Ohioan is the new leader of the American Federation of Labor.

William Green, of Coshocton, a coal miner, who has been active in labor circles since he reached his maturity, was yesterday elected by the executive council to fill the term of the late Samuel Gompers, which was to have expired on January 1, 1926.

The new chieftain, who has been secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers of America since 1913, and who was serving as fourth vice president of the Federation when called to the presidency, is well known among members of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters. He is recognized as a man without an enemy in labor movements.

President Green is a conservative. He has the reputation of a conciliator. He was instrumental in putting the mine run law through the Ohio senate, of which he was a member for two terms and was at one time its president. He is the author of the Ohio workmen's compensation act.

And, too, he is a self-made man. Although the youngest of six children, born of High and Jane Green, who came from Wales, his services were needed to bolster the family exchequer, and he was forced to quit school at the age of 16 and enter the mines.

In 1900, Sub-district No. 6 of the mine workers, recognizing his ability, elected him its president. He served five years and in 1906 was elected president of the Ohio United Mine Workers, and twice was re-elected. Since then his rise in labor circles has been rapid.

Mr. Green is a Democrat in politics. He served on the labor commission at the peace conference in Paris. He attended the Democratic national conventions at Baltimore and San Francisco, and he was one of the four members of the executive council of the Federation who opposed ratification of La Follette in the recent presidential campaign. He has always opposed recognition of Soviet Russia and has frowned on all radical proposals.

As a co-worker in the labor movement remarked when Green was chosen as labor's chieftain, "he is honest—a fighter—and a man of great ability."

Truth About George

While the International Benjamin Franklin society is rising courageously to the defense of the kite-key-lightning story, the George Washington-Sulgrave society is rising as courageously to attack "many of the Washington myths."

The cherry tree myth is to be the first to go. It is to be cut down with cold facts. It is worse for children to think of the Little George Washington as a truth-telling tree-destroyer than as a possibly fibbing conversationist. "We want to show that he was a real boy and a real man, not a sanctimonious sissy," an officer of the society is quoted as saying.

The perennial agitation for abolishing American mythology seems a little amusing. Yet there are probably enough interesting truths about Benjamin Franklin, George Washington and other shining lights of American history to make up for the loss of such time-tried tales as that of the cherry tree and the "discovery" of lightning.

On the other hand, if these charming anecdotes have no basis in fact, neither do they do any particular harm. They may even have formed a useful introduction to American history, just as the Santa Claus of childhood is a very happy introduction to the loveliness of unselfish giving.

Whatever happens to any historical myths, however, the agitation about them is probably worth while if it helps to spread around the realization that history does not need to be one-sided or sugar-coated. The things for which Washington is honored and revered today remain worthy, regardless of any gossip about his childhood or adult shortcomings.

A very black little girl made her way into the presence of the lady of the house, and with much embarrassment, but very clearly, explained what she was, and what her mission:

"Please, mum, I've come to say to you, would you please tell her a dime. She got to pay some bills."

THE FOOD VALUE OF MEAT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Claims of vegetarians that their cult is greatly on the increase and that more and more people are coming to accept the truth of the statement that human beings have absolutely no physiological need for meat have stirred leaders in the meat industry to combat lest the public be given erroneous impressions of the true food value of meat.

C. Robert Moulton, director of the bureau of nutrition of the institute of American meat packers, is one of the first of the experts to rally to the defense of the meat-eaters and those who supply them with a substantial portion of their diet. He says it is quite true that there is no absolute physiological need for meat, but he adds that the same thing might have been stated concerning another food.

"There is no physiological need for any other single food," says Dr. Moulton. "However, there are many reasons why we shall continue to use meat in the diet."

One of the leading authorities quoted by the vegetarians is the famous Danish dietetic expert, Hindhede, who directed the distribution of food in Denmark during the war, and who has said that the necessity for a large amount of proteins is vastly over-estimated, and that in reality very little protein is needed in the normal diet.

"The experiments by Hindhede in Denmark have covered too short a proportion of the life span of man to be of significance," says Dr. Moulton. "During the same years covered by the Danish experiment, public health and preventive medicine have taught us many things and we have learned much about the value of vitamins and mineral matter in the diet. The results of the Danish experiment could have been due just as well to these other factors as to the use of a milk and vegetable diet."

"Experiments of this sort, to be conclusive, need to be carried on over a period of several generations to show the full effects upon the race. Hindhede's experiments have been relatively short, but man's successful experience with meat, which dates from time immemorial, has been of long enough duration to show that he thrives on it."

"There should be no confusion between an anti-flesh diet and a vegetarian diet. A vegetarian diet is entirely inadequate. It is made adequate by the use of milk, eggs or other animal foods. This fact is recognized today by most nutrition authorities."

DISCARD THE OLD BELIEF

The Chicago expert insists that modern scientific medicine has proved beyond a doubt that such is well protected against bacterial invasions and the due to any article of diet such as meat, but are due to bacterial infections, exposure, over-eating, or other strain upon the organs as a result of some disease. He says that the old belief that certain products in meats are toxins and that they are of significance in the causation of bodily ills must be discarded in the light of recent evidence. The body is well protected against bacterial invasions and the invasions of so-called toxins produced from proteins in the digestive tract.

"There are certain reasons besides economic reasons why meat will continue to find a place in the diet," argues Dr. Moulton. "It provides protein of as high value and in greater quantity than that found in milk and eggs, is a richer source of iron than milk and whole egg, and makes a greater appeal to the appetite than either of these foods. The meats containing appreciable amounts of fat are much richer sources of energy than milk or eggs. The work of Dr. Whipple at Rochester, N. Y., has shown that meat, and especially liver and kidney, are much more valuable for building good red blood than are milk or eggs."

Proponents of the theory that meat is a highly desirable if not physiologically necessary part of human diet assert that there are dangers attached to a low protein diet such as that advocated by Hindhede. Although it is true that man can get along at least for short periods of time on as little as 40 grams of protein a day, they say it has not been shown that such an amount would supply his needs for long periods of time.

Dr. J. J. R. MacLeod, of Toronto, is cited as another authority who has definitely shown that low protein consumption is not conducive to good health, but that it really makes the person who attempts it more susceptible to disease.

In other words, it is claimed, a reasonable excess of protein over the minimum aids the body in defending itself against disease.

INCLUDING THE SCANDINAVIAN

In his argument Dr. Moulton includes the Scandinavian, as do copyright announcements, saying that it has been shown by various Scandinavian investigators that a relatively high protein diet is required in order to effect the production of milk in proper quantity by milk producing animals. Among these investigators are Mollgaard, Hansen and Isachsen. This work is said to have been confirmed by Dr. Hoobler, of Detroit, working with human beings, and investigations now under way in the department of physiology at Ohio State university show that certain foods, especially those high in protein, are conducive to vigor and muscular activity on the part of the animal eating such foods.

"When we speak of high protein diets," explains Dr. Moulton, "we mean diets which provide protein to the extent of 15 to 20 per cent of the total energy of the diet. Most nutrition experts in this country advise for the average person a proportion of 10 to 15 per cent. The Hindhede diet has reduced this to about 5 per cent. In advocating a diet containing 10 to 15 per cent of the energy in the form of protein we are not advocating a high protein or a high meat diet."

These experts in dietetics not only inform the world that meat has its place in the well regulated diet, they go farther and tip the public off as to the kinds of meat to use. E. B. Forbes is authority for the statement that the real meat problem, for the consumer, is simply one of wise buying and skillful preparation. For practical purposes, he says, the different cuts of meat have about the same nutritive value, and differences in prices of different cuts of the same grade express principally differences in ease of preparation, especially the amount of cooking required.

"The best bargains, for those who are sufficiently interested to bestow some thought and skill to the preparation of the meat, are the forequarter cuts, other than the rib, and the less expensive cuts of the hindquarter," says Mr. Forbes. "These parts require longer cooking than the loin, and may be economically prepared by cooking in a kettle with a tight lid, over a very slow fire. Special mention should also be made of the liver, kidney, heart, sweetbread and brain, which, as a group, stand in a new light as a result of recent research. By virtue of the superior quality of their proteins and the abundance of their vitamins they are, nutritively, the choicest of meats."

"The whole meat question boils down to this thought—that we have many good reasons for regarding meat highly, and we have no reason for departing from the general habit as to meat eating which our own practical experience has led us to adopt. The prevailing faults of diet in the United States are most readily remediable by improved selection of the vegetable components."

No Sale but a Profit.

A farmer entered a hardware store and exhibited an enormous egg, about six inches long, which he declared had been laid by one of his own hens.

The dealer examined it with the rest, and then said: "Pshaw! I've got something in the egg line that will beat that."

"I'll bet you a dollar you haven't," said the farmer.

"Right," replied the merchant; and going behind the counter, he brought out a wire egg-beater.—Geor

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By ALICE LANCELIER.

PARIS, Dec. 20.—Decidedly the Russians in Paris are unfortunate. After robbing them of their homes, their jewels and fine arts, the Bolsheviks are threatening even to deprive them of the church and religion.

The little Russian church in the Rue Daru, a beautiful miniature of the cathedral in Moscow, has been sequestered and the court has been called upon to settle the affair. Russian residents in the French capital affirm that the Soviets have no right to the church, which was built by the generosity of Nicholas II and the Russians in Paris. The government of the Soviets demands the nationalization of the church and property, as was done in Vienna, Rome and Berlin, where the church was transformed into offices. Copenhagen alone has retained its Russian church by the decision of the civil court.

If the courts decide that the church be given over to the Soviets it is possible that it will become the annex of the Soviet embassy, lately installed in the city. It may even be used for some of the Russian exhibits at the exposition of decorative arts, which is to be held in 1925, inasmuch as there is little time left to construct a building large enough for the proposed exhibits. One objection to this plan is the distance of the church from the ensemble of exposition buildings, but this would not be serious enough to cause the rejection of the plan, say the Soviets.

"The faithful," in this case, will take over a church of the German Lutheran mission, which has been sequestered since 1914 and lately been bought by the committee of American Protestants. It will take the name of "Saint-Serge," with the religious ceremonies on the first floor and an orthodox ecclesiastical academy below. And Sunday morning will find the great crowd of forlorn exiles praying on their knees and singing their familiar chants which make the Russian church almost a show-place of Paris.

The "Fricassee" is being featured in Filmland near Paris. No, it has nothing to do with chickens or the leftovers of a Thanksgiving dinner. Far removed from the familiar shakings of the shimmy and the furious fox-trots of the present day, the "Fricassee" is really a lively waltz-musical jig that was popular in the days of the French Revolution.

In the new film "Madame Sans-Gene," which is being made at the Joinville studio, near Paris, the celebrated waltz-musical, Madame Sans-Gene, dances the "Fricassee" with Sergeant Lefebvre, with whom she fell in love at a Revolutionary ball. It is much like an old folk dance, with slappings of the hands, to the right and to the left, swift whirls to one side and to the other, spinning and swinging, and finally ending in each dancer giving the other a pinch of snuff and the dance breaking up in a great sneeze which starts all the others to moving.

Four hundred persons are in the dance scene, all in costumes which are exact copies of originals or paintings in government archives. "Vauxhall," the scene of the ball, has been constructed from old pictures and engravings borrowed from the Musée Carnavalet and other historical houses of Paris. The "Vauxhall" took its name from the famous ballroom of the new Spring gardens in London which served as a model for many similar places that spring up in Paris during the eighteenth century. They were usually located in the midst of an open garden, a kind of "White City" with many amusements like merry-go-rounds and primitive roller-coasters.

WHO'S WHO

W. H. McMASTER.

South Dakota's new senator-elect, W. H. McMaster, won his senatorial seat in one of the hottest fights waged in the states where votes were vacant. But the close fight was not a new ordeal to McMaster. His friends point out that every office he has held since he was first elected as a member of the lower house in congress from Yankton county, South Dakota, has been gained by a bitter struggle.

McMaster started life as a newsboy. He earned his way through grammar and high school and college, and then went into a country bank, later became one of its officers.

After serving a term in the house, McMaster ran for state senator and was elected by a close vote. Then he ran for lieutenant governor and later governor, winning both seats by narrow margins. He is a Republican.

ON AMERICAN MOUNTAINS

On the Southern Pacific Limited, eastbound from San Francisco, Dec. 20.—This train carries you along the top of American mountains, everything covered with snow, height above sea level ranging from 4,000 to 7,000 feet.

Where the train screeches by, startling heretofore cattle, the old emigrant trail may be seen, leading up from Gravelly ford on the Humboldt river. Along that trail, slowly, painfully with their ox carts, their wives and children, men traveled in 1849.

It was only 75 years ago when the first gold seeking immigrants came to that ford in the river, watching for Shoshone and Plute Indians, children playing and laughing in the jolting wagons, the women going because the men wanted to go, the men plodding on because there was gold ahead.

THE GRAVE NEAR THE HANGAR

Looking in the window first to the right, a little later to the left, you realize that this earth moves rapidly, with science pushing it ahead.

To the right between Cluro and Beowawe, on a low point running out into the Humboldt river, stands a white cross. On one side is written "The Maiden's Grave," on the other the young girl's name, "Luella Duncan." She is said to be the first white girl who died in the emigrant rush, not killed by the Indians, but loneliness.

As you reach Elko you see on the left a hangar, with relays of flying machines ready. There United States mail carriers land and find a fresh machine to carry the mail bags on.

And there the pony mail riders of old stopped and changed their mail pouches to fresh ponies.

There is a contrast between the old and new United States; with only 75 years between the lonely grave of the emigrant girl on the right and on the left the hangars for flying machines of the modern mail service.

NO PLACE FOR WINNEMUCCA

The days of emigrant ox cart, stage coach, fighting Plutes and Shoshones and the days of romance are gone. The proud citizen who gets on at Beowawe directs your particular attention to the local power plant sending energy in all directions, notably to the Buckhorn mines, 37 miles away, "with $7,000,000 worth of gold ore in sight."

Real gold in sight is the thing in our practical day. The fighting Winnemucca of the Plutes would find this country once divided between his Indians and the Shoshones, no place now for an Indian chief. White men are building houses, harnessing waterfalls, digging holes in the ground for gold, silver, copper. Cattle of strange, of foreign breeds are fenced in. You may not kill and eat them. The horses, big and heavy, are also within fences. Freedom is gone, from animals and Indians.

But there is enough romance left for the eastern paleface. You look into a deep hole, 40 feet below the ground, where the track crosses a stream. On the edge of the hole a concrete mixer is at work and below 20 men are preparing foundations for a new bridge. Just beyond the deep snow is the group of flat tents in which the workers sleep.

There is romance in that, the romance of the science of engineering at work in this country, which was prepared 500,000,000 years ago, as a home for flying men.

Your great grandchildren will know these mountains, valleys and rivers by actual seeing from above, as well as children of today know some nearby resort.

In generations to come, men and governments more nearly civilized will allow no children to develop stunted bodies and deformed minds in city slums. They will fly to this country, to these high lands of Nevada, New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, to all parts of this American mountain paradise of health and beauty.

Here they will develop into real men and women. The United States will breed its own strong people no longer depending on Europe as it does now for constant supplies of fresh blood.

These Americans will supply the fresh blood and men grown here will supply the workers, no handlers of picks and shovels, but workers with brains and muscles.

Mr. Green is a Democrat in politics. He served on the labor commission at the peace conference in Paris. He attended the Democratic national conventions at Baltimore and San Francisco, and he was one of the four members of the executive council of the Federation who opposed ratification of La Follette in the recent presidential campaign. He has always opposed recognition of Soviet Russia and has frowned on all radical proposals.

As a co-worker in the labor movement remarked when Green was chosen as labor's chieftain, "he is honest—a fighter—and a man of great ability."

Truth About George

While the International Benjamin Franklin society is rising courageously to the defense of the kite-lighting story, the George Washington-Sulgrave society is rising as courageously to attack "many of the Washington myths."

The cherry tree myth is to be the first to go. It is to be cut down with cold facts. It is worse for children to think of the Little George Washington as a truth-telling tree-destroyer than as a possibly fibbing conversationalist. "We want to show that he was a real boy and a real man, not a sanctimonious sissy," an officer of the society is quoted as saying.

The perennial agitation for abolishing American mythology seems a little amusing. Yet there are probably enough interesting truths about Benjamin Franklin, George Washington and other shining lights of American history to make up for the loss of such time-tried tales as that of the cherry tree and the "discovery" of lightning.

On the other hand, if these charming anecdotes have no basis in fact, neither do they do any particular harm. They may even have formed a useful introduction to American history, just as the Santa Claus of childhood is a very happy introduction to the loveliness of unselfish giving.

Whatever happens to any historical myths, however, the agitation about them is probably worth while if it helps to spread around the realization that history does not need to be one-sided or sugar-coated. The things for which Washington is honored and revered today remain worthy, regardless of any gossip about his childhood or adult shortcomings.

A very black little girl made her way into the presence of the lady of the house, and with much embarrassment, but very clearly, explained who she was, and what her mission:

"Please, mum, I've Opella. I've de washerwoman's little girl, an' mama, she sent me to say, would you please to len' her a dime. She got to pay some bills."

THE FOOD VALUE OF MEAT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Claims of vegetarians that their cult is greatly on the increase and that more and more people are coming to accept the truth of the statement that human beings have absolutely no physiological need for meat have stirred leaders in the meat industry to combat lest the public be given erroneous impressions of the true food value of meat.

C. Robett Moulton, director of the bureau of nutrition of the institute of American meat packers, is one of the first of the experts to rally to the defense of the meat-eaters and those who supply them with a substantial portion of their diet. He says it is quite true that there is no absolute physiological need for meat, but he adds that the same thing might have been stated concerning another food.

"There is no physiological need for any other single food," says Dr. Moulton. "However, there are many reasons why we shall continue to use meat in the diet."

One of the leading authorities quoted by the vegetarians is the famous Danish dietetic expert, Hindhede, who directed the distribution of food in Denmark during the war, and who has said that the necessity for a large amount of proteins is vastly over-estimated, and that in reality very little protein is needed in the normal diet.

"The experiments by Hindhede in Denmark have covered too short a proportion of the life span of man to be of significance," says Dr. Moulton. "During the same years covered by the Danish experiment, public health and preventive medicine have taught us many things and we have learned much about the value of vitamins and mineral matter in the diet. The results of the Danish experiment could have been due just as well to these other factors as to the use of a milk and vegetable diet."

"Experiments of this sort, to be conclusive, need to be carried on over a period of several generations to show the full effects upon the race. Hindhede's experiments have been relatively short, but man's successful experience with meat, which dates from time immemorial, has been of long enough duration to show that he thrives on it."

"There should be no confusion between an anti-flesh diet and a vegetarian diet. A vegetarian diet is entirely inadequate. It is made adequate by the use of milk, eggs or other animal foods. This fact is recognized today by most nutrition authorities."

DISCARD THE OLD BELIEF

The Chicago expert insists that modern scientific medicine has proved beyond a doubt that such is well protected against bacterial invasions and the due to any article of diet such as meat, but are due to bacterial infections, exposure, over-eating, or other strain upon the organs as a result of some disease. He says that the old belief that certain products in meats are toxins and that they are of significance in the causation of bodily ills must be discarded in the light of recent evidence. The body is well protected against bacterial invasions and the invasions of so-called toxins produced from proteins in the digestive tract.

"There are certain reasons besides economic reasons why meat will continue to find a place in the diet," argues Dr. Moulton. "It provides protein of a high value and in greater quantity than that found in milk and eggs, and makes a greater appeal to the appetite than either of these foods. The meats containing appreciable amounts of fat are much richer sources of energy than milk or eggs. The work of Dr. Whipple at Rochester, N. Y., has shown that meat, and especially liver and kidney, are much more valuable for building good red blood than are milk or eggs."

Proponents of the theory that meat is a highly desirable if not physiologically necessary part of human diet assert that there are dangers attached to a low protein diet such as that advocated by Hindhede. Although it is true that man can get along at least for short periods of time on as little as 40 grams of protein a day, they say it has not been shown that such an amount would supply his needs for long periods of time.

Dr. J. J. R. MacLeod, of Toronto, is cited as another authority who has definitely shown that low protein consumption is not conducive to good health, but that it really makes the person who attempts it more susceptible to disease.

In other words, it is claimed, a reasonable excess of protein over the minimum aids the body in defending itself against disease.

INCLUDING THE SCANDINAVIAN

In his argument Dr. Moulton includes the Scandinavian, as do copyright announcements, saying that it has been shown by various Scandinavian investigators that a relatively high protein diet is required in order to effect the production of milk in proper quantity by milk producing animals. Among these investigators are Mollgaard, Hansen and Isachsen. This work is said to have been confirmed by Dr. Hoobler, of Detroit, working with human beings, and investigations now under way in the department of physiology at Ohio State university show that certain foods, especially those high in protein, are conducive to vigor and muscular activity on the part of the animal eating such foods.

"When we speak of high protein diets," explains Dr. Moulton, "we mean diets which provide protein to the extent of 15 to 20 per cent of the total energy of the diet. Most nutrition experts in this country advise for the average person a proportion of 10 to 15 per cent. The Hindhede diet has reduced this to about 5 per cent. In advocating a diet containing 10 to 15 per cent of the energy in the form of protein we are not advocating a high protein or a high meat diet."

These experts in dietetics not only inform the world that meat has its place in the well regulated diet, they go farther and tip the public off as to the kinds of meat to use. E. B. Forbes is authority for the statement that the real meat problem, for the consumer, is simply one of wise buying and skillful preparation. For practical purposes, he says, the different cuts of meat have about the same nutritive value, and differences in prices of different cuts of the same grade express principally differences in ease of preparation, especially the amount of cooking required.

"The best bargains, for those who are sufficiently interested to bestow some thought and skill to the preparation of the meat, are the forequarter cuts, other than the rib, and the less expensive cuts of the hindquarter," says Mr. Forbes. "These parts require longer cooking than the loin, and may be economically prepared by cooking in a kettle with a tight lid, over a very slow fire. Special mention should also be made of the liver, kidney, heart, sweetbread and brain, which, as a group, stand in a new light as a result of recent research. By virtue of the superior quality of their proteins and the abundance of their vitamins they are, nutritively, the choicest of meats."

"The whole meat question boils down to this thought—that we have many good reasons for regarding meat highly, and we have no reason for departing from the general habit as to meat eating which our own practical experience has led us to adopt. The prevailing faults of diet in the United States are most readily remedied by improved selection of the vegetable components."

No Sale but a Profit.

A farmer entered a hardware store and exhibited an enormous egg, about six inches long, which he declared had been laid by one of his own hens.

The dealer examined it with the rest, and then said: "Pshaw! I've got something in the egg like that will beat that."

"I'll bet you a dollar you haven't," said the farmer.

"Right," replied the merchant, and going behind the counter, he brought out a wire egg-beater. —Goor

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By ALICE LANGELIER.

PARIS, Dec. 20.—Decidedly the Russians in Paris are unfortunate. After robbing them of their homes, their jewels and fine arts, the Bolsheviks are threatening even to deprive them of the church and religion.

The little Russian church in the Rue Daru, a beautiful miniature of the cathedral in Moscow, has been sequestered and the court has been called upon to settle the affair. Russian residents in the French capital affirm that the Soviets have no right to the church, which was built by the generosity of Nicholas II and the Russians in Paris. The government of the Soviets demands the nationalization of the church and property, as was done in Vienna, Rome and Berlin, where the church was transformed into offices. Copenhagen alone has retained its Russian church by the decision of the civil court.

If the courts decide that the church be given over to the Soviets it is possible that it will become the annex of the Soviet embassy, lately installed in the city. It may even be used for some of the Russian exhibits at the exposition of decorative arts, which is to be held in 1925, inasmuch as there is little time left to construct a building large enough for the proposed exhibits. One objection to this plan is the distance of the church from the ensemble of exposition buildings, but this would not be serious enough to cause the rejection of the plan, say the Soviets.

"The faithful," in this case, will take over a church of the German Lutheran mission, which has been sequestered since 1914 and lately been bought by the committee of American Protestants. It will take the name of "Saint-Serge" with the religious ceremonies on the first floor and an orthodox ecclesiastical academy below. And Sunday morning will find the great crowd of forlorn exiles praying on their knees and singing their familiar chants which make the Russian church almost a show-place of Paris.

The "Fricassee" is being featured in Filmland near Paris. No, it has nothing to do with chickens or the leftovers of a Thanksgiving dinner. Far removed from the familiar shakings of the shimmy and the furious fox-trots of the present day, the "Fricassee" is really a lively washerwoman's jig that was popular in the days of the French Revolution.

In the new film "Madame Sans-Gene," which is being made at the Joinville studio, near Paris, the celebrated washerwoman, Madame Sans-Gene, dances the "Fricassee" with Sergeant Lefebvre, with whom she fell in love at a Revolutionary ball. It is much like an old folk dance, with slappings of the hands, to the right and to the left, swift whirls to one side and to the other, spinning and swinging, and finally ending in each dancer giving the other a pinch of snuff and the dance breaking up in a great sneeze which starts all the others to moving.

Four hundred persons are in the dance scene, all in costumes which are exact copies of originals or paintings in government archives. "Vauxhall," the scene of the ball, has been constructed from old pictures and engravings borrowed from the Musee Carnavalet and other historical houses of Paris. The "Vauxhall" took its name from the famous ballroom of the new Spring gardens in London which served as a model for many similar places that spring up in Paris during the eighteenth century. They were usually located in the midst of an open garden, a kind of "White City" with many amusements like merry-go-rounds and primitive roller-coasters.

WHO'S WHO

W. H. McMASTER.

South Dakota's new senator-elect, W. H. McMaster, won his senatorial seat in one of the hottest fights waged in the states where togas were vacant. But the close fight was not a new ordeal to McMaster. His friends point out that every office he has held since he was first elected as a member of the lower house in congress from Yankton county, South Dakota, has been gained by a bitter struggle.

McMaster started life as a newsboy. Helped earn his way through grammar and high school and college, and then went into a country bank, later became one of its officers.

After serving a term in the house, McMaster ran for state senator and was elected by a close vote. Then he ran for lieutenant governor and later governor, winning both seats by narrow margins. He is a Republican.

ON AMERICAN MOUNTAINS

On the Southern Pacific Limited, eastbound from San Francisco, Dec. 20.—This train carries you along the top of American mountains, everything covered with snow, height above sea level ranging from 4,000 to 7,000 feet.

Where the train screeches by, startling heavy cattle, the old emigrant trail may be seen, leading up from Gravelly ford on the Humboldt river. Along that trail, slowly, painfully with their ox carts, their wives and children, men traveled in 1849.

It was only 75 years ago when the first gold seeking immigrants came to that ford in the river, watching for Shoshone and Plute Indians, children playing and laughing in the jolting wagons, the women going because the men wanted to go, the men plodding on because there was gold ahead.

THE GRAVE NEAR THE HANGAR

Looking in the window first to the right, a little later to the left, you realize that this earth moves rapidly, with science pushing it ahead.

To the right, between Churo and Beowawe, on a low point running out into the Humboldt river stands a white cross. On one side is written "The Maiden's Grave," on the other the young girl's name, "Lucinda Duncan." She is said to be the first white girl who died in the emigrant rush, not killed by the Indians, but loneliness.

As you reach Elko you see on the left a hangar, with relays of flying machines ready. There United States mail carriers land and find a fresh machine to carry the mail bags on.

And there the pony mail riders of old stopped and changed their mail pouches to fresh ponies.

NO PLACE FOR WINNEMUCA

The days of emigrant ox carts, stage coach, fighting Plutes and Shoshones and the days of romance are gone. The proud citizen who gets on at Beowawe directs your particular attention to the local power plant sending energy in all directions, notably to the Buckhorn mines, 37 miles away, "with $7,000,000 worth of gold ore in sight."

Real gold in sight is the thing in our practical day. The fighting Winnemucca of the Plutes would find this country once divided between his Indians and the Shoshones, no place now for an Indian chief. White men are building houses, harnessing waterfalls, digging holes in the ground for gold, silver, copper. Cattle of strange, of foreign breeds are fenced in. You may not kill and eat them. The horses, big and heavy, are also within fences. Freedom is gone, from animals and Indians.

But there is enough romance left for the eastern paleface. You look into a deep hole, 40 feet below the ground, where the track crosses a stream. On the edge of the hole a concrete mixer is at work and below 20 men are preparing foundations for a new bridge. Just beyond the deep snow is the group of flat tents in which the workers sleep.

There is romance in that, the romance of the science of engineering at work in this country, which was prepared 500,000,000 years ago, as a home for flying men.

Your great grandchildren will know these mountains, valleys and rivers by actual seeing from above, as well as children of today know some nearby resort.

In generations to come, men and governments more nearly civilized will allow no children to develop stunted bodies and deformed minds in city slums. They will fly to this country, to these high lands of Nevada, New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado, to all parts of this American mountain paradise of health and beauty.

Here they will develop into real men and women. The United States will breed its own strong people no longer depending on Europe as it does now for constant supplies of fresh blood.

These Americans will supply the fresh blood and men grown here will supply the workers, not handlers of picks and shovels, but workers with brains and machines.

Claudia Muzio Wins Music Lovers' Praise In Concert Here

Claudia Muzio of Chicago captivated her audience of East Liverpool music lovers, last evening, in the Ceramic theatre, when she appeared as the artist in the second of a series of concerts under the auspices of the East Liverpool Civic Music Association.

With her charming personality and graciousness, Mme. Muzio, prima donna soprano of Paris, Monte Carlo, Buenos Aires, Metropolitan and Chicago opera companies, won the hearts of her audience with the first number on the program. Each number merited the great applause it received. The artist responded with many encores to the show of appreciation. Her range of voice as well as the splendid control and training displayed held the audience spellbound.

Her accompanist, Gavin Williamson, shared honors with the artist last evening. He displayed technique and art in his piano selection from Rachmaninoff, which was requested by a member of the Association.

Kindergarten Birthday Session.

One of the novel features of the holiday season for little folks was the birthday session and closing exercises of the kindergarten class of Mrs. Maude Beane of Third street. The fourth birthday anniversary of Bobby Edwards was celebrated. A birthday cake, on which were lighted candles, centered the latter. The decorations of the home were of red and green. The program consisted of dramatized stories, songs and games, at the close of which a three-course luncheon was served by Mrs. Beane. Favors of miniature red bonbon baskets were given each guest, while a gift was presented each pupil by the teacher. After the holidays, Mrs. Beane expects to conduct an afternoon and morning class.

W. C. Tanner, Lecturer, Gets Workhouse Term On Delinquency Count

DAYTON, O., Dec. 20.—Rev. William C. Tanner, self-called "Ex-priest," has been sentenced to one year at the Dayton work farm on conviction of a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor child.

Three 15-year-old boys accused Tanner of enticing them to his hotel room. Tanner admitted at the trial that he had never been ordained a Roman Catholic priest. He has been delivering lectures throughout Ohio.

The case was tried before Judge R. W. Baggott by Prosecutor Scharrer. The complainant was Mrs. Howard, owner of the hotel where Tanner stopped.

CLYDA HUFF IS GIVEN DIVORCE

Court Directs Wife to Pay Husband $750 Alimony.

Clyda Huff has been ordered by common pleas court to pay her husband and William Huff, $750 alimony on or before February 1, next, and that the order will stand as a lien against her property until paid. Mrs. Huff, through her counsel, W. S. Stevenson, of East Liverpool, sued her husband for divorce and alimony. The cross petition of the defendant was dismissed, except as to alimony, and the decree was awarded Mrs. Huff on the grounds of extreme cruelty. Mrs. Huff has been restored to her maiden name, Clyda McMillan.

The divorce action filed by Attorney E. E. Black, of Salineville, in behalf of Nellie Finn against her husband, Alexander Finn, has been dismissed on the motion of the plaintiff and at her cost.

Because her husband has been absent for three years, Stella J. Shook has been granted a divorce from her husband, Hallis Shook. She was represented by Attorney Charles S. Speaker. The custody of three children was awarded the mother, and Shook has been ordered by Judge James G. Moore to pay the plaintiff $20 on the first and fifteenth of each month for the support of his children. This case has been certified to the juvenile court of this county for the purpose of securing the enforcement of the order of the court above to make Shook support his children.

The order of alimony entered in the divorce case of Edna Davis against her husband, James Davis, has been stricken out by the court, and the action has been dismissed at the cost of the plaintiff.

In the divorce action of Ella Mellon against her husband, Henry Mellon, the answer and cross petition in this case was withdrawn by the defendant in open court. The case went to trial on the petition of the plaintiff, and a decree was awarded her on the ground of extreme cruelty on the part of the defendant. The custody of Belle and George Mellon was given to the mother.

Mellon has been ordered by the court to pay his wife $15 on the first and fifteenth of every month until further order of court, and the unpaid alimony awarded Mrs. Mellon when the action was filed has been ordered paid by Mellon within the next 10 days.

Both sides in this cause are to pay their own costs.

TWOMORE DIVORCE SUITS INSTITUTED

Having one wife and then marrying another woman without getting a divorce from his first wife is the charge made in the divorce petition filed in common pleas court by the law firm of Lones, Hill & Davidson in behalf of Ella L. Gross against her husband, George W. Gross.

The whereabouts of Gross are unknown to wife No. 2.

While the first cause of action for divorce is above recited, as a second cause, the petition declares that Gross has been guilty of gross neglect of duty toward the plaintiff and that shortly after their marriage, December 19, 1921, Gross left his wife and has not been heard of by her since.

She asks that a decree of divorce be granted her, and that she be restored to her maiden name, Ella L. Chappell.

Brooks Piper, through his counsel, J. E. Baucke, of East Palestine, has filed an action for divorce against his wife, Elsie Piper. They were married at Canton March 16, 1916, and one child, now five years old, is of issue.

December Marriage License Record Is Below Other Years

There will have to be a decided "rush" for marriage licenses during the remaining days before Christmas eve to equal the record set up between December 20-24 last year, when 23 licenses were granted by Probate Judge Lodge Riddle.

"It's a slow month for marriage licenses so far," Judge Riddle declared Saturday. "It looks as if the bottom had dropped out of the marriage license business, so far as our county is concerned."

Francis M. Fry, of New Galilee, and Reba P. Waddell, of Leetonia, but formerly of Lisbon, were the last couple to secure a marriage license December 24 last year.

"We can never tell when there is going to be a rush," Judge Riddle said. "Just about the time there will be nothing doing, in will come three or four couples, and then we can always count on others following after there has been a lull for a few days. Not a license was issued Friday."

Case Reinstated.
The case of Adam C. Wise against Walter L. Augustine, of Columbiana, as executor, a former entry has been stricken from the record, and the matter has been reinstated in the trial docket. The court has granted leave to file an amended petition in this cause.

AMERICAN LEGION HOLDS BANQUET

Six members of Starr Post, G. A. R. were guests of John Welsh, Post American Legion at the annual banquet of the Legion Friday night in the Lisbon City building. About 100 guests were served.

The affair was in charge of a committee of which Clerk of Courts John T. Burns was chairman. The Rev. W. E. Tilton, pastor of the Lisbon Methodist Episcopal church, and Attorney George E. Davidson of East Liverpool were the two speakers. The Harmony Symphony Players donated the music of the evening and songs were sung from the Kewanee Club song books.

Mr. Davidson in his address recounted the numerous wars the United States had engaged in from the beginning, and closed his address with several humorous stories. Mr. Tilton recounted incidents of those who remained at home during the war.

A letter was read from the Rev. D. C. Scott of Cleveland, former chaplain of the Legion, regretting his inability to attend as he did last year.

Case Appealed.
The case of Robert Auld of Salem against the Ohio Mutual Insurance Co., of Salem, which was tried in the justice of the Peace court of H. E. Gleckner of Salem, has been appealed by Jacob Ambler, Secretary of the company to common pleas court. Auld sued the company for $36 for work and labor, and was given judgment by default for $127.64.

Action to Collect.
Anna Moldovan loaned Matsi J. Konjo and Kedi M. Konjo of 126 Depot street, Salem, obtained judgment of $400 on a promissory note June 19 last and the money has not been paid. In order to secure this money, Attorney W. H. Spence of Lisbon has filed a petition in common pleas court for his client to force the collection of the note.

Minerva

Miss Florence Elizabeth Davison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Davison of West Lincoln Way and Alfred L. Mead, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mead of Alliance, were united in marriage Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at the parsonage of St. Paul's church in Salem by Rev. A. J. Manning. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Mardrus of Alliance. Luncheon was served at Hotel Minerva at 1:30 for the immediate relatives and friends who were present from Pittsburgh, Youngstown, Alliance, Salem, Carrollton, Sebring, Leetonia and Minerva. Following a wedding trip they will reside in Alliance.

The local Pythian lodge at their recent meeting elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Chancellor commander, Howard Hunter; vice chancellor, M. L. Cook; prelate, Paul Griffin; master of arms, Henry Murphy; junior guard, Earl Morehead; outer guard, Leonard Grimes; keeper of records, R. H. Wright; master of finance, Fred Morehead; master of exchequer, J. A. Ready; trustee for three years, Bert Helman; master of work, Lawrence Amos. Attorney Frank Cope was elected to serve as representative to grand lodge.

The City hall was the scene of a party when the Rotary Amn entertained the Rotarians with a Christmas party and dinner. The tables were decorated with red candles and miniature Christmas trees in keeping with the Christmas season. Toasts were given by members of the club. Mrs. M. Shory had charge of the roll call at which time each one responded with nursery rhyme. Exchange of gifts was also a feature of the evening amusements. Mrs. Harley Roby chairman and her committee of the evening entertainment were: Mrs. George Huff, Mrs. Arthur Koch, Mrs. G. M. Broker, Mrs. Ralph Hart, Mrs. R. M. Shory, Mrs. Lloyd Iden and Mrs. A. F. Gluck, 50 guests were present.

Major L. E. Casey was elected president of the Stark County chapter of the Ohio State Reserve Officers' association at the Canton meeting, December 14. Dr. Casey has been one of Minerva's prominent physicians for twenty years. In 1917 he went to France and worked in the hospitals during the World war.

Columbiana

Columbiana merchants are reporting a very satisfactory Christmas business despite the inclement weather of Wednesday and Thursday, with prospects for the usual last minute rush next week when the stores will remain open in the evenings. Christmas trees on the sidewalks in front of the grocery stores give the street a holiday aspect.

Marcus Holloway has been selected by the student body of the high school as editor of the "School Notes," publication of which will be resumed weekly in the Columbiana Ledger. He will have as his assistants, one member from each of the four classes, to be appointed later.

Marcus is drawing many assignments this year, as he is also cheer leader, president of the Graduation Literary society, secretary of the senior class, and official cartoonist.

The will of the late Melinda Shingler has been filed and admitted to probate and her daughter, Mrs. H. W. Hammond has been named as executrix and will serve without bond. The court has appointed Wick Frye, W. A. Lyder and D. B. Wilkinson to serve as appraisers.

Miller Bros. basketball quintet won another game Wednesday night, this time from the Sebring Red Birds, by the score of 27-24, in a very exciting game which was very close and hard fought from start to finish. Anderson and Smith started for Columbiana while Harold played well when given a chance toward the finish. In the preliminary, the Columbiana Strollers defeated the Washingtonville Aces by a lopsided score of 21-10.

Saturday night in the home gym, C. H. S. will probably have their hardest opposition of the season in Grove City high school, a game which should attract a very large crowd. The preliminary game will be between New Waterford high school boys and C. H. S. Freshman boys.

The South Side club ladies were entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Dan Miller, South Main street.

Ralph Irone, motorman on the Y. & O., has been confined to his home for several days as the result of a severe fall into the excavation near his home where the town is extending the sewer system.

Neither Flotsam Nor Jetsam.

The cross word puzzle craze has brought out from seclusion an old but perfectly good word, "wilsam," which belongs to the group that already includes flotsam and jetsam. "Wilsam" is goods driven ashore when no wreck nor ship is visible, hence called "goods of God's mercy," as distinguished from flotsam—goods floating on the sea—and jetsam, goods cast out in a storm.

CLYDA HUFF IS GIVEN DIVORCE

Court Directs Wife to Pay Husband $750 Alimony.

Clyda Huff has been ordered by common pleas court to pay her husband and William Huff, $750 alimony on or before February 1, next, and that the order will stand as a lien against her property until paid. Mrs. Huff, through her counsel, W. S. Stevenson, of East Liverpool, sued her husband for divorce and alimony. The cross petition of the defendant was dismissed, except as to alimony, and the decree was awarded Mrs. Huff on the grounds of extreme cruelty. Mrs. Huff has been restored to her maiden name, Clyda McMillan.

The divorce action filed by Attorney E. E. Black, of Salineville, in behalf of Nellie Finn against her husband, Alexander Finn, has been dismissed on the motion of the plaintiff and at her cost.

Because her husband has been absent for three years, Stella J. Shook has been granted a divorce from her husband, Hallis Shook. She was represented by Attorney Charles S. Speaker. The custody of three children was awarded the mother, and Shook has been ordered by Judge James G. Moore to pay the plaintiff $20 on the first and fifteenth of each month for the support of his children. This case has been certified to the juvenile court of this county for the purpose of securing the enforcement of the order of the court above to make Shook support his children.

The order of alimony entered in the divorce case of Edna Davis against her husband, James Davis, has been stricken out by the court, and the action has been dismissed at the cost of the plaintiff.

In the divorce action of Ella Mellon against her husband, Henry Mellon, the answer and cross petition in this case was withdrawn by the defendant in open court. The case went to trial on the petition of the plaintiff, and a decree was awarded her on the ground of extreme cruelty on the part of the defendant. The custody of Dale and George Mellon was given to the mother.

Mellon has been ordered by the court to pay his wife $15 on the first and fifteenth of every month until further order of court, and the unpaid alimony awarded Mrs. Mellon when the action was filed has been ordered paid her by Mellon within the next 10 days.

TWOMORE DIVORCE SUITS INSTITUTED

Having one wife and then marrying another woman without getting a divorce from his first wife is the charge made in the divorce petition filed in common pleas court by the law firm of Lones, Hill & Davidson in behalf of Ella L. Gross against her husband, George W. Gross.

The whereabouts of Gross are unknown to No. 2.

While the first cause of action for divorce is above recited, as a second cause, the petition declares that Gross has been guilty of gross neglect of duty toward the plaintiff and that shortly after their marriage, December 19, 1921, Gross left his wife and has not been heard of by her since.

She asks that a decree of divorce be granted her, and that she be restored to her maiden name, Ella L. Chappell.

Brooks Piper, through his counsel, J. E. Haukecht, of East Palestine, has filed an action for divorce against his wife, Elsie Piper. They were married at Canton March 16, 1916, and one child, now five years old, is of issue.

December Marriage License Record Is Below Other Years

There will have to be a decided "rush" for marriage licenses during the remaining days before Christmas to equal the record set up between December 20-24 last year, when 23 licenses were granted by Probate Judge Lodge Riddle.

"It's a slow month for marriage licenses so far," Judge Riddle declared Saturday. "It looks as if the bottom had dropped out of the marriage license business, so far as our county is concerned."

Francis M. Fry, of New Galilee, and Reba F. Waddell, of Leetonia, were the last couple to secure a marriage license December 24 last year.

"We can never tell when there is going to be a rush," Judge Riddle said. "Just about the time there will be nothing doing, in will come three or four couples, and then we can always count on others following after there has been a lull for a few days. Not a license was issued Friday."

Case Reinstated.
The case of Adam C. Wise against Walter L. Augustine, of Columbiana, as executor, a former entry has been stricken from the record, and the matter has been reinstated in the trial docket. The court has granted leave to file an amended petition in this cause.

AMERICAN LEGION HOLDS BANQUET

Six members of Starr Post, G. A. R. were guests of John Welsh, Post American Legion at the annual banquet of the Legion Friday night in the Lisbon City building. About 100 guests were served.

The affair was in charge of a committee of which Clerk of Courts John T. Burns was chairman. The Rev. W. E. Tilton, pastor of the Lisbon Methodist Episcopal church, and Attorney George E. Davidson of East Liverpool were the two speakers. The Harmony Symphony Players donated the music of the evening and songs were sung from the Kivans Club song books. Mr. Davidson in his address recounted the numerous wars the United States had engaged in from the beginning, and closed his address with several humorous stories. Mr. Tilton recounted incidents of those who remained at home during the war. A letter was read from the Rev. D. C. Scott of Cleveland, former chaplain of the Legion, regretting his inability to attend as he did last year.

VERDICT FOUND FOR PLAINTIFF

Judge James G. Moore has found for the plaintiff in the case of the Peninsular Trading company, against the McLean Tire and Rubber company, of East Liverpool. A jury was waived in this case, and there was a trial to the court. The finding and judgment of the court was for the plaintiff, but in favor of the Pease Street Savings and Trust company, and as between the plaintiff and the trust company.

This cause has been settled entirely now and the costs paid.

Case Appealed.
The case of Robert Auld of Salem against the Ohio Mutual Insurance Co., of Salem, which was tried in the Justice of the Peace Court of H. E. Gleckner of Salem, has been appealed by Jacob Ambler, Secretary of the company to common pleas court. Auld sued the company for $36 for work and labor, and was given judgment by default for $127.64.

Action to Collect.
Anna Moldovan loaned Matsi J. Konjo and Kedi M. Konjo of 126 Depot street, Salem, obtained judgment of $400 on a promissory note June 19 last, and the money has not been paid. In order to secure this money, Attorney W. H. Spence of Lisbon has filed a petition in common pleas court for his client to force the collection of the note.

Minerva

Miss Florence Elizabeth Davidson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Davidson of West Lincoln Way and Alfred L. Mead, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mead of Alliance, were united in marriage Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at the parsonage of St. Paul's church in Salem by Rev. A. J. Manning. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Mardru of Alliance. Luncheon was served at Hotel Minerva at 1:30 for the immediate relatives and friends who were present from Pittsburgh, Youngstown, Alliance, Salem, Carrollton, Sebring, Leetonia and Minerva. Following a wedding trip they will reside in Alliance.

Neither Flotsam Nor Jetsam.
The cross word puzzle craze has brought out from desuetude an old but perfectly good word, "wilsam," which belongs to the group that already includes flotsam and jetsam. "Wilsam" is goods driven ashore when no wreck nor ship is visible, hence called "goods of God's mercy," as distinguished from flotsam—goods floating on the sea—and jetsam, goods cast out in a storm.

CLYDA HUFF IS GIVEN DIVORCE

Court Directs Wife to Pay Husband $750 Alimony.

Clyda Huff has been ordered by common pleas court to pay her husband and William Huff, $750 alimony on or before February 1, next, and that the order will stand as a lien against her property until paid. Mrs. Huff, through her counsel, W. S. Stevenson, of East Liverpool, sued her husband for divorce and alimony. The cross petition of the defendant was dismissed, except as to alimony, and the decree was awarded Mrs. Huff on the grounds of extreme cruelty. Mrs. Huff has been restored to her maiden name, Clyda McMillan.

The divorce action filed by Attorney E. E. Black, of Salineville, in behalf of Nellie Finn against her husband, Alexander Finn, has been dismissed on the motion of the plaintiff and at her cost.

Because her husband has been absent for three years, Stella J. Shook has been granted a divorce from her husband, Hallis Shook. She was represented by Attorney Charles S. Speaker. The custody of three children was awarded the mother, and Shook has been ordered by Judge James G. Moore to pay the plaintiff $20 on the first and fifteenth of each month for the support of his children. This case has been certified to the juvenile court of this county for the purpose of securing the enforcement of the order of the court above to make Shook support his children.

The order of alimony entered in the divorce case of Edna Davis against her husband, James Davis, has been stricken out by the court, and the action has been dismissed at the cost of the plaintiff.

In the divorce action of Ella Mellon against her husband, Henry Mellon, the answer and cross petition in this case was withdrawn by the defendant in open court. The case went to trial on the petition of the plaintiff, and a decree was awarded her on the ground of extreme cruelty on the part of the defendant. The custody of Dale and George Mellon was given to the mother.

Mellon has been ordered by the court to pay his wife $15 on the first and fifteenth of every month until further order of court, and the unpaid alimony awarded Mrs. Mellon when the action was filed has been ordered paid her by Mellon within the next 10 days.

Both sides in this cause are to pay their own costs.

TWO MORE DIVORCE SUITS INSTITUTED

Having one wife and then marrying another woman without getting a divorce from his first wife is the charge made in the divorce petition filed in common pleas court by the law firm of Lohmeyer, Hill & Davidson in behalf of Ella L. Gross against her husband, George W. Gross.

The whereabouts of Gross are unknown to wife No. 2.

While the first cause of action for divorce is above recited, as a second cause, the petition declares that Gross has been guilty of gross neglect of duty toward the plaintiff and that shortly after their marriage, December 19, 1921, Gross left his wife and has not been heard of by her since.

She asks that a decree of divorce be granted her, and that she be restored to her maiden name, Ella L. Chappell.

Brooks Piper, through his counsel, J. E. Banknecht, of East Palestine, has filed an action for divorce against his wife, Elsie Piper. They were married at Canton March 16, 1916, and one child, now five years old, is of issue.

December Marriage License Record Is Below Other Years

There will have to be a decided "rush" for marriage licenses during the remaining days before Christmas eve to equal the record set up between December 20-24 last year, when 23 licenses were granted by Probate Judge Lodge Riddle.

"It's a slow month for marriage licenses so far," Judge Riddle declared Saturday. "It looks as if the bottom had dropped out of the marriage license business, so far as our county is concerned."

Francis M. Fry, of New Galilee, and Reba F. Waddell, of Leetonia, but formerly of Lisbon, were the last couple to secure a marriage license December 24, last year.

"We can never tell when there is going to be a rush," Judge Riddle said. "Just about the time there will be nothing doing, in will come three or four couples, and then we can't say on others following we can't say there has been a lull for a few days. Not a license was issued Friday."

Case Reinstated.
The case of Adam C. Wise against Walter L. Augustine, of Columbiana, as executor, a former entry has been stricken from the record, and the matter has been reinstated in the trial docket. The court has granted leave to file an amended petition in this cause.

AMERICAN LEGION HOLDS BANQUET

Six members of Starr Post, G. A. R. were guests of John Welsh, Post American Legion at the annual banquet of the Legion Friday night in the Lisbon City building. About 100 guests were served.

The affair was in charge of a committee of which Clerk of Courts John T. Burns was chairman. The Rev. W. E. Tilton, pastor of the Lisbon Methodist Episcopal church, and Attorney George E. Davidson of East Liverpool were the two speakers. The Harmony Symphony Players donated the music of the evening and songs were sung from the Kewanee Club song books. Mr. Davidson in his address recounted the numerous wars the United States had engaged in from the beginning, and closed his address with several humorous stories. Mr. Tilton recounted incidents of those who remained at home during the war. A letter was read from the Rev. D. C. Scott of Cleveland, former chaplain of the Legion, regretting his inability to attend as he did last year.

VERDICT FOUND FOR PLAINTIFF

Judge James G. Moore has found for the plaintiff in the case of the Peninsular Trading company, against the McLean Tire and Rubber company, of East Liverpool. A jury was waived in this case, and there was a trial to the court. The finding and judgment of the court was for the plaintiff, but in favor of the Pearl Street Savings and Trust company, and as between the plaintiff and the trust company.

This cause has been settled entirely now and the costs paid.

Case Appealed.

The case of Robert Auld of Salem against the Ohio Mutual Insurance Co., of Salem, which was tried in the Justice of the Peace Court of H. E. Gleckner of Salem, has been appealed by Jacob Ambler, Secretary of the company to common pleas court. Auld sued the company for $30 for work and labor, and was given judgment by default for $127.64.

Action to Collect.

Anna Moldovan loaned Matis J. Konjo and Kedi M. Konjo of 126 Depot street, Salem, obtained judgment of $400 on a promissory note June 19 last and the money has not been paid. In order to secure this money, Attorney W. H. Spence of Lisbon has filed a petition in common pleas court for his client to force the collection of the note.

Columbiana

Columbiana merchants are reporting a very satisfactory Christmas business despite the inclement weather of Wednesday and Thursday, with prospects for the usual last minute rush next week when the stores will remain open in the evenings. Christmas trees on the sidewalks in front of the grocery stores give the street a holiday aspect.

Marcus Holloway has been selected by the student body of the high school as editor of the "School Notes," publication of which will be resumed weekly in the Columbiana Ledger. He will have as his assistants, one member from each of the four classes, to be appointed later. Marcus is drawing many assignments this year, as he is also cheer leader, president of the Graduating Literary society, secretary of the senior class, and official cartoonist.

The will of the late Melinda Shingler has been filed and admitted to probate and her daughter, Mrs. H. W. Hammond has been named as executrix and will serve without bond. The court has appointed Wick Frye, W. A. Lyder and D. B. Wilkinson to serve as appraisers.

Miller Bros. basketball outfit won another game Wednesday night, this time against the Birds, by the score of 27-24, in a very exciting game which was very close and hard fought from start to finish. Anderson and Smith starred for Columbiana while Harrold played well when given a chance toward the finish. In the preliminary, the Columbiana Strollers defeated the Washingtonville Aces by a lopsided score of 21-10.

Saturday night in the home gym, C. H. S. will probably have their hardest opposition of the season in Grove City high school, a game which should attract a very large crowd. The preliminary game will be between New Waterford high school boys and C. H. S. Freshman boys.

The South Side club ladies were entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Dan Miller, South Main street.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN—Continued

"They were the best friends I had. . . . You rented my house with them in it and I felt I had to tell you." She looked at him through a mist of tears. "Besides, I hoped you could tell me what to do."

"I shall do the best I can. Have you notified the police?"

"No. I don't want to. I don't want it to get into the papers, and perhaps reporters bothering me."

"There are other means," Dascome smiled encouragingly. "Don't feel hopeless. Mrs. Kaime. Paintings like those are not easily disposed of—they can be traced. Sit down, and we will try to sift the thing, you and I. Is there any one whom you suspect?"

It gave Karesia vast comfort, that quiet capable way of his; she felt less desolate. "I can't imagine who, unless the man of whom Mary Bliss spoke. You remember, I told you about him last night. I know she had nothing to do with it, but he may have followed her here."

Dascome considered for a moment. "An ordinary thief could scarcely conceive of a more difficult bit of plunder to turn into money. Have you examined your windows and doors?"

"Yes. Everything seems to be exactly as we left it last night. I forgot to close the opening in the closet last night, but everything in the next house seems to be as we left it." Her eyes were still moist. "It's been such a shock."

"Try not to worry, Mrs. Kaime. Let us look about a little. Take me into the next house—we can go through the closet, can't we?"

Dascome let her lead the way into the hall. As he passed the desk table, he took a bunch of keys from his pocket and laid them noiselessly on the table. Then he followed her.

"I had this entrance made because I thought it would save me so many steps. Now the house is rented, I shall have it sealed up." Karesia felt no embarrassment now in explaining; she felt so certain that he understood.

"It struck me last night as a good idea," he said practically. "But I shouldn't seal it up—it would mean more carpenter work when you need to use it again. he bolt in the cabinet locks this side—simply put a fastening on the other side. I will put a bolt on for you any time you wish."

Karesia liked the way in which he said it. His very presence gave her comfort. "I may have lost my painting, but I have gained something even better," was her reflection.

Dascome examined the windows and doors in the vacant house, and finely the kitchen. The door into the screened porch was locked, but he looked through the glass in the door. "I thought so," he said. "The screen door out there is unhooked."

"It was fastened last night," Karesia said. "Well, it is unhooked now. And this simple lock would give a burglar no trouble."

"You think he cut through the screen and unhooked that door, then unlocked this one and locked it again when he went out?"

"It's possible."

"I must get the keys so we can see! . . . I can't remember what I did with them—you gave them to me last night, didn't you?"

"I put them on the table in the big room."

Karesia sped in quest of them, and Dascome stood where he was, head bent, his lips set in a hard line; he lifted his shoulders only when he heard her returning.

They went into the screened porch and he pointed out at once a small round hole in the wire screening, a short distance above the hook. "There it is, Mrs. Kaime. The wire is not even cut. Whoever came in here must have worked some small instrument through the wire and have lifted the hook out of the eye."

"Contemptible!" Karesia said passionately. "My precious kakemonos!"

She felt that she was going to weep and went off hurriedly into the other house. Dascome looked after her; in her simple gingham dress and with her heavy hair braided and wound about her head she looked girlish, the antithesis of the serpentine dancer. Her eyes had filled and her lips quivered like those of any angry and grieving child. Dascome's face darkened and his lips set. He went back slowly and found her in the big room, self-controlled now, in spite of her reddened eyelids.

"We know now how he got in. What do you think I had better do?"

"You don't want to notify the police?"

"I don't want publicity. Besides, they would have no mercy on that poor old woman."

"The law usually punishes the innocent more severely than the guilty," Dascome returned drily. "I believe a good private detective would serve your purpose. I know of a man who is capable. I believe he would find your paintings for you."

"I never thought of a detective—as usual I have been feeling more than thinking!" Karesia exclaimed with mingled relief and self-annoyance.

Dascome smiled. "I told you not to worry. Shall I telephone to him for you? He will want to see you as soon as possible."

"Please. You saw the telephone—there in the closet with the cabinet. If you close the door, Mary Bliss can't hear."

He went at once. It seemed to be his way of doing things, little talk and no fuss; a satisfying way, Karesia thought. He returned in a few minutes. "He says he will be here in about an hour."

"What a relief!"

"Are we going to sign that lease today?" he asked smilingly.

"You think you want the house without the paintings?" she returned half seriously.

His answer was a look. "Will you have investigated me by this evening and have the document ready?"

"You were going to bring your daughter this afternoon."

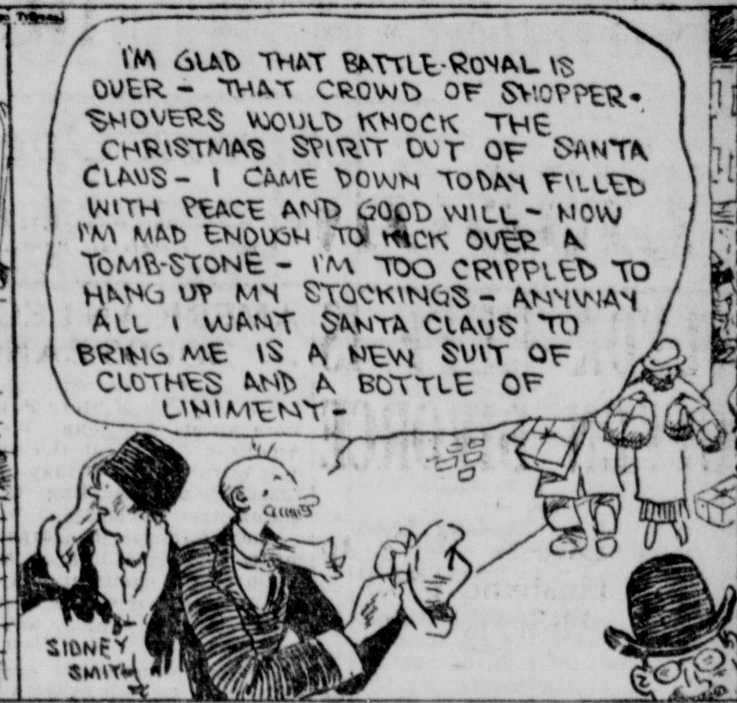

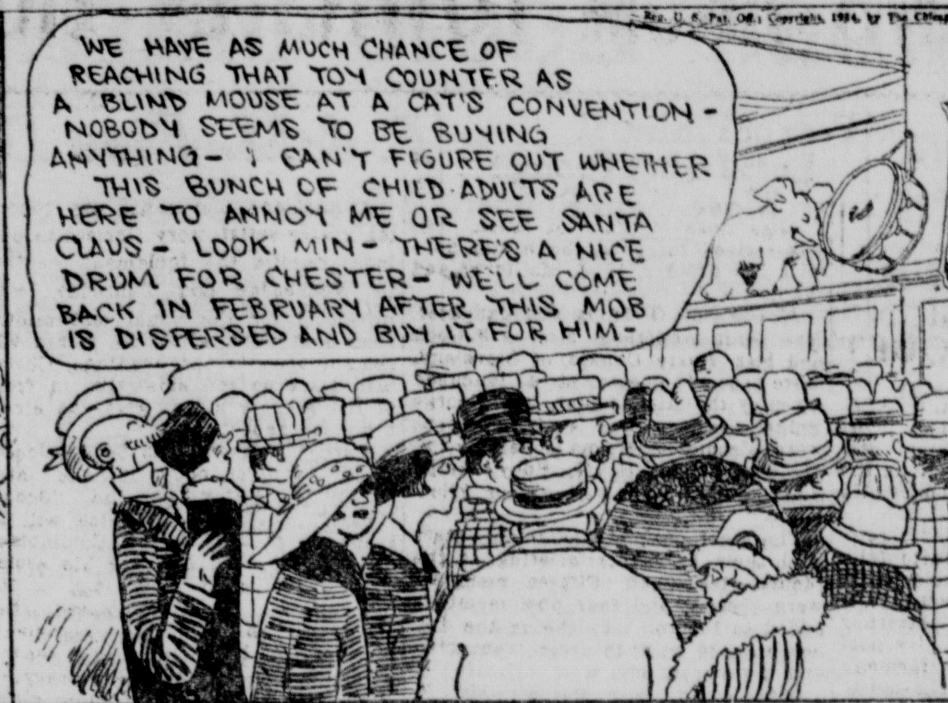

"I meant to tell you. She cannot come today—she's going to the beach with some friends."

"They were the best friends I had. . . . You rented my house with them in it and I felt I had to tell you." She looked at him through a mist of tears. "Besides, I hoped you could tell me what to do."

"I shall do the best I can. Have you notified the police?"

"No. I don't want to. I don't want it to get into the papers, and perhaps reporters bothering me."

"There are other means," Dascome smiled encouragingly. "Don't feel hopeless, Mrs. Kaime. Paintings like those are not easily disposed of—they can be traced. Sit down, and we will try to sift the thing, you and I. Is there any one whom you suspect?"

It gave Karesia vast comfort, that quiet capable way of his; she felt less desolate. "I can't imagine who, unless the man of whom Mary Bliss spoke. You remember, I told you about him last night. I know she had nothing to do with it, but he may have followed her here."

Dascome considered for a moment. "An ordinary thief could scarcely conceive of a more difficult bit of plunder to turn into money. Have you examined your windows and doors?"

"Yes. Everything seems to be exactly as we left it last night. I forgot to close the opening in the closet last night, but everything in the next house seems to be as we left it." Her eyes were still moist. "It's been such a shock."

"Try not to worry, Mrs. Kaime. Let us look about a little. Take me into the next house—we can go through the closet, can't we?"

Dascome let her lead the way into the hall. As he passed the desk table, he took a bunch of keys from his pocket and laid them noiselessly on the table. Then he followed her.

"I had this entrance made because I thought it would save me so many steps. Now the house is rented, I shall have it sealed up," Karesia felt no embarrassment now in explaining; she felt so certain that he understood.

"It struck me last night as a good idea," he said practically. "But I shouldn't seal it up—it would mean more carpenter work when you need to use it again. He bolt in the cabinet locks this side—simply put a fastening on the other side. I will put a bolt on for any time you wish."

Karesia liked the way in which he said it. His very presence gave her comfort. "I may have lost my painting, but I have gained something even better," was her reflection.

Dascome examined the windows and doors in the vacant house, and finely the kitchen. The door into the screened porch was locked, but he looked through the glass in the door. "I thought so," he said. "The screen door out there is unhooked."

"It was fastened last night," Karesia said. "Well, it is unhooked now. And this simple lock would give a burglar no trouble."

"You think he cut through the screen and unhooked that door, then unlocked this one and locked it again when he went out?"

"It's possible."

"I must get the keys so we can see. . . . I can't remember what I did with them—you gave them to me last night, didn't you?"

"I put them on the table in the big room."

Karesia sped in quest of them, and Dascome stood where he was, head bent, his lips set in a hard line; he lifted his shoulders only when he heard her returning.

They went into the screened porch and he pointed out at once a small round hole in the wire screening, a short distance above the hook. "There it is, Mrs. Kaime. The wire is not even cut. Whoever came in here must have worked some small instrument through the wire and have lifted the hook out of the eye."

"Contemptible!" Karesia said passionately. "My precious kakemonos!"

She felt that she was going to weep and went off hurriedly into the other house. Dascome looked after her; in her simple gingham dress and with her heavy hair braided and wound about her head she looked girlish, the antithesis of the serpentine dancer. Her eyes had filled and her lips quivered like those of any angry and grieving child. Dascome's face darkened and his lips set. He went back slowly and found her in the big room, self-controlled now, in spite of her reddened eyelids.

"We know now how he got in. What do you think I had better do?"

"You don't want to notify the police?"

"I don't want publicity. Besides, they would have no mercy on that poor old woman."

"The law usually punishes the innocent more severely than the guilty," Dascome returned drily. "I believe a good private detective would serve your purpose. I know of a man who is capable. I believe he would find your paintings for you."

"I never thought of a detective—as usual I have been feeling more than thinking!" Karesia exclaimed with mingled relief and self-annoyance.

Dascome smiled. "I told you not to worry. Shall I telephone to him for you? He will want to see you as soon as possible."

Runyon Says

Frankie Neil Was Great Bantam His Old Manager Tells You Why He fought Moran With a Bad Kneep How Accident Gave Him a Weapon He Killed Promising Harry Tenney

BY DAMON RUNYON.

AS we grow older all of us are more and more inclined to live in memory. That's human nature.

The poet sings: Hall, memory, hall! in thy exhaustless mine

From age to age unnumber'd treasures shine! Thought and her shadowy brood thy call obey, And Place and Time are subject to thy sway!"

It's human nature to think the old days, the old things, the old customs, were better than those of the present. It's not only human nature, it's the street sign of advancing age.

The writer remarked in this column not long ago that a man who has been associated with a great fighter is thereafter unable to see any other fighter.

He measures the ability of all by his memory of his fighter; that memory not infrequently warped by affection. And the memory never dies.

Here is a case in point. It has been years since "Heine" Rafael has been connected with the boxing game. It has been years since he even attended a fight.

He was once a noted figure in the game on the Pacific Coast, managing and handling fighters. But he has been away from pugilism so long his very name has almost been forgotten in fight circles.

An article in this column brings "Heine" Rafael to light with a long letter. He takes exception to the recent rating here of Jimmy Barry, Johnny Coulon and Pete Herman as the greatest bantams, to which list Charles Mathison added the name of Kid Williams, of Baltimore.

And "Heine" Rafael excepts because the list omits a great little fighter with whom he was once associated. Naturally "Heine" thinks that fighter the greatest that ever lived.

He is talking about Frankie Neil, of San Francisco, one-time champion. Rafael was his manager. He says: "In my opinion, in all the history of the ring, no two bantams living or dead, could have whipped Neil when he was at his best."

This statement, as you will observe, takes in much territory. It will bring reply from other old-timers who were associated with great little fighters.

It shows you what enthusiasm, memory can sometimes arouse.

"Frankie Neil wasn't the easiest boy in the world to handle," Rafael goes on, "and some didn't like his personality, but his middle name was FIGHT!"

"In the three years I managed him he fought them all, big and little. He met opponents at 116 to 130 pounds, and in all his career as world's bantamweight champion he never weighed over 112 pounds. Sometimes he was down to 108 pounds.

"He was cut out for a jockey, and while galloping one of his dad's racers at Oakland one morning was thrown from the horse and his left arm fractured. The setting of the broken arm was not perfectly done, leaving Neil

Award Open Tournery to Youngstown

Wells Will Probably be Contender in Western in 1925.

J. M. Wells of East Liverpool, Ohio, state amateur golf champion, will perform on the Youngstown Country club course in 1925 in the event that he competes in the western open championship. The tournament has been awarded practically to the Youngstown club.

Two clubs, Youngstown and Indianapolis, were leaders in the running for the tournament and the Professional Golfers' association recently advised the western association that it preferred, of the two, the Ohio course.

Inasmuch as more than two-thirds of the field in the western open is comprised of professional players, the W. G. A., it is said, can not well do otherwise else but adhere to their wishes.

The last western open to come into Ohio territory was the 1921 tournament at the Oakwood Country club, Cleveland. The championship that year was won by Walter Hagen. Only three other western open tournaments have been held in Ohio since the inception of the Western Golf association in 1899. Cleveland was honored with two of them—in 1919 at Mayfield, where Jim Barnes of Sunset Hills won; in 1902, when at the old Euclid club Willie Anderson of Pittsfield, Mass., won. In 1905 the open tournament was held at the Cincinnati Golf club and first place went to Arthur Smith of Columbus.

Emmet French, Ohio open champion and one of the foremost American professionals, is located at the Youngstown club. Others on the Youngstown roster include Christy Deibel, C. W. Deibel and Jack Deibel. The Youngstown club this year won the inter-club or team championship of the Cleveland district.

with a stiff arm. Oddly enough, it gave him a wicked weapon for the ring.

"Frankie knocked out many opponents, using a straight body punch with the stiffened arm. It seemed to have unusual power.

"He killed one of the most promising bantams on the coast with this punch. That was Harry Tenney, a boy, I think, who would have become featherweight champion.

"Neil's gameness in the ring was proverbial. He was one of the gamest fighters that ever lived. I think all old-timers will agree with me on this point. Let me tell you one incident.

"He was training to meet Owen Moran in Boston. Moran was the famous English boxer Charley Harvey brought to this country. Neil met him several times, and they always put up terrific battles. They hated each other.

"While working out in his camp about 40 miles from Boston, a liga-

Fear of Financial Loss Didn't Prompt Move, Says Ruppert

NEW YORK, Dec. 20—Denial was entered today by Jacob Ruppert, president of the New York Yankees, of a report that the American league club owners had deserted Ban Johnson to support Judge Landis because they feared box office receipts would suffer if Johnson was sustained in his attacks on the integrity of baseball.

"The American league was loyal to Johnson as long as he remained in his place," Ruppert declared. "But he didn't. Judge Landis had been agreed upon as our supreme arbiter and it was up to all baseball to support him in his decisions. Motives of commercialism didn't enter into the matter. We were called upon to accept terms dictated by a man who was perfectly right in his stand. Naturally we did."

ment got crossed in one of Neil's knees. The effect of this is that one leg becomes shorter than the other, and it is almost impossible to put the foot down flat.

"The bout was postponed for two weeks and the best physicians secured, but they could only relieve the pain a little. We put Neil on a home trainer, a bicycle on a stationary mount, and he would pedal for hours thinking the ligament might snap back into place.

"Well, the night of the bout arrived, and the only thing left for us to do was to have a doctor 'hop' the knee—that is, shoot some stuff into it to deaden the pain.

"Then we put an extra long robe on Neil so as to disguise his lameness as much as possible when he entered the ring. In the meantime I entered Moran's dressing room and told him the story of Neil's knee, telling him if he flattened Neil immediately we would all get 'razed,' and, maybe, have our money held up.

But Moran's animosity toward Neil was terrific, and he only replied, 'I'll knock his bloomin' head off has soon's I can.'

"He did try to keep his threat, too. He went after him in the first round with great fury, but the crippled Neil put up a remarkable battle.

"He was knocked down six times in the first five rounds, and he took a terrific beating. At the end of the twelfth Frankie was still there, however. Moran got the decision, but as Neil, battered and bleeding, stood in the center of the ring he was smiling, and the crowd cheered him as if he had won.

"We all went back to New York on the same train, and I saw Moran and his manager, Charley Harvey. I asked Moran how he felt, and he said: "The tough little blighter busted three of me ribs."

"Moran weighed 124 pounds for this bout, and Neil 117 pounds. That's the kind of a fighter he was! He was a Man of War."

Other old-timers may not agree with "Heine" Rafael, but they must admit he puts the case of Frankie Neil well.

F. & M. Five Downs Chester; Meets Boone's Team Tonight

Fresh from their 56 to 15 victory over Chester high school cagers, the Franklin & Marshall Academy five including former East Liverpool and Wellsville school athletes will try the Ceramic City brand of basketball tonight in the school gymnasium here when they tackle Boone's Blue and White contenders.

The Lancaster, Pa., passers enjoyed a comparatively easy evening with the Hancock countains last night on the Chester school floor, although the West Virginians battled from start to finish.

Wyant and Greenspun, former Chester scholastic stars, and Todd, one of the best all around athletes turned out at Wellsville high in recent years, were members of the F. & M. quintet. The three scored 32 of their team's 56 points.

Todd topped his teammates in the scoring line with seven field goals. Wyant caged the leather six times and Greenspun, a guard, made three of the two-point variety.

The Pennsylvanians displayed the effects of coaching. Their offensive and defensive tactics were well maneuvered.

Tonight, however, they will encounter in Boone's squad keener opposition than they did at Chester, and if fans care to look upon them as favorites, the margin, if any will be very small.

Boone's squad is in fine trim for the clash and the feeling among the players is one of confidence.

SIX MATCHES FOR W. V. U. MATMEN ALREADY CARDED

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 20—During the Christmas holidays officials of the West Virginia University athletic department will make a special effort to fill the two open dates on the 1925 wrestling card. Except for Saturday, January 24, and Saturday, February 21, the Mountain State mat schedule for next year is complete. So far negotiations to fill the two dates have not been successful.

West Virginia authorities have sanctioned an eight-meet program and to date six matches have been definitely arranged. The annual University championships will be held on Saturday, January 17, and it is the desire of those working on the schedule to open the home season with a meet the following Saturday. Final examinations of the first semester will be held the next week.

Coach Steve Harrick has been tutoring a large squad for the past three weeks. There is an abundance of good material and those who have been attending six matches have been convinced that the team Harrick produces will be worthy of meeting the best.

Ever since wrestling as an intercollegiate sport was introduced at West Virginia the coaches have had trouble finding heavyweight material. Except for the unlimited class Coach Harrick is well supplied with material this winter and for the past week he has been scouring the student body to strengthen the squad in that division.

Wrestlers have been excused for the holidays and they will not report again until Tuesday, January 6, when classes will be resumed. All of the candidates have been cautioned to keep in condition and Coach Harrick hopes to be able to resume work after the holidays at the point where he left off yesterday. He expects four veterans, Captain Suder, Pitsenberger, Millender and Wiley to have a good year and as the four of them are rapidly rounding into shape the outlook is encouraging.

Last Night's Fights

At Philadelphia: Marty Gold of Kensington, outpointed Bobby Burke, of Reading, 10 rounds.

At Barberton: Maxie Holub, of Akron, won from Al Dundee, Mansfield, in ten rounds; Steve Nugent outpointed Young Kivi in eight rounds.

At New York—Eddie "Cannonball" Martin, Brooklyn, won world's bantamweight title from Abe Goldstein on points, 15 rounds; Murray Layton outpointed Romeo Vaughn, 4 rounds; Carl Tremaine, bantamweight, Cleveland, outpointed Sonny Smith, 8 rounds.

A chair with a back that forms a coat hanger and with a collar drawer and sliding foot rest has been invented.

LAUGHLIN FIVE DEFEATS HALL

Hancock Leading Scorer With 12 Field Goals.

Laughlin 5 passers of the "Y" industrial league doubled the score on their opponents, the Hall Chinas, in a fast clash last evening on the "Y" floor.

Hancock, who corralled 12 field goals for the victors, was the outstanding star. Mackey and Dyer led in the Hall scoring.

The scheduled game between Trotters and Potters was postponed indefinitely. The lineup:

Laughlin 5. Hancock. Mackey. Berg. C. Cunningham. Lanning. C. Anthony. Eayres. G. W. Smith. Manypenny. G. P. Smith. Substitutions—Laughlin, Carey and Brickerton; Halls, Dyer.

Field goals—Hancock 12, Berg 5, Sayres 4, Carey, Mackey 5, W. Smith, Dyer 3.

Fouls—Sayres, 0, Smith, Mackey 3. Referee—Davies.

The Standing: W. L. Pct. Liverpool Motors 4 1 800. Laughlin 5 2 714. Hall China 3 4 423. Potters 2 3 500. Trotters 1 3 250. Laughlin 5 1 4 200.

A meeting of team managers is scheduled for next Monday night. This will be the final opportunity for revising player lists.

YANKEE BOXER TO REFEREE IN PARIS BATTLES

PARIS, Dec. 20.—American boxers and others well known in American rings will officiate as referees tonight in the season's most important fight program at the Velodrome.

Georges Carpentier will be the referee in the feature bout between the Spanish heavyweight, Paolino, and the Belgian champion, Humbeck.

Johnny Dundee will be the referee of a match between Jack Walker, an American Negro, and Molina, a French light heavyweight; Ledoux will officiate when Nilles, former French heavyweight champion, meets Van der, champion of Holland. Criqui will be the third man in the ring in the meeting between the German middleweight, Erne Grimm, and the Frenchman, Shackles.

Brooklyn Mauler Carries Battle to Foe; Wins Decision

Prototype of Terrible Terry McGovern Absorbs Abe's Hardest Blows and Rushes in for More; Iron Jaw and Punch New Champ's Most Valuable Assets.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20—Twenty-five years ago almost to the month the Gowanus section of Brooklyn gave up a bantamweight champion whose name has lived down through the ages, McGovern the terrible Terry. Last night at Madison Square Garden, Cannonball Eddie Martin defeated Abe Goldstein on points at the end of fifteen rounds and a new bantamweight champion was born from the neighborhood in some respects a prototype of the once terrible one.

That is as it should be. The Cannonball, man and boy, has lived to the ripe old age of twenty-one, with the picture of McGovern ever held before him as an example of what a fighting man should be. Martin may lack the ferocity of attack that made McGovern famous but he has the heart, the punch and never for a moment does he stop rushing and plunging in.

Four times during the third round, Goldstein crossed a right flash to the Cannonball's jaw. They were punches that would have dropped almost any other fighter in the game, but Martin did not go down. His reply was to plunge in groggy though he was and carry the fight to Goldstein. Non-plused, the latter subsequently went on the defense and lost the decision.

The verdict, questioned in many quarters, was a close one but that is of no particular consequence, if Charles Paddock beat Jackson Scholz by inches, they wouldn't call it a dead heat.

Goldstein had jabbed his way to a long lead at the end of the first six rounds, but the cannonball, born Edward B. Martino, had dreamed a dream of a champion who went into action with fists that never stopped flying until one man or the other went down and stayed there. He was in there to fight 15 rounds or less, regardless of consequences and if Goldstein had the advantage in six rounds, so be it. He had only begun to fight.

They say of Martin that he has only been on the floor once during his career. The writer can well believe it.

Unlike McGovern, the Cannonball seems almost immune to a punch on the jaw. This, with his punch, form the ingredients that created a champion. He hasn't much else but they seem to be enough. They carried him from obscurity to fame in less than two years of ring fighting. In his brief career Martin has taken part in sixty-four fights and has lost only two decisions.

After leading through the first two rounds and part of the third, Goldstein suddenly flashed a right to the jaw and almost instinctively turned toward his corner. He thought it was the end, but Martin neither went down, as expected, nor fell into a clinch. He reeled back and then rushed. Before he could get his bearings Abe let him have two more, but the young man rushed again. He was groggy but as game as they come. To prove it, he caught Abe on the chin with a hard right and the latter reeled away and covered up. When his head cleared he again maneuvered the Cannonball into position and again the right found the mark on the point of the chin. But by this time, Martin seemed used to it. He was tired, yet energetic at the bell.

Goldstein was lucky to get an even break in the fourth. Martin rushing him off his feet at times. At this point Goldstein seemed to have lost heart and was rocked by several hard rights in the fifth. He did better in the sixth, jabbing effectively with his left. But his speed was ebbing fast, and for the next four rounds, he was unable to hold Martin off, a left hook to the jaw having him in trouble in the seventh.

The eleventh was a very long round mauling and body punching, but in the twelfth Abe came back like a bad check and he earned the round by snappy punching, another right sending Martin reeling against the ropes. Several more hurt Martin badly in the thirteenth, but the Cannonball all but stopped Abe in the following round with a terrific right to the stomach. He never recovered from that punch although he did land another hard right to the jaw at the bell.

Hockey Game Ends in Tie. PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 20.—After two hectic extra periods last night the Cleveland - Pittsburgh hockey game ended in a 2-2 tie. The Yellowjackets scored first in the second period and again in the second, but Cleveland evened the score in the latter part of the second period.

CONSUMPTION INCREASE IN USE OF FREEDOM PERFECT 1923 YEARS 1924

What This Consumption Curve Means to Motorists!

IN rapidly increasing numbers, motorists are learning of the lubricating properties in Freedom Perfect. Notice the curve—two and one-half years ago this new motor oil was first announced—steadily, its popularity has increased until, today, thousands of motorists ask for it by name.

There is but one reason. Motorists are realizing that "taking care of a car" means "lubricating" it properly. They are demanding, not only an oil made from 100% Pennsylvania Crude, but the most protective oil made from 100% Pennsylvania Crude. They are trying Freedom Perfect and are finding it just what it is—the latest development, the perfected product of an organization which for 45 years has specialized in the refining of Paraffin Base Crudes.

The booklet "Oil Facts" explains motor car operation in detail, motor oils in general, and Freedom Perfect in particular. It is free. Ask your dealer for a copy—or write the address below.

Says
Frankie Nell Was Great Bantam
His Old Manager Tells You Why

How Accident Gave Him a Weapon
He Killed Promising Harry Tenney

BY DAMON RUNYON.
AS we grow older all of us are more and more inclined to live in memory. That's human nature. The poet sings:
"Hail, memory, hail! in thy exhaustless mine
From age to age unnumber'd treasures shine!
Thought and her shadowy brood thy call obey,
And Place and Time are subject to thy sway!"
It's human nature to think the old days, the old customs, were better than those of the present. It's not only human nature, it's the street sign of advancing age.

The writer remarked in this column not long ago that a man who has been associated with a great fighter is thereafter unable to see any other fighter.
He measures the ability of all by his memory of his fighter; that memory not infrequently warped by affection. And the memory never dies.

Here is a case in point.
It has been years since "Heine" Rafael has been connected with the boxing game. It has been years since he even attended a fight.
He was once a noted figure in the game on the Pacific Coast, managing and handling fighters. But he has been away from pugilism so long his very name has almost been forgotten in fistic circles.

An article in this column brings "Heine" Rafael to light with a long letter. He takes exception to the recent rating here of Jimmy Barry, Johnny Coulon and Pete Herman as the greatest bantams, to which list Charles Mathison added the name of Kid Williams, of Baltimore.
And "Heine" Rafael excepts because the list omits a great little fighter with whom he was once associated. Naturally "Heine" thinks that fighter the greatest that ever lived.

He is talking about Frankie Nell, of San Francisco, one-time champion Rafael was his manager. He says:

"In my opinion, in all the history of the ring, no two bantams living or dead, could have whipped Nell when he was at his best."

This statement, as you will observe, takes in much territory. It will bring reply from other old-timers who were associated with great little fighters.

It shows you what enthusiasm, memory can sometimes arouse.
"Frankie Nell wasn't the easiest boy in the world to handle," Rafael goes on, "and some didn't like his personality, but his middle name was FIGHT!"

"In the three years I managed him he fought them all, big and little. He met opponents at 116 to 130 pounds, and in all his career as world's bantamweight champion he never weighed over 112 pounds. Sometimes he was down to 108 pounds.

"He was cut out for a jockey, and while galloping one of his dad's racers at Oakland one morning was thrown from the horse and his left arm fractured. The setting of the broken arm was not perfectly done, leaving Nell

Award Open Tourney to Youngstown

Wells Will Probably be Contender in Western in 1925.

J. M. Wells of East Liverpool, Ohio, state amateur golf champion, will perform on the Youngstown Country club course in 1925 in the event that he competes in the western open championship. The tournament has been awarded practically to the Youngstown club.

Two clubs, Youngstown and Indianapolis, were leaders in the running for the tournament and the Professional Golfers' association recently advised the western association that it preferred, of the two, the Ohio course.

Inasmuch as more than two-thirds of the field in the western open is comprised of professional players, the W. G. A., it is said, can not well do anything else but adhere to their wishes.

The last western open to come into Ohio territory was the 1921 tournament at the Oakwood Country club, Cleveland. The championship that year was won by Walter Hagen. Only three other western open tournaments have been held in Ohio since the inception of the Western Golf association in 1899. Cleveland was honored with two of them—in 1919 at Mayfield, where Jim Barnes of Sunset Hills won; in 1922, when at the old Euclid club Willie Anderson of Pittsfield, Mass., won. In 1925 the open tournament was held at the Cincinnati Golf club and first place went to Arthur Smith of Columbus.

Emmett French, Ohio open champion and one of the foremost American professionals, is located at the Youngstown club. Others on the Youngstown roster include Christy Deibel, C. W. Deibel and Jack Deibel. The Youngstown club this year won the inter-club or team championship of the Cleveland district.

with a stiff arm. Oddly enough, it gave him a wicked weapon for the ring.

"Frankie knocked out many opponents, using a straight body punch with a stiffened arm. It seemed to have unusual power."

"He killed one of the most promising bantams on the coast with this punch. That was Harry Tenney, a boy, I think, who would have become featherweight champion."

"Neil's gameness in the ring was proverbial. He was one of the gamest fighters that ever lived. I think all old-timers will agree with me on this point. Let me tell you one incident."

"He was training to meet Owen Moran in Boston. Moran was the famous English boxer Charley Harvey brought to this country. Neil met him several times, and they always put up terrific battles. They hated each other."

Fear of Financial Loss Didn't Prompt Move, Says Rupert

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Denial was entered today by Jacob Rupert, president of the New York Yankees, of a report that the American league club owners had deserted Ban Johnson to support Judge Landis because they feared box office receipts would suffer if Johnson was sustained in his attacks on the integrity of baseball.

"The American league was loyal to Johnson as long as he remained in his place," Rupert declared. "But he didn't. Judge Landis had been agreed upon as our supreme arbiter and it was up to all baseball to support him in his decisions. Motives of commercialism didn't enter into the matter. We were called upon to accept terms dictated by a man who was perfectly right in his stand. Naturally we did."

ment got crossed in one of Neil's knees. The effect of this is that one leg becomes shorter than the other, and it is almost impossible to put the foot down flat.

"The bout was postponed for two weeks and the best physicians secured, but they could only relieve the pain a little. We put Neil on a home trainer, a bicycle on a stationary mount, and he would pedal for hours thinking the ligament might snap back into place."

"Well, the night of the bout arrived, and the only thing left for us to do was to have a doctor 'hop' the knee—that is, shoot some stuff into it to deaden the pain."

"Then we put an extra long robe on Neil so as to disguise his lameness as much as possible when he entered the ring. In the meantime I entered Moran's dressing room and told him the story of Neil's knee, telling him if he flattened Neil immediately we would all get 'razed,' and, maybe, have our money held up.
But Moran's animosity toward Neil was terrific, and he only replied, 'I'll knock his bloomie' 'head off has soon's I can.'"

"He did try to keep his threat, too. He went after him in the first round with great fury, but the crippled Neil put up a remarkable battle."

"He was knocked down six times in the first five rounds, and he took a terrific beating. At the end of the twelfth Frankie was still there, however. Moran got the decision, but as Neil, battered and bleeding, stood in the center of the ring he was smiling, and the crowd cheered him as if he had won."

"We all went back to New York on the same train, and I saw Moran and his manager, Charley Harvey. I asked Moran how he felt, and he said: "The tough little blighter busted three of me ribs."

"Moran weighed 124 pounds for this bout, and Neil 117 pounds. That's the kind of a fighter he was! He was a Man o' War."

Other old-timers may not agree with "Heine" Rafael, but they must admit he puts the case of Frankie Nell well.

F. & M. Five Downs Chester; Meets Boone's Team Tonight

Fresh from their 55 to 15 victory over Chester high school cagers, the Franklin & Marshall Academy five including former East Liverpool and Wellsville school athletes will try the Ceramic City brand of basketball tonight in the school gymnasium here when they tackle Boone's Blue and White contenders.

The Lancaster, Pa., passers enjoyed a comparatively easy evening with the Hancock team last night on the Chester school floor, although the West Virginians battled from start to finish.

Wyant and Greenspan, former Chester scholastic stars, and Todd, one of the best all around athletes turned out at Wellsville high in recent years, were members of the F. & M. quintet. The three scored 32 of their team's 56 points.

Todd topped his teammates in the scoring line with seven field goals. Wyant caged the leather six times and Greenspan, a guard, made three of the two-point variety.

The Pennsylvanians displayed the effects of coaching. Their offensive and defensive tactics were well maintained.

Tonight, however, they will encounter in Boone's squad keener opposition than they did at Chester, and if fans care to look upon them as favorites, the margin, if any will be very small.

Boone's squad is in fine trim for the clash and the feeling among the players is one of confidence.

SIX MATCHES FOR W. V. U. MATMEN ALREADY CARDED

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 20.—During the Christmas holidays officials of the West Virginia University athletic department will make a special effort to fill the two open dates on the 1925 wrestling card. Expected for Saturday, January 24, and Saturday, February 21, the Mountaineers must schedule for next year is complete. So far negotiations to fill the two dates have not been successful.

West Virginia authorities have sanctioned an eight-meet program and to date six matches have been definitely arranged. The annual University championships will be held on Saturday, January 17, and it is the desire of those working on the schedule to open the home season with a meet the following Saturday. Final examinations of the first semester will be held the next week.

Coach Steve Harlick has been tutoring a large squad for the past three weeks. There is an abundance of good material and those who have been attending the workouts claim that the team Harlick produces will be worthy of meeting the wrestling as an intercollegiate sport was introduced at West Virginia the coaches have had trouble finding heavyweight material. Except for the unlimited class Coach Harlick is well supplied with material this winter and for the past week he has been scouring the student body to strengthen the squad in that division.

Wrestlers have been excused for the holidays and they will not report again until Tuesday, January 6, when classes will be resumed. All of the candidates have been cautioned to keep in condition and Coach Harlick hopes to be able to resume work after the holidays at the point where he left off yesterday. He expects four veterans, Captain Suder, Pitsenberger, Millender and Wiley to have a good year and as the four of them are rapidly rounding into shape the outlook is encouraging.

Last Night's Fights

At Philadelphia: Marty Gold of Kensington, outpointed Bobby Burke, of Reading, 10 rounds.

At Barbenton: Maxie Holub, of Akron, won from Al Dundee, Mansfield, in ten rounds; Steve Nugent outpointed Young Klvi in eight rounds.

LAUGHLIN FIVE DEFEATS HALL

Hancock Leading Scorer With 12 Field Goals.

Laughlin 5 passers of the "Y" industrial league doubled the score on their opponents, the Hall Chinas, in a fast clash last evening on the "Y" floor.

Hancock, who corralled 12 field goals for the victors, was the outstanding star. Mackey and Dyer led in the Hall scoring.

The scheduled game between Trotters and Potters was postponed indefinitely. The lineup:

Laughlin 5. Hancock 12. Mackey 5. Sayres 4. Carey, Mackey 5, W. Smith, Dyer 3.
Fouls—Sayres, 0, Smith, Mackey 3. Referee—Davies.

The Standing:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Liverpool Motors	4	1	.800
Laughlin 5	5	2	.714
Hall China	3	4	.428
Potters	2	3	.500
Trotters	1	3	.250
Laughlin 5	1	4	.200

A meeting of team managers is scheduled for next Monday night. This will be the final opportunity for revising player lists.

YANKEE BOXER TO REFEREE IN PARIS BATTLES

PARIS, Dec. 20.—American boxers and others well known in American rings will officiate as referees tonight in the season's most important fight program at the Volodrome.
Georges Carpentier will be the referee in the feature bout between the Spanish heavyweight, Paolino, and the Belgian champion, Humbeck. Johnny Dundee will be the referee of a match between Jack Walker, an American Negro, and Molina, a French light heavyweight; Ledoux will officiate when Nilles, former French heavyweight champion, meets Vandervier, champion of Holland. Criqui will be the third man in the ring in the meeting between the German middleweight, Erne Grimm, and the Frenchman, Shackles.

Brooklyn Mauler Carries Battle to Foe; Wins Decision

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Twenty-five years ago almost to the month the Gowanus section of Brooklyn gave up a bantamweight champion whose name has lived down through the ages, McGovern the terrible Terry. Last night at Madison Square Garden, Cannonball Eddie Martin defeated Abe Goldstein on points at the end of fifteen rounds and a new bantamweight champion was born from the neighborhood in some respects a prototype of the once terrible one.

That is as it should be. The Cannonball, man and boy, has lived to the ripe old age of twenty-one, with the picture of McGovern ever held before him as an example of what a fighting man should be. Martin may lack the ferocity of attack that made McGovern famous but he has the heart, the punch and never for a moment does he stop rushing and plunging in.

Four times during the third round, Goldstein crossed a right flash to the Cannonball's jaw. They were punches that would have dropped almost any other fighter in the game, but Martin did not go down. His reply was to plunge in groggy though he was and carry the fight to Goldstein. Non-plused, the latter subsequently went on the defense and lost the decision.

The verdict, questioned in many quarters, was a close one but that is of no particular consequence, if Charlie Paddock beat Jackson Scholz by inches, they wouldn't call it a dead heat.

Goldstein had jabbed his way to a long lead at the end of the first six rounds, but the cannonball, born Edward B. Martino, had dreamed a dream of a champion who went into action with fists that never stopped flying until one man or the other went down and stayed there. He was in there to fight 15 rounds or less, regardless of consequences and if Goldstein had the advantage in six rounds, so be it. He had only begun to fight.

They say of Martin that he has only been on the floor once during his career. The writer can well believe it.

Unlike McGovern, the Cannonball seems almost immune to a punch on the jaw. This, with his punch, form the ingredients that created a champion. He hasn't much else but they seem to be enough. They carried him from obscurity to fame in less than two years of ring fighting. In his brief career Martin has taken part in sixty-four fights and has lost only two decisions.

After leading through the first two rounds and part of the third, Goldstein suddenly flashed a right to the jaw and almost instinctively turned toward his corner. He thought it was the end, but Martin neither went down, as expected, nor fell into a clinch. He reeled back and then rushed before he could get his bearings Abe left him have two more, but the young man rushed again. He was groggy but as game as they come. To prove it, he caught Abe on the chin with a hard right and the latter reeled away and covered up. When his head cleared he again maneuvered the Cannonball into position and again the right found the mark on the point of the chin. But by this time, Martin seemed used to it. He was tired, yet energetic at the bell.

Goldstein was lucky to get an even break in the fourth. Martin rushing him off his feet at times. At this point Goldstein seemed to have lost heart and was rocked by several hard rights in the fifth. He did better in the sixth, jabbing effectively with his left. But his speed was ebbing fast, and for the next four rounds, he was unable to hold Martin off, a left hook to the jaw having him in trouble in the seventh.

The eleventh was a very long round mauling and body punching, but in the twelfth Abe came back like a bad check and he earned the round by snappy punching, another right sending Martin reeling against the ropes. Several more hurt Martin badly in the thirteenth, but the Cannonball all but stopped Abe in the following round with a terrific right to the stomach. He never recovered from that punch although he did land another hard right to the jaw at the bell.

F. & M. Five Downs Chester; Meets Boone's Team Tonight

Fresh from their 56 to 15 victory over Chester high school cagers, the Franklin & Marshall Academy five including former East Liverpool and Wellsville school athletes will try the Ceramic City brand of basketball tonight in the school gymnasium here when they tackle Boone's Blue and White contenders.

The Lancaster, Pa., passers enjoyed a comparatively easy evening with the Hancock team last night on the Chester school floor, although the West Virginians battled from start to finish.

Wyant and Greenspan, former Chester scholastic stars, and Todd, one of the best all around athletes turned out at Wellsville high in recent years, were members of the F. & M. quintet. The three scored 32 of their team's 56 points.

Todd topped his teammates in the scoring line with seven field goals. Wyant caged the leather six times and Greenspan, a guard, made three of the two-point variety.

The Pennsylvanians displayed the effects of coaching. Their offensive and defensive tactics were well maneuvered.

Tonight, however, they will encounter in Boone's squad keener opposition than they did at Chester, and if fans care to look upon them as favorites, the margin, if any will be very small.

Boone's squad is in fine trim for the clash and the feeling among the players is one of confidence.

SIX MATCHES FOR W. V. U. MATMEN ALREADY CARDED

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 20.—During the Christmas holidays officials of the West Virginia University athletic department will make a special effort to fill the two open dates on the 1925 wrestling card. Except for Saturday, January 24, and Saturday, February 21, the Mountaineer mat schedule for next year is complete. So far negotiations to fill the two dates have not been successful.

West Virginia authorities have sanctioned an eight-meet program and to date six matches have been definitely arranged. The annual University championships will be held on Saturday, January 17, and it is the desire of those working on the schedule to open the home season with a meet the following Saturday. Final examinations of the first semester will be held the next week.

Coach Steve Harrick has been tutoring a large squad for the past three weeks. There is an abundance of good material and those who have been attending the workouts claim that the team Harrick produces will be worthy of meeting the best.

Ever since wrestling was introduced at West Virginia the coaches have had trouble finding heavyweight material. Except for the unlimited class Coach Harrick is well supplied with material this winter and for the past week he has been scouring the student body to strengthen the squad in that division.

Wrestlers have been excused for the holidays and they will not report again until Tuesday, January 6, when classes will be resumed. All of the candidates have been cautioned to keep in condition and Coach Harrick hopes to be able to resume work after the holidays at the point where he left off yesterday. He expects four veterans, Captain Suder, Pilsenberger, Millender and Wiley to have a good year and as the four of them are rapidly rounding into shape the outlook is encouraging.

Last Night's Fights

At Philadelphia: Marty Gold of Kensington, outpointed Bobby Burke, of Reading, 10 rounds.

At Barborton: Maxie Holub, of Akron, won from Al Dundee, Mansfield, in ten rounds; Steve Nugent outpointed Young Kivi in eight rounds.

At New York: Eddie "Cannonball" Martin, Brooklyn, won world's bantamweight title from Abe Goldstein on points, 15 rounds; Murray Layton outpointed Romeo Vaughn, 4 rounds; Carl Tremaine, bantamweight, Cleveland, outpointed Sonny Smith, 8 rounds.

A chair with a back that forms a coat hanger and with a collar drawer and sliding foot rest has been invented.

YANKEE BOXER TO REFEREE IN PARIS BATTLES

PARIS, Dec. 20.—American boxers and others well known in American rings will officiate as referees tonight in the season's most important fight program at the Velodrome.

Georges Carpentier will be the referee in the feature bout between the Spanish heavyweight, Paolino, and the Belgian champion, Humbek. Johnny Dundee will be the referee of a match between Jack Walker, an American Negro, and Molina, a French light heavyweight; Ledoux will officiate when Nilles, former French heavyweight champion, meets Vanderver, champion of Holland. Criqui will be the third man in the ring in the meeting between the German middleweight, Erne Grimm, and the Frenchman, Shackles.

Brooklyn Mauler Carries Battle to Foe; Wins Decision

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—Twenty-five years ago almost to the month the Gowanus section of Brooklyn gave up a bantamweight champion whose name has lived down through the ages, McGovern the terrible Terry. Last night at Madison Square Garden, Cannonball Eddie Martin defeated Abe Goldstein on points at the end of fifteen rounds and a new bantamweight champion was born from the neighborhood in some respects a prototype of the once terrible one.

That is as it should be. The Cannonball, man and boy, has lived to the ripe old age of twenty-one, with the picture of McGovern ever held before him as an example of what a fighting man should be. Martin may lack the ferocity of attack that made McGovern famous but he has the heart, the punch and never for a moment does he stop rushing and plunging in.

Four times during the third round, Goldstein crossed a right flash to the Cannonball's jaw. They were punches that would have dropped almost any other fighter in the game, but Martin did not go down. His reply was to plunge in groggy though he was and carry the fight to Goldstein. Non-plussed, the latter subsequently went on the defense and lost the decision.

The verdict, questioned in many quarters, was a close one but that is of no particular consequence, if Charlie Paddock beat Jackson Scholz by inches, they wouldn't call it a dead heat.

Goldstein had jabbed his way to a long lead at the end of the first six rounds, but the cannonball, born Edward B. Martino, had dreamed a dream of a champion who went into action with fists that never stopped flying until one man or the other went down and stayed there. He was in there to fight 15 rounds or less, regardless of consequences and if Goldstein had the advantage in six rounds, so be it. He had only begun to fight.

They say of Martin that he has only been on the floor once during his career. The writer can well believe it.

Unlike McGovern, the Cannonball seems almost immune to a punch on the jaw. This, with his punch, form the ingredients that created a champion. He hasn't much else but they seem to be enough. They carried him from obscurity to fame in less than two years of ring fighting. In his brief career Martin has taken part in sixty-four fights and has lost only two decisions.

After leading through the first two rounds and part of the third, Goldstein suddenly flashed a right to the jaw and almost instinctively turned toward his corner. He thought it was the end, but Martin neither went down, as expected, nor fell into a clinch. He reeled back and then rushed. Before he could get his bearings Abe let him have two more, but the young man rushed again. He was groggy but as game as they come. To prove it, he caught Abe on the chin with a hard right and the latter reeled away and covered up. When his head cleared he again maneuvered the Cannonball into position and again the right found the mark on the point of the chin. But by this time, Martin seemed used to it. He was tired, yet energetic at the bell.

Goldstein was lucky to get an even break in the fourth. Martin rushing him off his feet at times. At this point Goldstein seemed to have lost heart and was rocked by several hard rights in the fifth. He did better in the sixth, jabbing effectively with his left. But his speed was ebbing fast, and for the next four rounds, he was unable to hold Martin off, a left hook to the jaw having him in trouble in the seventh.

The eleventh was a very long round mauling and body punching, but in the twelfth Abe came back like a bad check and he earned the round by snappy punching, another right sending Martin reeling against the ropes. Several more hurt Martin badly in the thirteenth, but the Cannonball all but stopped Abe in the following round with a terrific right to the stomach. He never recovered from that punch although he did land another hard right to the jaw at the bell.

Hockey Game Ends in Tie.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 20.—After two hectic extra periods last night the Cleveland-Pittsburgh hockey game ended in a 2-2 tie. The Yellowjackets scored first in the second period and again in the second, but Cleveland evened the score in the latter part of the second period.

Advances in Every Phase of Operation and Ownership

Before a car can attain a success as complete and all-inclusive as the Chrysler Six it must present advances bearing materially on all phases of performance and ownership. No matter how powerful and flexible the engine, no matter how sturdy the construction, no matter how economical the operation—there must also be superior riding qualities and superior appearance.

The Chrysler Six, sweeping aside tradition, offered advances in every one of these particulars. It scored on all counts. No wonder, then, that it won an unprecedented success almost overnight and a victory that is complete.

What This Consumption Curve Means to Motorists!

IN rapidly increasing numbers, motorists are learning of the lubricating properties in Freedom Perfect. Notice the curve—two and one-half years ago this new motor oil was first announced—steadily, its popularity has increased until, today, thousands of motorists ask for it by name.

There is but one reason. Motorists are realizing that "taking care of a car" means "lubricating" it properly. They are demanding, not only an oil made from 100% Pennsylvania Crude, but the most protective oil made from 100% Pennsylvania Crude. They are trying Freedom Perfect and are finding it just what it is—the latest development, the perfected product of an organization which for 45 years has specialized in the refining of Paraffin Base Crudes.

The booklet "Oil Facts" explains motor car operation in detail, motor oils in general, and Freedom Perfect in particular. It is free. Ask your dealer for a copy—or write the address below.

Freedom Cylinder and Engine Oils for factory use are of the same high quality as Freedom Motor Oils.

CHURCH SERVICES

WELLSVILLE CHURCHES.

First Presbyterian Church—Morning worship, 11 o'clock.
Prelude, "March of the Wise Men"—Adelste Fidelis—George W. Morgan.
Anthem, "O Holy Night" (Adam).
Tenor solo and quartet.
Solo, "There's a Song in the Air" (Oley Speaks)—George Imbrie.
Offertory, "In Moonlight"—Ralph Kinder.
Anthem, "There Were Shepherds"—Frederic W. Mansfield; soprano solo and quartet.
Sermon, "Gratitude for God's Un-speakable Gift"—Rev. E. H. Magill.
Postlude, "Hallelujah Chorus" (Hendel).
Quartet—Miss Pauline Berg, Mrs. R. H. Mick, James McQueen, E. L. Kretzer; Mrs. J. F. Hamilton, organist.
Evening service, 7 o'clock.
Prelude, "Christmas in Italy" (Pietro Yon).
Offertory, "Angels' Serenade"; Transcription (G. Braga).
Postlude, "Triumphal March" (Naylor).
In place of a sermon the Sunday school will present the beautiful Christmas pageant, entitled "The Shepherd's Vision." This will be acted out by a large number of persons in costume and will be interspersed with appropriate songs and accompanied by soft music.

As a part of this delightful program, "White Gifts for the King," will be brought forward by the Sunday school classes and the congregation. These gifts will consist in substance, service and self.
This will be a most attractive and delightful service as well as one of worship and consecration.
To both of these services the public is most heartily invited.

The Church of Christ—Meeting at 17th and Commerce streets. Worship "Lord's Day," 10:30. Lesson Ephesians, first chapter, will be read by Merli Miller. Singing, prayers, exhortations, admonitions, teaching, contribution, Lord's Supper, benediction. Preaching 7:30. Pulpit will be occupied by L. E. Miller. Come and learn the truth. Get ready for the protracted meeting February 10. T. Q. Martin will be in charge and the meeting will continue indefinitely.

Second Presbyterian Church—Thos. G. Berger, pastor. Bible school 9:45. J. D. S. McLean, Supt. Morning worship 11:00. Theme: "No Room for Jesus." Junior C. E. 6:00. Senior C. E. 6:00. Evening service 7:00. Theme: "Regeneration." There will be special Christmas music at all services.

First Methodist Protestant Church, Main at Tenth Street, Rev. R. Ernest Games, Pastor. Two attractive Christmas services will be rendered Sunday. The Sunday School will assemble at the usual hour, 9:45 a. m. Following the opening exercises the Christmas lesson will be presented in a ten minute talk by the Pastor on "God's Gift To the World," after which a program consisting of recitations, dialogues, exercises and class songs will be presented by the Sunday school. The decorations will be in keeping with the idea of a White Christmas and White Gifts will be presented to the King whose birthday we celebrate. Evening service—At 7 p. m., the choir will render a Christmas service of story and song, entitled, "The Star of Glory." Mrs. Oliver Cummings will preside at the organ and Miss Lillian Davis will relate the Christmas story, which will be interpreted with solos, duets, quartets and choruses. The service is announced for an early hour so it will not interfere with the Community service at the Public Square, at 8:45. You are invited to all of these services.

Church of the Ascension—Church School 9:45. Evening service and sermon, "Judgment of Mercy," 7:30. On Christmas Eve, Dec. 24, the church Sunday School will hold their Christmas entertainment at 7:30, followed by the Christmas Service by the pastor. Holy Communion and short address 8:30 p. m.

United Presbyterian Church, R. W. Ustick, pastor. Bible School 9:45 a. m., Supt. L. E. Burris. Morning Worship 11 o'clock. Sermon "The Meaning of Christmas." Special music at this service. Junior Missionary Society 2:30 p. m. Christmas Vesper Service at 5 p. m. Special programme for this service printed elsewhere in the paper. The Kiwanis Club has been extended a cordial invitation to attend this service. Young Peoples Group meets at 6 p. m., following the Vesper Service. "The Christmas Story in Poetry and Song." Lk. 2:8-16. Community Christmas service at the Square at 8:45. No prayer meeting on Wednesday night. The Christmas entertainment and treat will be held Thursday evening, Christmas night, at 7:30. A play adapted from "The Christmas Carol," by Dickens, will be given at this service. The entire Bible school and congregation, and friends, are urged to attend this service. The public is cordially invited to attend all the services of Christmas week at this church.

Nazareth Mission—Sabbath School 2:30 p. m. Chas. Wood, Supt. Evangelistic Service at 3:15 p. m. Sermon by Rev. A. B. Riggs.

CHURCH ITEMS FROM WORLD

Central Congregational Church, Toledo, Kan., served by Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, author of "In His Steps" for thirty-five years, has completed and dedicated a $120,000 parish house as a memorial to Dr. Sheldon.

Prof. George Palmer has endowed a professorship in history at the University of Michigan as a memorial to his wife, Alice Freeman Palmer, one of the most distinguished graduates of the university. The terms of the gift direct that the chair shall be filled by a woman.

Following his retirement from the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church, New York City, March 1st of next year, Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick announces that he will spend a year in travel and study in Egypt and Palestine. This is the first time in twenty years that Dr. Fosdick has had an opportunity for a Sabbatical year vacation.

There is a Christian-owned plant in China that is impressing tourists. The Commercial Press in Shanghai was started by Christian Chinese and has always been run on Christian principles, though a paying business enterprise. Five hundred out of three thousand employees are professing Christians. There is a nine-hour day, no Sunday work, a grant of two months pay for mothers at time their babies are born, a nursery, an attractive garden and a club building. There are busses, a savings department and retiring grants, and about everything up-to-date. The capital is $5,000,000 and there is not a foreigner connected with the concern.

Canada's "United Church," the coalition of Presbyterians, Methodists and Congregationalists, will be formally created next June when the governing councils of the three denominations will meet separately and together during the same week in Toronto. It is expected that the Presbyterian congregations what will decide prior to that time not to join the United Church will be about twenty-five per cent of the denomination.

The Presbyterian Synod of California has under way plans for building of homes for retired ministers, to consist, equipping and endowing a colony of a central building surrounded by a number of small bungalows. A fund of not less than $500,000 will be required to carry the scheme to completion but it is expected to provide a real home for old age.

A Hamilton-Jefferson association was organized at Utica, New York, recently, among members being fifty Protestants nearly all Masons, and a like number of Catholics the majority of whom affiliated with the Knights of Columbus. It is declared to be a non-secret, non-sectarian, and non-partisan group to foster patriotic ideals and a spirit of toleration in economics, politics and religion. Elihu Root, formerly secretary of the interior, gave the address at the organization.

The statistical department of the city of Tokyo reports the following losses and damages caused by the earthquake and fire in Japan: Tokyo $1,990,000,000; Yokohama, $590,000,000; other areas, $250,000,000. This does not include losses of treasures and personal property. With these included losses would total $5,000,000,000.

HOME TRAINING

Truth Rather Than Position.
"I want a very fine weave in this material," said a customer to a young clerk who knowing that such was not in stock said, "I am sorry, but we have nothing with a finer weave."
The proprietor hearing the conversation was indignant and later said to the young clerk, "Why did you not show other goods? You are here to make sales and never to let a customer leave if it is possible to sell him anything."
"But we did not have the quality in the store that he wanted, and when he asked me a plain question, to be honest, I had to tell him that we had nothing with a finer weave."
"Young man," said the proprietor, "if you can't stretch the truth a little to fit the circumstances, you will never do for me."
"Very well, if I must tell falsehoods in order to keep my place, I must lose it. That's all."
This clerk was Marshall Field, who later became one of the kings of commerce, while the dishonest employer became a bankrupt and died in poverty.

LIVE QUESTIONS FOR DISCUSSION

Live Questions for Discussion on the Sunday School Lesson—God's Gift to the World (Christmas Lesson)—John 1:4-18; 3:16-21 for Sunday, December 21.
1. Do you regard the term "word" a good one to describe Jesus Christ in his relation to the Father God? Why?
2. What is next important to being the light in this case?
3. What is it to be a child of God in the highest and truest sense? How do men's treatment of Christ show and determine their character?
4. How would the preaching of John 3:16, 17 hasten world peace and universal brotherhood?
5. Why is the coming of Christ in the flesh the greatest of God's gifts to men?
6. How can we keep the spirit of Christmas in our Christmas celebrations.
CLERICUS SAYS: You may as well divorce the thought from the word in living speech. You may as well divide the soul from the body, and hope to leave the living man, as you may separate from the gospel of the New Testament, from the religion which calls itself Christianity, the belief in the Word made flesh.

Lesson Prayer.
Dear Father, we thank thee for thy unmeasured love to us. We are here today because of this. Remind us all of thy great gift of love to us and of the tidings of great joy. In this time of rejoicing, when our hearts are filled with gifts and giving, may we not forget the cost of our salvation, and may we be such messengers of the Gospel that others who do not yet know them may find a new message in this Christmas time. We ask it in the name of Jesus. Amen.

Book Review.
The World's Greatest Religious Poetry, by Dr. Caroline Miles Hill. The Macmillan company, New York. Is a collection furnishing delightful reading and consolation to restore the soul as well as to supply material for the study of history and psychology of religion, arranged in twelve religious concepts. A war-weary world in search of faith turns to the great poets today.

God's Best Secrets, by Andrew Murray. The Biola Book Room, 536-558 S. Hope St., Los Angeles, Calif., helps Christians to see the absolute necessity of intercourse with the Lord Jesus. Suggestions for giving God time day by day in the inner chamber fill the chapters.

SERMONOGRAMS

Revenge is sweet, but forgiveness is sweeter.
Prayer weaves into your nature the Divine Spirit—Wierpel.
We think from Principle as we act from principles.
When you think you are wise you are usually otherwise.
Prayers keys your nature so that God can play upon it.

Frequently a well-fed body houses a half starved soul.
You express gratefulness to God by doing kindnesses to man.
The modern church prefers a live wire to an inflated tire.
When you speak an untruth you blur the windows of your soul.
The thots you think indicate the path you will travel along.
Religion is the oasis in this desert of human trials and experience.
If you are not kind or courteous to another, you are the main sufferer.
Duty to God is never fulfilled unless expressed in greater service to man.

Every friend you make adds health, strength and well-being to your nature.

CHURCH SERVICES

WELLSVILLE CHURCHES.
First Presbyterian church—Morning worship, 11 o'clock.
Prelude, March of the Wise Men—Adelste Fiddels—George W. Morgan.
Anthem, "O Holy Night" (Adam).
Tenor solo and quartet.
Solo, "There's a Song in the Air" (Oley Speaks)—George Imbrie.
Offertory, "In Moonlight"—Ralph Kinder.
Anthem, "There Were Shepherds"—Frederic W. Mansfield; soprano solo and quartet.
Sermon, "Gratitude for God's Un-speakable Gift"—Rev. F. H. Magill.
Postlude, Hallelujah Chorus (Handel).
Quartet—Miss Pauline Berg, Mrs. R. H. Mick, James McQueen, E. L. Kretzer; Mrs. J. F. Hamilton, organist.
Evening service, 7 o'clock.
Prelude, "Christmas in Stilly" (Pietro Yon).
Offertory, Angela's Serenade; Transcription (G. Braga).
Postlude, "Triumphal March" (Naylor).

In place of a sermon the Sunday school will present the beautiful Christmas pageant, entitled "The Shepherd's Vision." This will be acted out by a large number of persons in costume and will be interpreted with appropriate songs and accompanied by soft music.
As a part of this delightful program, "White Gifts for the King," will be brought forward by the Sunday school classes and the congregation. These gifts will consist in substance, service and self.
This will be a most attractive and delightful service as well as one of worship and consecration.
To both of these services the public is most heartily invited.

The Church of Christ—Meeting at 17th and Commerce streets. Worship "Lord's Day," 10:30. Lesson Ephesians, first chapter, will be read by Merle Miller. Singing, prayers, exhortation, admonitions, teaching, contribution, Lord's Supper, benediction. Preaching 7:30. Pulpit will be occupied by L. E. Miller. Come and learn the truth. Get ready for the protracted meeting February 10. T. Q. Martin will be in charge and the meeting will continue indefinitely.

Second Presbyterian Church—Thos. G. Berger, pastor. Bible school 9:45. J. D. S. McLean, Supt. Morning worship 11:00. Theme: "No Room for Jesus." Junior C. E. 6:00. Senior C. E. 6:00. Evening service 7:00. Theme: "Regeneration." There will be special Christmas music at all services.

First Methodist Protestant Church, Main at Tenth Street, Rev. R. Ernest Games, Pastor. Two attractive Christmas services will be rendered Sunday. The Sunday School will assemble at the usual hour, 9:45 a. m. Following the opening exercises the Christmas lesson will be presented in a ten-minute talk by the Pastor on "God's Gift To the World," after which a program consisting of recitations, dialogues, exercises and class songs will be presented by the Sunday school. The decorations will be in keeping with the idea of a White Christmas and White Gifts will be presented to the King whose birthday we celebrate. Evening service—At 7 p. m. the choir will render a Christmas service of story and song, entitled, "The Star of Glory." Mrs. Oliver Cummings will preside at the organ and Miss Lillian Davis will relate the Christmas story, which will be interpreted with solos, duets, quartets and choruses. The service is announced for an early hour so it will not interfere with the Community service at the Public Square, at 8:45. You are invited to all of these services.

Church of the Ascension—Church School 9:45. Evening service and sermon, "Judgment of Mercy," 7:30. On Christmas Eve, Dec. 24, the church Sunday School will hold their Christmas entertainment at 7:30, followed by the Christmas Service by the rector. Holy Communion and short address 8:30 p. m.

United Presbyterian Church, R. W. Ustick, pastor. Bible School 9:45 a. m. Supt. L. E. Burris. Morning worship 11 o'clock. Sermon "The Meaning of Christmas." Special music at this service. Junior Missionary Society 2:30 p. m. Christmas Vesper Service at 5 p. m. Special programs for this service printed elsewhere in the paper. The Kiwanis Club has been extended a cordial invitation to attend this service. Young Peoples Group meets at 6 p. m. following the Vesper Service. "The Christmas Story in Poetry and Song." Lk. 2:8-16. Community Christmas service at the Square at 8:45. No prayer meeting on Wednesday night. The Christmas entertainment and treat will be held Thursday evening, Christmas night, at 7:30. A play adapted from "The Christmas Carol," by Dickens, will be given at this service. The entire Bible school and congregation, and friends, are urged to attend this service. The public is cordially invited to attend all the services of Christmas week at this church.

Nazarene Mission—Sabbath School 2:30 p. m. Chas. Wood, Supt. Evangelistic Service at 3:15 p. m. Sermon by Rev. A. B. Riggs.

CHURCH ITEMS FROM WORLD

Central Congregational church, Topeka, Kan., served by Rev. Charles M. Sheldon, author of "In His Steps" for thirty-five years, has completed and dedicated a $129,000 parish house as a memorial to Dr. Sheldon.

Prof. George Palmer has endowed a professorship in history at the University of Michigan as a memorial to his wife, Alice Freeman Palmer, one of the most distinguished graduates of the university. The terms of the gift direct that the chair shall be filled by a woman.

Following his retirement from the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church, New York City, March 1st of next year, Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick announces that he will spend a year in travel and study in Egypt and Palestine. This is the first time in twenty years that Dr. Fosdick has had an opportunity for a Sabbatical year vacation.

There is a Christian-owned plant in China that is impressing tourists. The Commercial Press in Shanghai was started by Christian Chinese and has always been run on Christian principles, though a paying business enterprise. Five hundred out of three thousand employees are professing Christians. There is a nine-hour day, no Sunday work, a grant of two months pay for mothers at time their babies are born, a nursery, an attractive garden and a club building. There are bonuses, a savings department and retiring grants, and about everything up-to-date. The capital is $5,000,000 and there is not a foreigner connected with the concern.

Canada's "United Church," the coalition of Presbyterians, Methodists and Congregationalists, will be formally created next June when the governing councils of the three denominations will meet separately and together during the same week in Toronto. It is expected that the Presbyterian congregations what will decide prior to that time not to join the United Church will be about twenty-five per cent of the denomination.

The Presbyterian Synod of California has under way plans for building of homes for retired ministers, to congregate, equipping and endowing a colony of a central building surrounded by a number of small bungalows. A fund of not less than $500,000 will be required to carry the scheme to completion but it is expected to provide a real home for old age.

A Hamilton-Jefferson association was organized at Utica, New York, recently, among members being fifty Protestants nearly all Masons, and a like number of Catholics the majority of whom affiliated with the Knights of Columbus. It is declared to be a non-sectarian, non-partisan group to foster patriotic ideals and a spirit of toleration in economics, politics and religion. Elihu Root, formerly secretary of the interior, gave the address at the organization.

The statistical department of the city of Tokyo reports that the following losses and damages caused by the earthquake and fire in Japan: Tokyo $1,900,000,000; Yokohama, $590,000,000; other areas, $250,000,000. This does not include losses of treasures and personal property. With these included losses would total $5,000,000,000.

HOME TRAINING

Truth Rather Than Position.
"I want a very fine weave in this material," said a customer to a young clerk who knowing that such was not in stock said, "I am sorry, but we have nothing with a finer weave."
The proprietor hearing the conversation was indignant and later said to the young clerk, "Why did you not show other goods? You are here to make sales and never to let a customer leave if it is possible to sell him anything."
"But we did not have the quality in the material that he wanted, and when he asked me a plain question, to be honest, I had to tell him that we had nothing with a finer weave."
"Young man," said the proprietor, "if you can't stretch the truth a little to fit the circumstances, you will never do for me."
"Very well, if I must tell falsehoods in order to keep my place, I must lose it. That's all."
This clerk was Marshall Field, who later became one of the kings of commerce, while the dishonest employer became a bankrupt and died in poverty.
D. CAL YODER.

LIVE QUESTIONS FOR DISCUSSION

Live Questions for Discussion on the Sunday School Lesson—God's Gift to the World (Christmas Lesson)—John 1:4-18; 3:16-21—for Sunday, December 21.
1. Do you regard the term "word" a good one to describe Jesus Christ in his relation to the Father God? Why?
2. What is next important to being the light in this case?
3. What is it to be a child of God in the highest and truest sense? How do men's treatment of Christ show and determine their character?
4. How would the preaching of John 3:16, 17 hasten world peace and universal brotherhood?
5. Why is the coming of Christ in the flesh the greatest of God's gifts to men?
6. How can we keep the spirit of Christmas in our Christmas celebrations.

CLERICUS SAYS: You may as well divorce the thought from the word in living speech. You may as well divide the soul from the body, and hope to leave the living man, as you may separate from the gospel of the New Testament, from the religion which calls itself Christianity, the belief in the Word made flesh.

Lesson Prayer.
Dear Father, we thank thee for thy unmeasured love to us. We are here today because of this. Remind us all of thy great gift of love to us and of the things of great joy. In this time of rejoicing, when our hearts are filled with gifts and giving, may we not forget the cost of our salvation, and may we be such messengers of the Gospel that others who do not yet know thee may find a new message in this Christmas time. We ask it in the name of Jesus. Amen.

Book Review.
The World's Greatest Religions Poetry, by Dr. Caroline Miles Hill, The MacMillan company, New York, is a collection furnishing delightful reading and consolation to restore the soul as well as to supply material for the study of history and psychology of religion, arranged in twelve religious concepts. A war-weary world in search of faith turns to the great poets today.

God's Best Secrets, by Andrew Murray, The Biola Book Room, 636-558 S. Hope St., Los Angeles, Calif., helps Christians to see the absolute necessity of intercourse with the Lord Jesus. Suggestions for giving God time day by day in the inner chamber fill the chapters.

SERMONOGRAMS

Revenge is sweet, but forgiveness is sweeter.
Prayer weaves into your nature the Divine Spirit—Wisper.
We think from Principle as we act from principles.
When you think you are wise you are usually otherwise.
Prayers keys your nature so that God can play upon it.
Frequently a well-fed body houses a half starved soul.
You express gratefulness to God by doing kindnesses to man.
The modern church prefers a live wire to an inflated tire.
When you speak an untruth you blur the windows of your soul.
The things you think indicate the path you will travel along.
Religion is the oasis in this desert of human trials and experience.
If you are not kind or courteous to another, you are the main fulfilled.
Duty to God is never fulfilled unless expressed in greater service to man.

WELLSVILLE CHURCHES.

First Presbyterian church.—Morning worship, 11 o'clock.
Prelude, "March of the Wise Men"—A. J. Fiedels.—George W. Morgan.
Solo, "O Holy Night" (Adam).
Piano solo and quartet.
Solo, "There's a Song in the Air" (Oley Speaks)—George Imbrie.
Offertory, "In Moonlight"—Ralph Kinder.
Anthem, "There Were Shepherds"—Frederic W. Mansfield; soprano solo and quartet.
Sermon, "Gratitude for God's Unsearchable Gift"—Rev. E. H. Magill.
Postlude, "Hallelujah Chorus" (Handel).
Quartet—Miss Pauline Berg, Mrs. R. H. Mick, James McQueen, E. L. Kretzer; Mrs. J. F. Hamilton, organist.
Evening service, 7 o'clock.
Prelude, "Christmas in Italy" (Pietro Yon).
Offertory, "Angels' Serenade"; Transcription (G. Braga).
Postlude, "Triumphal March" (Naylor).
In place of a sermon the Sunday school will present the beautiful Christmas pageant, entitled "The Shepherd's Vision." This will be acted out by a large number of persons in costume and will be interspersed with appropriate songs and accompanied by soft music.

A part of this delightful program, "White Gifts for the King," will be brought forward by the Sunday school classes and the congregation. These gifts will consist in substance, service and self.
This will be a most attractive and delightful service as well as one of worship and consecration.
To both of these services the public is most heartily invited.

The Church of Christ.—Meeting at 17th and Commerce streets. Worship "Lord's Day," 10:30. Lesson Ephesians, first chapter, will be read by Merle Miller. Singing, prayers, exhortation, admonitions, teaching, contribution, Lord's Supper, benediction. Preaching 7:30. Pulpit will be occupied by L. E. Miller. Come and learn the truth. Get ready for the great meeting February 10. T. Q. Martin will be in charge and the meeting will continue indefinitely.

Second Presbyterian Church.—Thos. G. Berger, pastor. Bible School 9:45. J. D. S. McLean, Supt. Morning worship 11:00. Theme: "No Room for Jesus." Junior C. E. 6:00. Senior C. E. 6:00. Evening service 7:00. Theme: "Regeneration." There will be special Christmas music at all services.

First Methodist Protestant Church, Main at Tenth Street, Rev. R. Ernest Games, Pastor. Two attractive Christmas services will be rendered Sunday. The Sunday School will assemble at the usual hour, 9:45 a. m. Following the opening exercises the Christmas lesson will be presented in a ten-minute talk by the Pastor on "God's Gift to the World," after which a program consisting of recitations, dialogues, exercises and class songs will be presented by the Sunday school. The decorations will be in keeping with the idea of a White Christmas and White Gifts will be presented to the King whose birthday we celebrate. Evening service—At 7 p. m., the choir will render a Christmas service of story and song, entitled, "The Star of Glory." Mrs. Oliver Cummings will preside at the organ and Miss Lillian Davis will relate the Christmas story, which will be interpreted with solos, duets, quartets and choruses. The service is announced for an early hour so it will not interfere with the Community service at the Public Square, at 8:45. You are invited to all of these services.

Church of the Ascension.—Church School 9:45. Evening service and sermon, "Judgment of Mercy," 7:30. On Christmas Eve, Dec. 24, the church Sunday School will hold their Christmas entertainment at 7:30, followed by the Christmas Service by the pastor. Holy Communion and short address 8:30 p. m.

United Presbyterian Church, R. W. Utick, pastor. Bible School 9:45 a. m., Supt. L. E. Burris. Morning Worship 11 o'clock. Sermon "The Meaning of Christmas." Special music at this service. Junior Missionary Society 2:30 p. m. Christmas Vesper Service at 5 p. m. Special programme for this service printed elsewhere in the paper. The Kiwanis Club has been extended a cordial invitation to attend this service. Young Peoples Group meets at 6 p. m., following the Vesper Service. The Christmas Story in Poetry and Song, Lk. 2:8-16. Community Christmas service at the Square at 8:45. No prayer meeting on Wednesday night. The Christmas entertainment and treat will be held Thursday evening, Christmas night, at 7:30. A play adapted from "The Christmas Carol," by Dickens, will be given. The Christmas treat will be given at this service. The entire Bible school and congregation, and friends are urged to attend this service. The public is cordially invited to attend all the services of Christmas week at this church.

Nazareth Mission.—Sabbath School 2:30 p. m., Chas. Wood, Supt. Evangelistic Service at 3:15 p. m. Sermon by Rev. A. B. Riggs.
Postlude, "Triumphal March" (Naylor).

Following the opening exercises the Christmas lesson will be presented in a ten-minute talk by the Pastor on "God's Gift to the World," after which a program consisting of recitations, dialogues, exercises and class songs will be presented by the Sunday school. The decorations will be in keeping with the idea of a White Christmas and White Gifts will be presented to the King whose birthday we celebrate. Evening service—At 7 p. m., the choir will render a Christmas service of story and song, entitled, "The Star of Glory." Mrs. Oliver Cummings will preside at the organ and Miss Lillian Davis will relate the Christmas story, which will be interpreted with solos, duets, quartets and choruses. The service is announced for an early hour so it will not interfere with the Community service at the Public Square, at 8:45. You are invited to all of these services.

Church of the Ascension.—Church School 9:45. Evening service and sermon, "Judgment of Mercy," 7:30. On Christmas Eve, Dec. 24, the church Sunday School will hold their Christmas entertainment at 7:30, followed by the Christmas Service by the pastor. Holy Communion and short address 8:30 p. m.

United Presbyterian Church, R. W. Utick, pastor. Bible School 9:45 a. m., Supt. L. E. Burris. Morning Worship 11 o'clock. Sermon "The Meaning of Christmas." Special music at this service. Junior Missionary Society 2:30 p. m. Christmas Vesper Service at 5 p. m. Special programme for this service printed elsewhere in the paper. The Kiwanis Club has been extended a cordial invitation to attend this service. Young Peoples Group meets at 6 p. m., following the Vesper Service. The Christmas Story in Poetry and Song, Lk. 2:8-16. Community Christmas service at the Square at 8:45. No prayer meeting on Wednesday night. The Christmas entertainment and treat will be held Thursday evening, Christmas night, at 7:30. A play adapted from "The Christmas Carol," by Dickens, will be given. The Christmas treat will be given at this service. The entire Bible school and congregation, and friends are urged to attend this service. The public is cordially invited to attend all the services of Christmas week at this church.

Nazareth Mission.—Sabbath School 2:30 p. m., Chas. Wood, Supt. Evangelistic Service at 3:15 p. m. Sermon by Rev. A. B. Riggs.
Postlude, "Triumphal March" (Naylor).
In place of a sermon the Sunday school will present the beautiful Christmas pageant, entitled "The Shepherd's Vision." This will be acted out by a large number of persons in costume and will be interspersed with appropriate songs and accompanied by soft music.

A part of this delightful program, "White Gifts for the King," will be brought forward by the Sunday school classes and the congregation. These gifts will consist in substance, service and self.

This will be a most attractive and delightful service as well as one of worship and consecration.

To both of these services the public is most heartily invited.

LIVE QUESTIONS FOR DISCUSSION

Live Questions for Discussion on the Sunday School Lesson—God's Gift to the World (Christmas Lesson)—John 1:4-18; 3:16-21—for Sunday, December 21.

1. Do you regard the term "word" a good one to describe Jesus Christ in his relation to the Father God? Why?
2. What is next important to being the light in this case?
3. What is it to be a child of God in the highest and truest sense? How do men's treatment of Christ show and determine their character?
4. How would the preaching of John 3:16, 17 hasten world peace and universal brotherhood?
5. Why is the coming of Christ in the flesh the greatest of God's gifts to men?
6. How can we keep the spirit of Christmas in our Christmas celebrations.

CLERICUS SAYS: You may as well divorce the thought from the word in living speech. You may as well divide the soul from the body and hope to lead the living man, as you may separate from the gospel of the New Testament, from the religion which calls itself Christianity, the belief in the Word made flesh.

Lesson Prayer.
Dear Father, we thank thee for thy unmeasured love to us. We are here today because of this. Remind us all of thy great gift of love to us and of the tidings of great joy. In this time of rejoicing, when our hearts are filled with gifts and giving, may we not forget the cost of our salvation, and may we be such messengers of the Gospel that others who do not yet know thee may find a new message in this Christmas time. We ask it in the name of Jesus, Amen.

Book Review.
The World's Greatest Religious Poetry, by Dr. Caroline Miles Hill. The Macmillan company, New York, is a collection furnishing delightful reading and consolation to restore the soul as well as to supply material for the study of history and psychology of religion, arranged in two religious concepts. A war-weary world in search of faith turns to the great poets today.
God's Best Secrets, by Andrew Murray. The Biola Book Room, 536-558 S. Hope St., Los Angeles, Calif., helps Christians to see the absolute necessity of intercourse with the Lord Jesus. Suggestions for giving God time day by day in the inner chamber fill the chapters.

SERMONOGRAMS

Revenge is sweet, but forgiveness is sweeter.
Prayer weaves into your nature the Divine Spirit—Wiprel.
We think from Principle as we act from principles.
When you think you are wise you are usually otherwise.
Prayers keys your nature so that God can play upon it.
Frequently a well-fed body houses a half-starved soul.
You express gratefulness to God by doing kindnesses to man.
The modern church prefers a live wire to an inflated tire.
When you speak an untruth you blur the windows of your soul.
The thots you think indicate the path you will travel along.
Religion is the oasis in this desert of human trials and experience.
If you are not kind or courteous to another, you are the main sufferer.
Duty to God is never fulfilled unless expressed in greater service to man.
Every friend you make adds health, strength and well-being to your nature.

CHURCHES TO GIVE XMAS PROGRAMS

Services will be held in the churches of this section tomorrow morning and evening at the usual hours. Sermons will be delivered by the respective pastors. Christmas hymns will be sung by the choirs at the evening services.

Annual programs will be given in most of the churches Christmas evening. Members of the Sunday schools will have part in the exercises during which treats will be distributed. Program will be given at the Second United Presbyterian church Sunday evening, December 28. This will be in charge of Mrs. John L. Robins.

Special musical program will be given tomorrow evening in the Second Presbyterian church. Violin and vocal solos will be rendered by members of the choir.

Swindlers Operating.

Police of the upper Beaver Valley are seeking several men who have passed numerous worthless checks in that section during the past week. Numbers of business houses have been victimized out of sums ranging from $40 to $80, according to the police.

Thompson Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Maude Thompson, wife of James F. Thompson, who died at Moundsville, W. Va., were held this afternoon at the Second United Presbyterian church. Rev. J. A. Campbell, officiating. Burial was made in Riverview cemetery.

Attend Lodge Meet.

Members of Pennova lodge, No. 880, attended the meeting last evening in the I. O. O. F. building, Sixth street. Delegations were present from many lodges in the district.

A Hint for Beginners
The cross-word puzzle diagram is merely a means of concealing words which are synonymous to those listed and which will interlock perfectly and so read equally well crosswise or downwards. Always look for the number of the synonym on the diagram. If horizontal, you must find a word to fit between that number and the first shaded stop to the right; if vertical, you must fit your word between the number and the first shaded stop below.

Grand Opera Company to the Ceramic Theatre, Thursday evening, January 15, when Fortune Gail will present his organization in a performance of "Madame Butterfly."

The success of the San Carlo Company this season has been phenomenal. Entering upon its ninth annual engagement in New York, this company opened the new Jolson Theatre, playing four weeks to capacity houses. This engagement was followed by two-week visits to Boston and Philadelphia, after which the coast-to-coast tour follows, when nearly every city in the country will be visited.

Conspicuous among the artists who will sing in East Liverpool is Miss Elda Vettori. Miss Vettori has often been called the most beautiful woman on the operatic stage. And to personal beauty she adds a voice of great beauty and of the true dramatic timbre. Also, she is a singing actress of the highest order—a singer who acts as well as she sings.

Many old favorites, greatly esteemed.

CHERRY VALLEY PLANT RESUMES

Leetonia Furnace Calls Men to Work on Monday.

The Cherry Valley plant of the Hanna Furnace Company, at Leetonia, which has been idle since October 1, will resume operations next Monday officials of the company have just announced.

The coke ovens were lighted early this week in anticipation of the resumption of work in all departments next week. While the plant was idle, all regular employees, augmented by an additional force of about 100 from out-of-town, have been engaged in making extensive repairs and improvements.

Among the improvements is a new steel trestle and electric car which will be used in handling materials. The company will be enabled to increase its output by reason of the labor-saving devices which have been installed.

Other Leetonia industries have bright prospects for business in 1925. The Crescent Machine company is operating steadily, while the Leetonia Tool company and the Acme Cultivator company are running to a 100 percent capacity with sufficient orders on hand to assure steady employment for many weeks, it is claimed.

ed by local music-lovers, will be heard, as well as several new singers. Never before has this producer presented so many brilliant stars in one season, and never such a well organized chorus or thoroughly trained orchestra. East Liverpool can look forward confidently to one of its most resplendent operatic surpluses and breaks all past records.

There is no other company in the country that has a higher general personnel. It is the only permanently organized grand opera company touring in America today.

A Hint for Beginners

The cross-word puzzle diagram is merely a means of concealing words which are synonymous to those listed and which will interlock perfectly and so read equally well crosswise or downwards. Always look for the number of the synonym on the diagram. If horizontal, you must find a word to fit between that number and the first shaded stop to the right; if vertical, you must fit your word between the number and the first shaded stop below.

CHERRY VALLEY
PLANT RESUMES

Leetonia Furnace Calls
Men to Work on Monday.

The Cherry Valley plant of the Hanna Furnace Company, at Leetonia, which has been idle since October 1, will resume operations next Monday officials of the company have just announced.

The coke ovens were lighted early this week in anticipation of the resumption of work in all departments next week. While the plant was idle, all regular employees, augmented by an additional force of about 100 from out of town, have been engaged in making extensive repairs and improvements.

Among the improvements is a new steel trestle and electric car which will be used in handling materials. The company will be enabled to increase its output by reason of the labor-saving devices which have been installed.

Other Leetonia industries have bright prospects for business in 1925. The Crescent Machine company is operating steadily, while the Leetonia Tool company and the Acme Cultivator company are running to a 100 percent capacity with sufficient orders on hand to assure steady employment for many weeks, it is claimed.

ed by local music-lovers, will be heard, as well as several new singers. Never before has this producer presented so many brilliant stars in one season, and never such a well organized chorus or thoroughly trained orchestra. East Liverpool can look forward confidently to one of its most resplendent operatic surges and breaks all past records.

There is no other company in the country that has a higher general personnel. It is the only permanently organized grand opera company touring in America today.

San Carlo Company Comes Here Jan. 15 From Eastern Cities

Grand opera lovers in East Liverpool are looking forward eagerly to the coming visit of the San Carlo

Grand Opera Company to the Ceramic Theatre, Thursday evening, January 15, when Fortune Gallo will present his organization in a performance of "Madame Butterfly." The success of the San Carlo Company this season has been phenomenal. Entering upon its ninth annual engagement in New York, this company opened the new Jolson Theatre, playing four weeks to capacity houses. This engagement was followed by two-week visits to Boston and Philadelphia, after which the coast-to-coast tour follows, when nearly every city in the country will be visited.

Conspicuous among the artists who will sing in East Liverpool is Miss Eida Vettori. Miss Vettori has often been called the most beautiful woman on the operatic stage. And to personal beauty she adds a voice of great beauty and of the true dramatic timbre. Also, she is a singing actress of the highest order—a singer who acts as well as she sings. Many old favorites, greatly esteemed.
